U. S. CHARGES CHINESE AGGRESSION

Allies Yield Three Key Towns To Reds

Communists, Exploiting Their Breakthrough, Swing 13 Miles In Behind American Positions

MacArthur, Reporting "New War," Talks 4 Hours With Top Generals

TOKYO Wednesday, Nov. 29 (AP)—Chinese Reds swung 13 miles in behind American positions in Northwest Korea today through the crushed east flank of the 75-mile United Nations front.

American reinforcemnets and tanks rushed up to meet the flank menace while U. N. forces in the west and center of the line made an orderly withdrawal up to 10 miles southward toward the Chogchon river.

The withdrawing forces yielded the key towns of Yongbyon and Yongsan on the northwest side of the river and Won on the east bank.

The critical situation, posed by 200,000 Chinese Reds and 70,000 North Koreans, amounted to "an entirely new war," Gen. MacArthur said in a special communique. He promptly summoned his two top generals in Korea and Tokyo for an emergency conference. It lasted four hours.

From Red-captured Tokchon, at the east end of the front, the onrushing Communists rolled 23 miles southeast to the town of Samso. It is 13 air miles south of Won on the Chongchon river.

Withdrawing U. S. infantrymen have taken up new positions near Won.

Reds Threaten Supply Line

At Samso, the Reds are less than five miles from a railroad leading up from the big U. N. supply base at Sunchon, 11 miles to the south.

MacArthur's 110,000-man U. N. army in Northwest Korea, which had launched an end-the-war offensive last Friday, fell back before the onslaughts of 14 Chinese divisions and elements of seven North Korean divisions.

Seven more Chinese divisions were in action in Northeast Korea, barring a move by U. S. Marines to strike west and cut supply lines behind the Red counteroffensive in the northwest.

The battle at Samso developed after the Communists ambushed a platoon of the U. S. First Cavalry Division.

First Cavalry reinforcements moved up to battle with a Chinese regiments and inflicted from 500 to 600 casualties.

A. U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said American tanks have moved into the continuing fight against the Chinese who still were throwing massed infantry forward despite huge losses.

"Two-Platoon" System

The spokesman said withdrawals at the west and center of the front were orderly despite heavy enemy pressure. But he acknowledged the situation was extremely grave on the east flank where three South Korean divisions collapsed three days ago.

The Reds were swiftly exploiting this breakthrough. Chinese Reds were reported swarming along "every road, gully and ridgeline" in an area from Tokchon north for 35 miles.

Four Chinese regiments smashed into the Pukchang area, 12 miles south of Tokchon.

In the breakthrough sector, Chinese at more than division strength —8,000 to 10,000 men—smashed at South Korean troops attempting to cover the reorganization of the three divisions comprising the Republic of Korea Second Corps.

Eighth Army observers said the Chinese were striking with American football's "two-platoon" system. The Reds strike first with a regiment or division. When that force falters, a fresh regiment or division moves on through to sustain the attack.

War May Keep Congress On Job Over Christmas

Crisis Overshadows Home-Front Issues

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The grave turn of events in Korea cast a shadow of foreboding over Congress today and brought predictions that it may force the lawmakers to stand by over Christmas for any emergency.

Behind closed doors, Secretary of State Acheson is reported to have told senators that the mass onslaught of Chinese Communists in Korea demands immediate decisions on the next moves in the crisis.

Legislators raised such questions as these.

1. Whether Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be authorized to bomb supply lines and Red troops massed behind the border in Manchuria. Some lawmakers advocated use of the atomic bomb.

2. Whether Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa shall now be thrown into battle against the Chinese Communists.

Acheson is said to have told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a two-hour session this forenoon, that grave as the situation is in Korea, it is no more serious than the danger in Europe.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said Acheson "especially emphasized the dangerous situation in Yugoslavia," where Marshall Tito has been under mounting pressure following his break with the Kremlin.

Although overshadowed by events in Korea, a series of important home-front issues engaged Congress on this second day of its "lame duck" session—that last session before the new 82nd Congress meets on Jan. 3.

In general, the legislative picture reflected a threat of a Senate filibuster over the question of Alaska-Hawaii statehood, increasing Republican opposition to an administration tax bill, and an apparent reluctance to extend federal rent controls as requested by President Truman.

Something mighty like a filibuster against the Alaska statehood bill developed in the Senate.

One strong opponent of the legislation admitted as much. A reporter asked bluntly if a filibuster was on. The senator replied:

"You can call it that."

This wasn't any spectacular one-man show, as sometimes has been the case in the Senate. But the determination to delay action by any means available was hardly mistakable.

Truman In-Law, Binaggio Linked

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Kansas City Star, in a dispatch from Albuquerque, N. M., said today that Charles Binaggio, Kansas City political boss, was preparing to invest $200,000 in a pumice company operated by D. F. Wallace, brother-in-law of President Truman, at the time Binaggio was slain last April.

The story said the company was formed in 1949 by Dennis Chavez, Jr., son of Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N. M.), and Blevins Davis, wealthy theatrical producer and friend of President Truman, and that it had obtained a $50,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The company obtained a large armed forces contract for building blocks which later was cancelled because the concern stood to lose $50,000 on the deal, the Star continued.

The story was carried under the by-line of Jack Swift, a Star staff writer who has been touring the west with the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Break In Big Water Main Floods Part Of Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28 (AP)—A 40-inch water main burst in downtown Baltimore tonight, cutting off the supply to thousands of homes and other buildings for more than two hours.

A several square-mile area of central, south and southwest Baltimore was affected.

The Baltimore Sun was unable to print its first edition in its present plant, a block from the break at Charles and Lombard streets.

However, it was able to make an emergency run in a new production plant to be opened formally next month several blocks north of the present building.

Water cascaded a foot or more deep down Charles and Lombard streets, flooding cellars of many office and commercial buildings and tying up traffic throughout the downtown area.

South Baltimore General Hospital was entirely without water, and pressure dropped badly on some of the upper floors of University hospital.

Radio stations carried emergency warnings to commercial building owners to shut off boilers.

Firemen were faced with the all-night task of pumping out cellars in the flooded area.

The cause of the break was not determined immediately.

Use A-Bomb, Legislators Say

Town On Site Of H-Bomb Plant

This is the village of Ellenton, S. C., one of four ttowns whose residents will have to be relocated to make way for the establishment of a huge atomic energy plant to make materials for the hydrogen bomb. Ellenton, largest of the towns, has a population of about 1,000. Most unanimous thought expressed by village folk when they heard the news was, "Let's move somewhere together."

Trumanites Lose Excess Profits Test

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The administration lost its first test today in the fight over a proposed $4,000,000,000 excess profits tax on corporations.

The deepening war crisis in Korea, however, set government officials talking about more military spending and a bigger profit—and made a heavy increase in taxation more certain than ever in the months ahead.

Move Loses On Deadlock

The administration's preliminary setback came on a vote in the tax-writing House. Ways and Means Committee on a move to clamp down an excess profits tax on corporate earnings in excess of 75 per cent of the average of the best three years in the 1946-49 period.

With one Democrat absent, the committee voted 12 to 12. The proposal thus lost on the deadlock.

Another vote will be taken tomorrow.

Republicans want to apply the special tax only to profits above the full average for the three-year period, cutting out the administration's 75 per cent base figure.

Action Next Year Predicted

Amid the developing fight, some Republican leaders predicted that final action on taxes will go over to the new 83nd Congress in January. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said he personally doesn't feel "bound" to enact tax legislation until the new year.

Although deadlocked on the major issue, the House committee tentatively agreed on special treatment for some public utilities, including interstate water, gas electricity, telephone and pipeline companies.

Wreck Toll Reaches 78

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The toll in the Thanksgiving eve collision of two Long Island Railroad trains rose to 78 today with the death of one of those injured. The latest victim was Samuel Goldstein, 55, Rockville Centre, N. Y.

South Carolina Site Chosen For Development Of H-Bomb

Truman Due To Ask Atomic Funds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A huge program to develop the H-bomb and to step up production of the atom bomb was outlined today, at a possible cost of more than $1,250,000,000.

The Atomic Energy Commission picked a 250,000-acre tract in South Carolina for development work on the H-bomb.

At the same time, congressional sources said they expected President Truman to ask soon, possibly tomorrow, for funds for a vast expansion of atomic energy and electrical power production in the Tennessee valley. There were indications this expansion would cost close to $1,000,000,000.

The South Carolina project will cost $260,000,000 with a possibility of more funds to come. If fully successful, it will give this country by far the deadliest weapon in history.

AEC Chairman Gordon Dean told Congress in asking for the money last July that the commission would build facilities "which can either make materials for A-bombs, H-bombs or fissionable material for use in power reactors."

Today, following the announcement that the site had been selected, Rep. Gore (D-Tenn) said he expected President Truman to ask for much larger sums to build plants which would produce the A-bomb material, uranium-235.

"I anticipate the new construction will be done within the Tennessee Valley Authority distribution territory," Gore told reporters. "This will require additional very large TVA generating facilities—probably several more steam plants."

Gore said the House Appropriations Subcommittee that handles such requests will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning.

The site is in Aiken and Barnwell counties, South Carolina, near the Savannah river. The location was chosen over 100 other sites after four months consideration.

Construction of several big plants there will start early in 1951 and will force about 1,500 families in the area to relocate in the next 18 months.

Villagers Accept Dislocation News With Patriotism

ELLENTON, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) — Residents of this rural settlement were stunned today when informed that their town will be levelled to make way for a giant hydrogen bomb plant.

But, despite the harshness of the shock, they accepted it with heart-warming patriotism.

Dr. Fred C. Brinkley, who has practiced here for 40 years, summed up by saying:

"It is rather crushing to have to give up your home, the land you love and most of all your friends. But if it is best for my country and, knowing that others are sacrificing so much more, then I am willing."

Export Controls Effective Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A Commerce Department official said today controls to prevent any strategic materials from being shipped through the United States to Russia or her "satellites" will go into effect soon.

The spokesman, Wallace S. Thomas, deputy assistant director of the Office of International Trade in charge of export supply, made the statement after a conference with businessmen here.

Last week the Commerce Department, under fire in the Senate because of transshipments of steel and other strategic material to Red China, announced it was considering a ban on such shipments.

Previously controls have applied only to strategic goods produced in this country.

Thomas met today with a group of exporters, importers, bankers and transportation officials at the Commerce Department's regional offices.

He said the group "expressed thorough agreement with the objectives of the regulations."

Red Cross Goal Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The American Red Cross, facing heavy new demands as a result of the defense program, set a goal of $85,000,000 today for its 1951 fund campaign, starting March 1.

211 New War Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The Defense Department today issued Korean casualty list No. 162 containing 211 names.

Killed By School Bus

SILVER SPRING, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) —Nancy Jeanne Allen, six-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Allen, Kensington, was crushed to death this afternoon under a wheel of her school bus.

Police said the bus backed over the child's head after knocking her down at the entrance to the playground of St. John's parochial school.

U. S. Takes Grave View Of Setbacks In Korea Fighting

Truman, Security Council In Huddle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The U. S. government, shocked and spurred to fresh action by the grave turn of events in Korea, today sought urgent measures to halt the Red tide in the Far East and at other danger spots all along the iron curtain.

There were plain indications of official concern that a third world war could be developing—and that the threat might not be confined to Korea.

On Capitol Hill, some voices were raised in favor of using the atom bomb against the onsurging Chinese Communists.

President Truman met with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making agency in matters affecting the country's safety.

The White House dropped a thick cloak of secrecy over the hour-and-15-minute meeting. The President's military and diplomatic advisers left his office in sober, tight-lipped silence.

Marshall Voices Concern

Secretary of Defense Marshall, after conferring earlier with Mr. Truman, said the free world is faced with "a very critical situation" which the United Nations must resolutely "face up to."

Congressional leaders likewise voiced deepest concern over the Far Eastern crisis.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said it may force Congress to stay in session through Christmas.

In an impassioned floor speech, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) called for an ultimatum telling the Russians they must pull the Chinese troops out of North Korea.

O'Mahoney didn't say what this country should do if the Russians failed to heed such an ultimatum. He told reporters later they could draw their own conclusions. An ultimatum normally implies a threat of military action.

Sen. Robertson (D-Va) called the situation in Korea "as critical as any in our history," and added:

"I think the next three days will determine whether we are at war with China and Russia."

Use Of A-Bomb Proposed

From Sen. Brewster (R-Me) came a proposal that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be given authority to use the atom bomb, if he sees fit, against Red Chinese troops, concentration centers and war plants.

Similar proposals that the a-bomb be dropped came from two House members, Reps. Rivers (D-SC) and Cole (R-NY), both members of the Armed Services Committee.

High defense officials said, however, no consideration is being given to use the a-bomb now.

Secretary of State Acheson called for foreign policy unity in the light of the developing crisis. Acheson arranged to appear later before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Acheson conferred behind closed doors with the senators soon after he ordered a charge of aggression filed against the Chinese Communists in the United Nations Security Council.

This could result in the war's being carried—perhaps by U. S. bombers—into Chinese Communist territory. And Red China has a mutual defense agreement with the Soviet Union, which from the first has fought U. N. intervention in the Korean conflict.

China Reds Live In Strict Seclusion In Swank Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chinese Communist delegation to the United Nations is living at the swank Waldorf-Astoria hotel in seclusion as strict as ever observed by Russian diplomats.

Other guests in the hotel never see the Chinese except when they are going to or from Lake Success.

The Chinese spurn the hotel's lavish dining rooms and eat in the privacy of their suite.

Their privacy is reinforced by rooms kept vacant on both ends of their suite—apparently a measure to block any possible eavesdropping on their conversations.

Hotel officials declined to discuss the private life of the Red delegation—whether they eat American food or have Chinese dishes sent up to their suite.

But it was learned that one elevator is held in reserve at all times for their sole use.

This lessens the possibility of "incidents," such as a face to face meeting of a Gold Star mother or father with representatives of the country whose troops are fighting the Americans in Korea.

Engrossed with the task of trying to prove that the American fleet in Formosan waters constitutes aggression, the Chinese show no interest in "seeing the sights" or other diversions offered by New York.

Peiping Spokesman, In Reply, Condemns United States, Says Troops In Korea Volunteers

Wu's Blast Instead Of Conciliation Sign Causes Gloom In Allied Ranks

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 28 (AP) — The United States today charged the Russian-backed Chinese Communists with "open and notorious" aggression in Korea. Red China replied that those Chinese Communists in Korea are volunteers and that Peiping will not stop their departure for the battlefront.

American Delegate Warren R. Austin used the term aggression in the Security Council on instructions from Washington after Gen. MacArthur reported there are 200,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in Korea and "we face an entirely new war."

HEARS CHARGES—Wu Hsui-Chuan, Red China's representative who sat at the United Nations Security Council yesterday as an invited guest, listens intently but apparently impassively through earphones as Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin spoke directly to Wu and charged Chinese Communists with open and notorious aggression in Korea.

Poker-faced Wu Hsiu-Chuan, chief Chinese Communist spokesman at the U. N., said in his first speech to the council that the security of his country is endangered by United States aggression against Korea and is alarmed by the spread toward China of the "flames" of the U. S. "war of aggression."

Wu counter-charged in the council that the U. S. is guilty of "cunning" aggression also against China, Vietnam, the Philippines and other Asian countries. He demanded the council condemn the U. S. and slap strong sanctions on the Washington government. He also called for expulsion from the U. N. of Nationalist China.

Western Delegates Gloomy

The Security Council adjourned until 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow without further action, but western delegates gloomily said that instead of showing any sign of conciliation the Chinese Communists had outdone the Russians in blasting the U. S.

Austin said in a statement after the meeting:

"The Chinese Communist spokesman revealed that his appraisal of the United Nations action in Korea is the Soviet appraisal. He has admitted that they have been preparing for a long time to resist the United Nations. xxx

"He has made it clear that the Chinese Communist intervention in North Korea is the consummation of a design to use military force without regard for the consequences."

Wu took notes as Austin told the Security Council the grave facts of Chinese Communist aggression must be faced squarely by the people of the world—and especially the council.

Austin asked Wu 20 direct questions which, in sum, boiled down to: Why have you thrown 200,000 troops into Korea against United States forces and what do you want?

Action On Resolution Urged

Austin also urged the council to act soon on a six-nation resolution demanding the Chinese Communists get out of Korea. This would promise to protect the Peiping and Soviet boundaries with Korea. The American delegate said he was ready to sit all night to get a decision but several council delegates said privately they did not have instructions and could not vote tonight.

Wu did not answer Austin's questions directly and said he had come here to talk about American aggression against Formosa. But before he completed his one hour and 50 minute statement he had ranged

More Snow Adds To Cleanup Job In Storm Areas

Big Cities Slowly Winning Struggle

[By The Associated Press]

More snow fell in the East Tuesday, adding to the task of cities still digging out from savage weekend blizzards.

Another one to two inches of snow fell on Pennsylvania and in scattered areas of Ohio.

Despite the temporary setback, however, the big industrial cities of Pittsburgh and Cleveland were slowly winning the struggle to return to normal.

The Weather Bureau said no new heavy snow was in prospect and that temperatures will remain at or below freezing in the snow area.

The list of storm dead swelled to 281, the cleanup job adding to the toll. The new casualties were mostly from heart attacks brought on by overexertion.

The wind-battered eastern seaboard also was feeling the after effects of the storm.

Total storm damage in 22 eastern and midwestern states was estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

This is the picture in the areas of major storm damage:

Pittsburgh: Most steel mills, coal mines and industrial plants hoped to get production rolling Wednesday. Department stores set the same day for their reopening. Colleges and schools hope to reopen Thursday. There were milk shortages in many areas, particularly the suburbs. Public transportation was not expected to return to normal for a week.

Cleveland: Main highways were clear and most schools and colleges expect to be open by Wednesday. Industry called back its workers. Fresh snow added to the problems in some other Ohio areas.

New York and New Jersey: Some 225,000 households still were without electricity. About 90,000 telephones still were out. Insurance men said that claims, rolling in from South Carolina to Maine, would dwarf any disaster since the east coast's 1938 hurricane.

Gen. MacArthur Explains Remark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today his home - by - Christmas forecast merely expressed the "universal hope" for an early end to the Korean war.

MacArthur cabled that explanation about the now famous comment in reply to a question by Ray Henle, Washington radio commentator.

Henley, editor of NBC's "Three-Star Extra" news program, said he received the following message from MacArthur sent via the Pentagon:

"In reply to question contained in your cable of Nov. 28, apparently greatly exaggerated statements have been attributed to some informal comments passed between my field commanders and myself in a jocular vein expressive of the universal hope for an early termination of hostilities.

"The evident physical impossibility of fulfillment of the statement attributed to me should be its own best refutation.

"At no time have I ever attempted to predict the course or termination of this or any other military campaign."

In a dispatch from MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters yesterday, AP Correspondent Relman Morin wrote that MacArthur made the prediction last Friday when the General flew to North Korea to watch the kickoff of his grand offensive.

The South Carolina project will cost $260,000,000 with a possibility of more funds to come. If fully successful, it will give this country by far the deadliest weapon in history.

AEC Chairman Gordon Dean told Congress in asking for the money last July that the commission would build facilities "which can either make materials for A-bombs, H-bombs or fissionable material for use in power reactors."

Today, following the announcement that the site had been selected, Rep. Gore (D-Tenn) said he expected President Truman to ask for much larger sums to build plants which would produce the A-bomb material, uranium-235.

"I anticipate the new construction will be done within the Tennessee Valley Authority distribution territory," Gore told reporters. "This will require additional very large TVA generating facilities—probably several more steam plants."

Gore said the House Appropriations Subcommittee that handles such requests will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning.

The site is in Aiken and Barnwell counties, South Carolina, near the Savannah river. The location was chosen over 100 other sites after four months consideration.

Construction of several big plants there will start early in 1951 and will force about 1,500 families in the area to relocate in the next 18 months.

Villagers Accept Dislocation News With Patriotism

ELLENTON, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) — Residents of this rural settlement were stunned today when informed that their town will be levelled to make way for a giant hydrogen bomb plant.

But, despite the harshness of the shock, they accepted it with heart-warming patriotism.

Dr. Fred C. Brinkley, who has practiced here for 40 years, summed up by saying:

"It is rather crushing to have to give up your home, the land you love and most of all your friends. But if it is best for my country and, knowing that others are sacrificing so much more, then I am willing."

Export Controls Effective Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A Commerce Department official said today controls to prevent any strategic materials from being shipped through the United States to Russia or her "satellites" will go into effect soon.

The spokesman, Wallace S. Thomas, deputy assistant director of the Office of International Trade in charge of export supply, made the statement after a conference with businessmen here.

Last week the Commerce Department, under fire in the Senate because of transshipments of steel and other strategic material to Red China, announced it was considering a ban on such shipments.

Previously controls have applied only to strategic goods produced in this country.

Thomas met today with a group of exporters, importers, bankers and transportation officials at the Commerce Department's regional offices.

He said the group "expressed thorough agreement with the objectives of the regulations."

Red Cross Goal Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The American Red Cross, facing heavy new demands as a result of the defense program, set a goal of $85,000,000 today for its 1951 fund campaign, starting March 1.

211 New War Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The Defense Department today issued Korean casualty list No. 162 containing 211 names.

Killed By School Bus

SILVER SPRING, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) —Nancy Jeanne Allen, six-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Allen, Kensington, was crushed to death this afternoon under a wheel of her school bus.

Police said the bus backed over the child's head after knocking her down at the entrance to the playground of St. John's parochial school.

U. S. Takes Grave View Of Setbacks In Korea Fighting

Truman, Security Council In Huddle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The U. S. government, shocked and spurred to fresh action by the grave turn of events in Korea, today sought urgent measures to halt the Red tide in the Far East and at other danger spots all along the iron curtain.

There were plain indications of official concern that a third world war could be developing—and that the threat might not be confined to Korea.

On Capitol Hill, some voices were raised in favor of using the atom bomb against the onsurging Chinese Communists.

President Truman met with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making agency in matters affecting the country's safety.

The White House dropped a thick cloak of secrecy over the hour-and-15-minute meeting. The President's military and diplomatic advisers left his office in sober, tight-lipped silence.

Marshall Voices Concern

Secretary of Defense Marshall, after conferring earlier with Mr. Truman, said the free world is faced with "a very critical situation" which the United Nations must resolutely "face up to."

Congressional leaders likewise voiced deepest concern over the Far Eastern crisis.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said it may force Congress to stay in session through Christmas.

In an impassioned floor speech, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) called for an ultimatum telling the Russians they must pull the Chinese troops out of North Korea.

O'Mahoney didn't say what this country should do if the Russians failed to heed such an ultimatum. He told reporters later they could draw their own conclusions. An ultimatum normally implies a threat of military action.

Sen. Robertson (D-Va) called the situation in Korea "as critical as any in our history," and added:

"I think the next three days will determine whether we are at war with China and Russia."

Use Of A-Bomb Proposed

From Sen. Brewster (R-Me) came a proposal that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be given authority to use the atom bomb, if he sees fit, against Red Chinese troops, concentration centers and war plants.

Similar proposals that the a-bomb be dropped came from two House members, Reps. Rivers (D-SC) and Cole (R-NY), both members of the Armed Services Committee.

High defense officials said, however, no consideration is being given to use the a-bomb now.

Secretary of State Acheson called for foreign policy unity in the light of the developing crisis. Acheson arranged to appear later before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Acheson conferred behind closed doors with the senators soon after he ordered a charge of aggression filed against the Chinese Communists in the United Nations Security Council.

This could result in the war's being carried—perhaps by U. S. bombers—into Chinese Communist territory. And Red China has a mutual defense agreement with the Soviet Union, which from the first has fought U. N. intervention in the Korean conflict.

China Reds Live In Strict Seclusion In Swank Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chinese Communist delegation to the United Nations is living at the swank Waldorf-Astoria hotel in seclusion as strict as ever observed by Russian diplomats.

Other guests in the hotel never see the Chinese except when they are going to or from Lake Success.

The Chinese spurn the hotel's lavish dining rooms and eat in the privacy of their suite.

Their privacy is reinforced by rooms kept vacant on both ends of their suite—apparently a measure to block any possible eavesdropping on their conversations.

Hotel officials declined to discuss the private life of the Red delegation—whether they eat American food or have Chinese dishes sent up to their suite.

But it was learned that one elevator is held in reserve at all times for their sole use.

This lessens the possibility of "incidents," such as a face to face meeting of a Gold Star mother or father with representatives of the country whose troops are fighting the Americans in Korea.

Engrossed with the task of trying to prove that the American fleet in Formosan waters constitutes aggression, the Chinese show no interest in "seeing the sights" or other diversions offered by New York.

Peiping Spokesman, In Reply, Condemns United States, Says Troops In Korea Volunteers

Wu's Blast Instead Of Conciliation Sign Causes Gloom In Allied Ranks

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 28 (AP) — The United States today charged the Russian-backed Chinese Communists with "open and notorious" aggression in Korea. Red China replied that those Chinese Communists in Korea are volunteers and that Peiping will not stop their departure for the battlefront.

American Delegate Warren R. Austin used the term aggression in the Security Council on instructions from Washington after Gen. MacArthur reported there are 200,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in Korea and "we face an entirely new war."

HEARS CHARGES—Wu Hsui-Chuan, Red China's representative who sat at the United Nations Security Council yesterday as an invited guest, listens intently but apparently impassively through earphones as Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin spoke directly to Wu and charged Chinese Communists with open and notorious aggression in Korea.

Poker-faced Wu Hsiu-Chuan, chief Chinese Communist spokesman at the U. N., said in his first speech to the council that the security of his country is endangered by United States aggression against Korea and is alarmed by the spread toward China of the "flames" of the U. S. "war of aggression."

Wu counter-charged in the council that the U. S. is guilty of "cunning" aggression also against China, Vietnam, the Philippines and other Asian countries. He demanded the council condemn the U. S. and slap strong sanctions on the Washington government. He also called for expulsion from the U. N. of Nationalist China.

Western Delegates Gloomy

The Security Council adjourned until 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow without further action, but western delegates gloomily said that instead of showing any sign of conciliation the Chinese Communists had outdone the Russians in blasting the U. S.

Austin said in a statement after the meeting:

"The Chinese Communist spokesman revealed that his appraisal of the United Nations action in Korea is the Soviet appraisal. He has admitted that they have been preparing for a long time to resist the United Nations. xxx

"He has made it clear that the Chinese Communist intervention in North Korea is the consummation of a design to use military force without regard for the consequences."

Wu took notes as Austin told the Security Council the grave facts of Chinese Communist aggression must be faced squarely by the people of the world—and especially the council.

Austin asked Wu 20 direct questions which, in sum, boiled down to: Why have you thrown 200,000 troops into Korea against United States forces and what do you want?

Action On Resolution Urged

Austin also urged the council to act soon on a six-nation resolution demanding the Chinese Communists get out of Korea. This would promise to protect the Peiping and Soviet boundaries with Korea. The American delegate said he was ready to sit all night to get a decision but several council delegates said privately they did not have instructions and could not vote tonight.

Wu did not answer Austin's questions directly and said he had come here to talk about American aggression against Formosa. But before he completed his one hour and 50 minute statement he had ranged

More Snow Adds To Cleanup Job In Storm Areas

Big Cities Slowly Winning Struggle

[By The Associated Press]

More snow fell in the East Tuesday, adding to the task of cities still digging out from savage weekend blizzards.

Another one to two inches of snow fell on Pennsylvania and in scattered areas of Ohio.

Despite the temporary setback, however, the big industrial cities of Pittsburgh and Cleveland were slowly winning the struggle to return to normal.

The Weather Bureau said no new heavy snow was in prospect and that temperatures will remain at or below freezing in the snow area.

The list of storm dead swelled to 281, the cleanup job adding to the toll. The new casualties were mostly from heart attacks brought on by overexertion.

The wind-battered eastern seaboard also was feeling the after effects of the storm.

Total storm damage in 22 eastern and midwestern states was estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

This is the picture in the areas of major storm damage:

Pittsburgh: Most steel mills, coal mines and industrial plants hoped to get production rolling Wednesday. Department stores set the same day for their reopening. Colleges and schools hope to reopen Thursday. There were milk shortages in many areas, particularly the suburbs. Public transportation was not expected to return to normal for a week.

Cleveland: Main highways were clear and most schools and colleges expect to be open by Wednesday. Industry called back its workers. Fresh snow added to the problems in some other Ohio areas.

New York and New Jersey: Some 225,000 households still were without electricity. About 90,000 telephones still were out. Insurance men said that claims, rolling in from South Carolina to Maine, would dwarf any disaster since the east coast's 1938 hurricane.

Gen. MacArthur Explains Remark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today his home-by-Christmas forecast merely expressed the "universal hope" for an early end to the Korean war.

MacArthur cabled that explanation about the now famous comment in reply to a question by Ray Henle, Washington radio commentator.

Henley, editor of NBC's "Three-Star Extra" news program, said he received the following message from MacArthur sent via the Pentagon:

"In reply to question contained in your cable of Nov. 28, apparently greatly exaggerated statements have been attributed to some informal comments passed between my field commanders and myself in a jocular vein expressive of the universal hope for an early termination of hostilities.

"The evident physical impossibility of fulfillment of the statement attributed to me should be its own best refutation.

"At no time have I ever attempted to predict the course or termination of this or any other military campaign."

In a dispatch from MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters yesterday, AP Correspondent Relman Morin wrote that MacArthur made the prediction last Friday when the General flew to North Korea to watch the kickoff of his grand offensive.

Aide To Warren Tried To Cool Off Gambling Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — Crime investigating senators got testimony today that a member of Florida Gov. Fuller Warren's official staff tried to cool off a gambling case with a claim that he had a commission from the governor to "take over" the raided games.

The account came from George Patton, 31, former deputy sheriff of Dade county (Miami), as part of a lurid story of big-money shakedowns and payoffs among law officers of Florida's lush "Gold Coast."

He named the Governor's aide as Leon Bishop, and said the incident took place during and after a raid by Patton on a "gambling joint" in Hialeah, race track town outside Miami in December, 1949. He said Bishop was a colonel on Warren's staff. He added that the man is now under indictment after being arrested in a gambling case in another Florida county.

Patton, who quit the deputy's job in September, was a star witness before the Dade county grand jury which indicted his former chief, Sheriff James A. Sullivan, and seven deputies on charges of condoning gambling and corruption. The Florida Supreme Court has thrown out the incident, but Sullivan is under suspension.

Negro Held In Rape Of Washington Woman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — A Navy Department employe was beaten and raped in her Northwest Washington apartment this afternoon.

Within 90 minutes police announced the arrest of a man they said admitted the attack.

Lt. Richard McCarty of the sex squad identified the victim as Eilzabeth L. McCleskey, 42. She was taken to Gallinger hospital. Her condition was described as serious.

Police Chief Robert J. Barrett said a negro man was arrested in a house in the same section of Washington, and was held without charges against him.

Barrett said the man told police that he struck, choked and raped Miss McCleskey after she answered his knock at the door and granted his request to use the telephone.

Southern Governors End Annual Session

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) —Southern governors ended their annual conference here today after hearing President Colgate W. Darden, Jr., of the University of Virginia, speak out for more equal educational opportunities for negroes.

Darden, a former Virginia governor, declared negroes should be admitted to southern professional and graduate schools. He favored continuance of the public school system on a "segregated" but "first-rate" basis in order to provide the equalities to which "the basic law of the several states says the negro is entitled."

Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi was elected conference chairman in succession to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of this state. The governors accepted the invitation of Gov. Sidney S. McMath of Arkansas to meet next year at Hot Springs, Ark.

Executive Arrested For Killing Wife, Lover

PALATKA, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—A Jacksonville, Fla., trucking executive was ordered arrested today for the slaying of his wife and her lover at a lonely lakeside cabin.

J. P. McRae, 34, had been free since Nov. 15 when Jacksonville Safety Commissioner Richard D. Sutton, 39, and Mrs. Marie McRae, 33, were blasted with a shotgun.

A coroner's jury, resuming its hearing, however, ordered McRae's arrest on murder charges. It recommended that he be allowed to make bond, a rarity in murder cases.

Truman Given Gun By Retiring General

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lt. Gen. R. H. Huebner, retiring after nearly 40 years in the Army, presented President Truman today with a carbine.

It was the gift, he said, of United States forces in Europe, his last command. He goes into retirement tomorrow.

Reporters inspecting the carbine built in Army shops in Europe, asked if it would have been of help in the recent attack on the Blair House by two Puerto Rican fanatics.

"If the President had had that when he stuck his head out of the window it would have been very useful," Huebner replied.

Military reports from Korea say the Chinese Communists are organized along regular military lines and are not volunteers. Austin asked Wu in one of his questions whether these troops in Korea actually are volunteers.

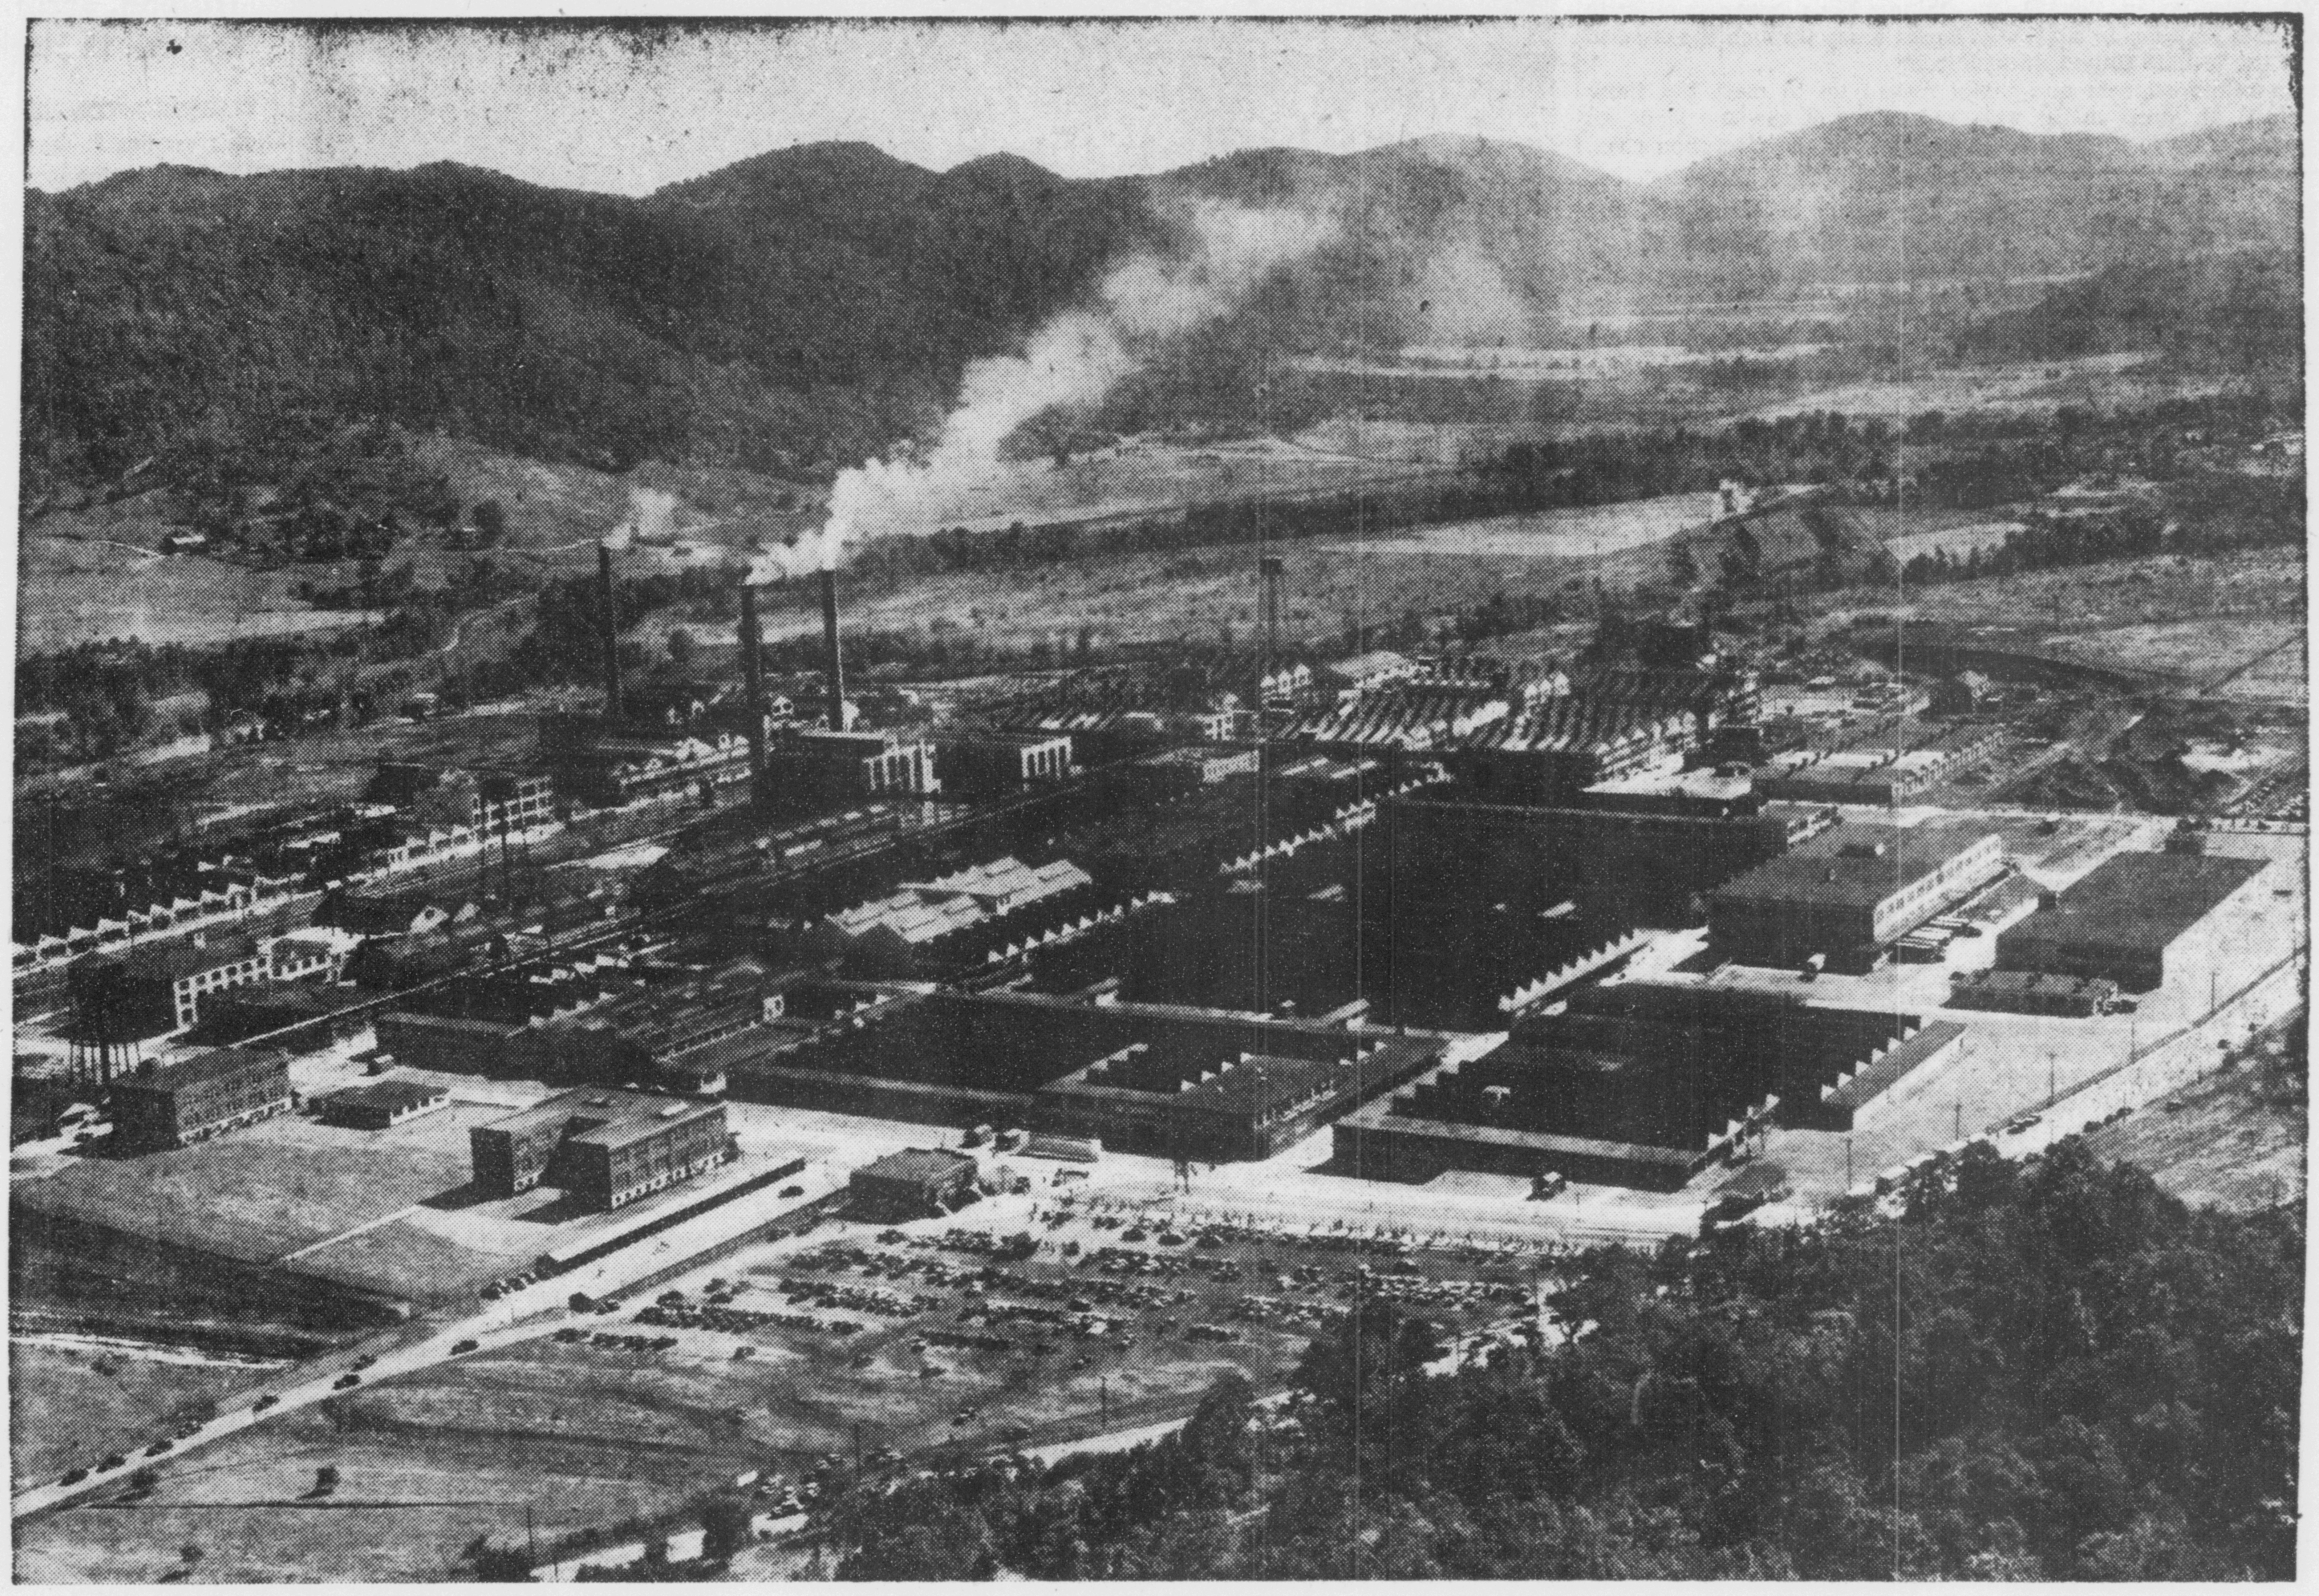
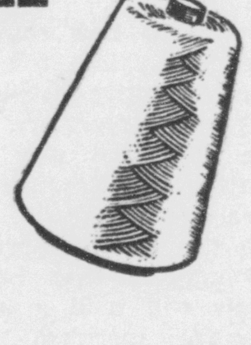
Amcelle Plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, Cumberland, Md.



This is the first of a series of informal little stories about the way we work at Celanese. We hope you'll find them interesting and informative.

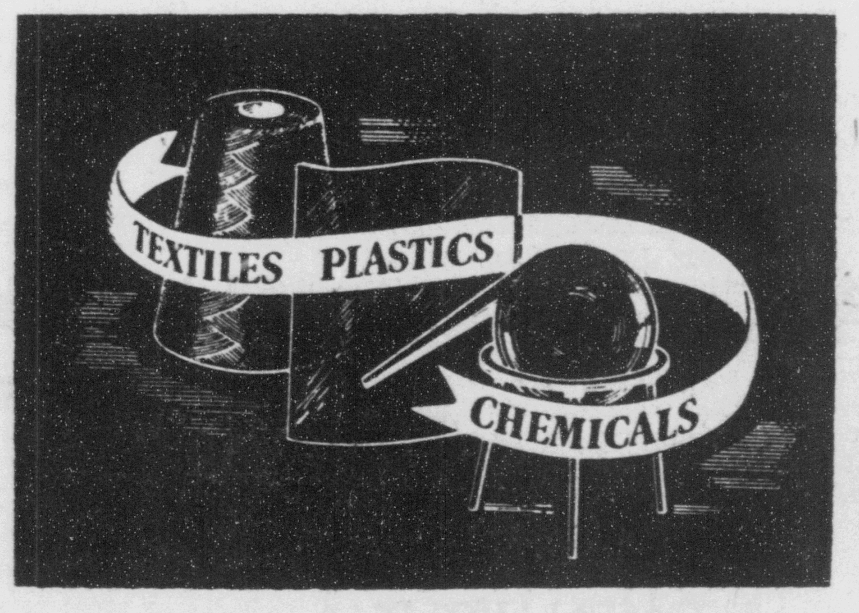
BEHIND THE SCENES AT AMCELLE



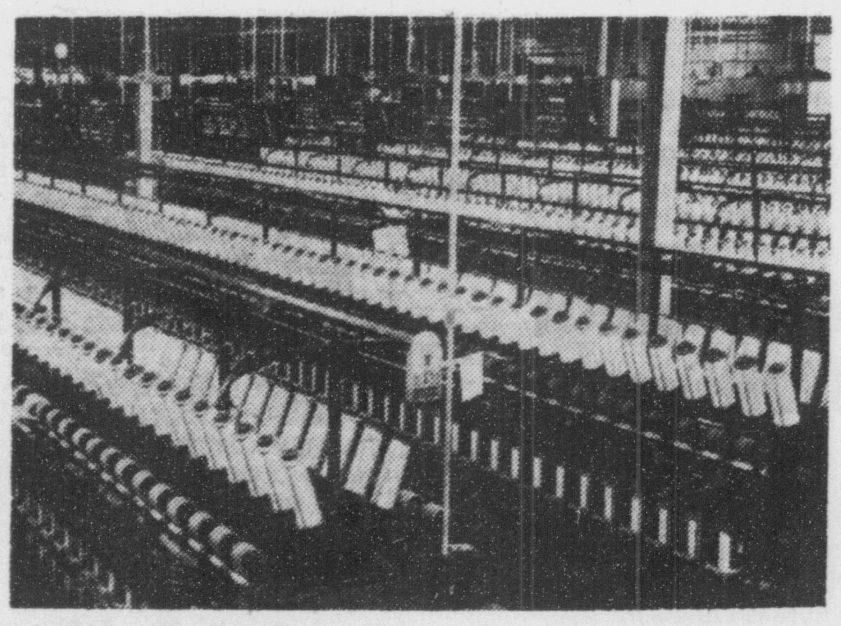
The first commercial cellulose acetate yarn ever to be made in America was produced by Amcelle people, way back in 1924. Since then millions and millions of pounds of Celanese* yarn have gone out to all parts of the world. However, there's one job Celanese never finishes. We're still trying to find better ways to make a better product, and to produce it at prices more and more customers are able and willing to pay.

Celanese believes that the more the employees and their neighbors in the Tri-state area know about the company the better it will be for everyone — for our customers, for our employees, for the community of which we are a part, and — finally — for the company itself. We're all in this together — we all depend on each other.

*Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Celanese Corporation of America manufactures chemical fibers and fabrics, plastics and chemicals, sells them under the registered trademark Celanese*. Operations at Amcelle include production of cellulose acetate flake, acetate filament yarn, and dyeing and finishing of fabrics. Amcelle is one of 12 Celanese plants in 8 states.



Celanese employees take cellulose obtained from cotton linters and purified wood pulp and combine it with acetic acid and acetic anhydride to make cellulose acetate flake. The flake is then dissolved in acetone to make a spinning solution which is then spun into yarn. Fibers for almost any conceivable fabric can be produced.

Some tools are simple, and a man can furnish his own — but not the costly equipment needed to make a chemical yarn. Amcelle's modernization program, running into the millions of dollars, will provide new and better machines for employees to use to beat the competition of other plants. Keep your eye on Celanese — we're moving ahead.

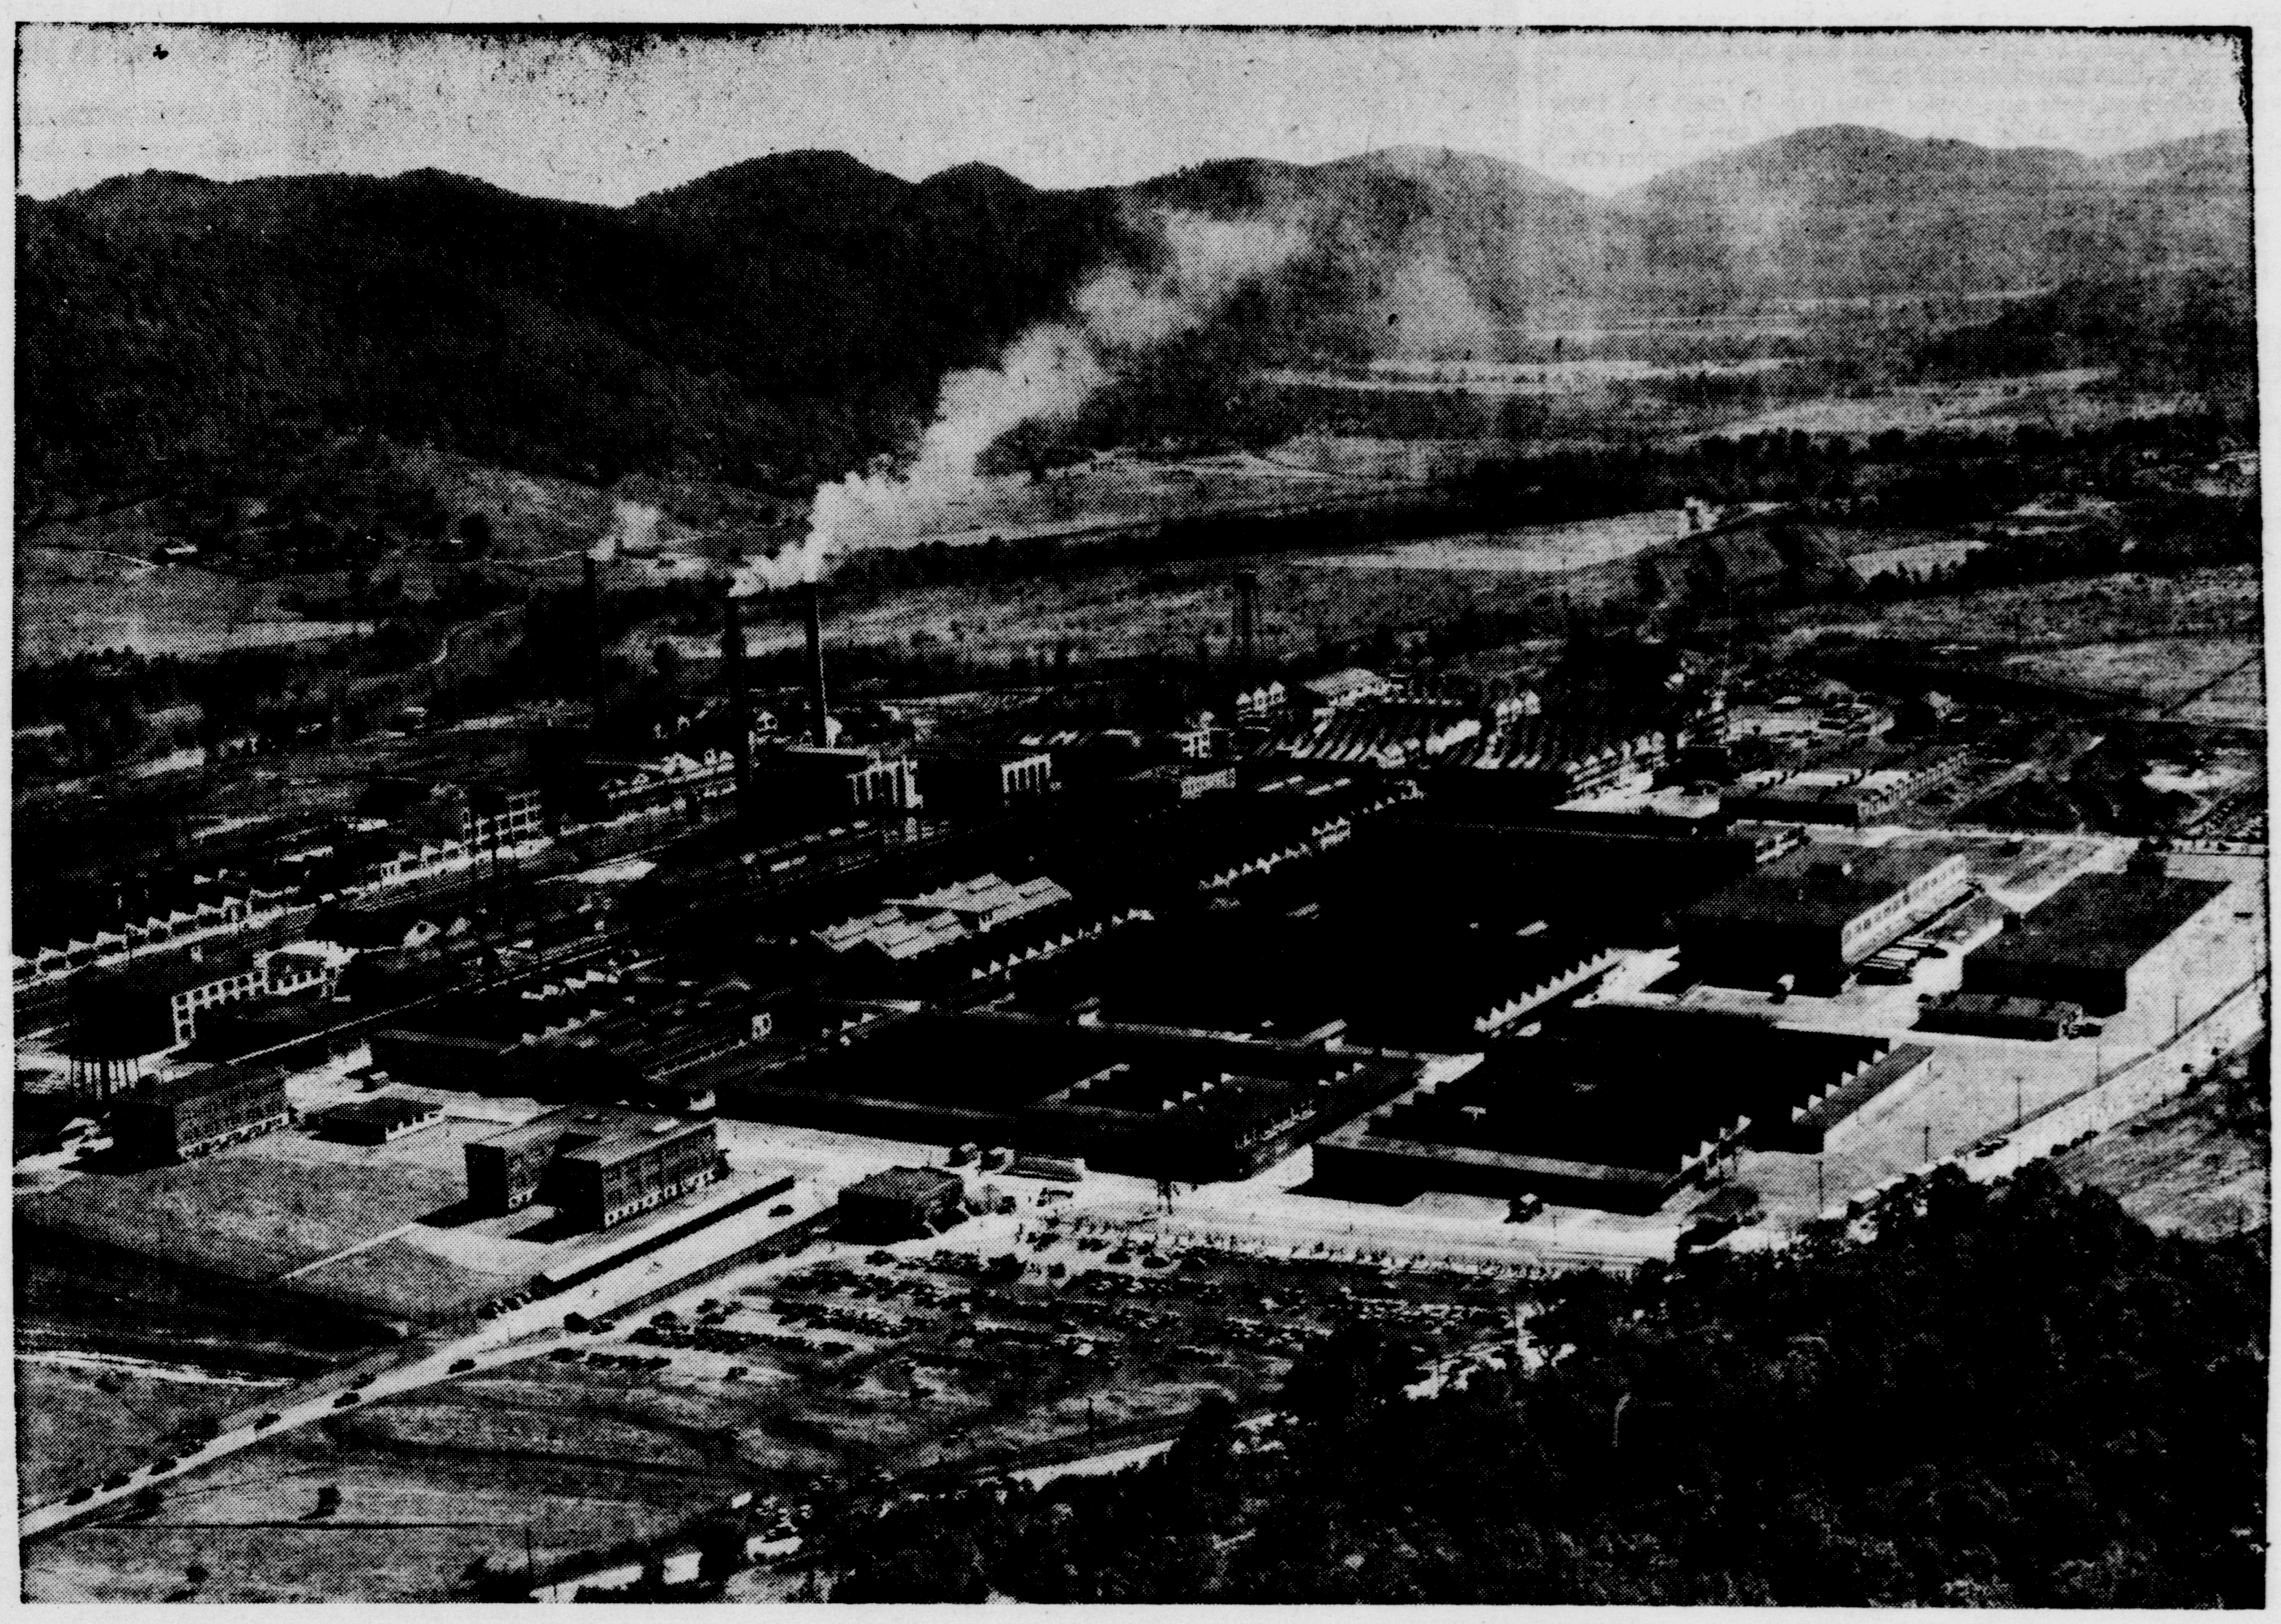
Amcelle Plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, Cumberland, Md.



This is the first of a series of informal little stories about the way we work at Celanese. We hope you'll find them interesting and informative.

BEHIND THE SCENES
AT AMCELLE

The first commercial cellulose acetate yarn ever to be made in America was produced by Amcelle people, way back in 1924. Since then millions and millions of pounds of Celanese* yarn have gone out to all parts of the world. However, there's one job Celanese never finishes. We're still trying to find better ways to make a better product, and to produce it at prices more and more customers are able and willing to pay.

Celanese believes that the more the employees and their neighbors in the Tri-state area know about the company the better it will be for everyone — for our customers, for our employees, for the community of which we are a part, and — finally — for the company itself. We're all in this together — we all depend on each other.

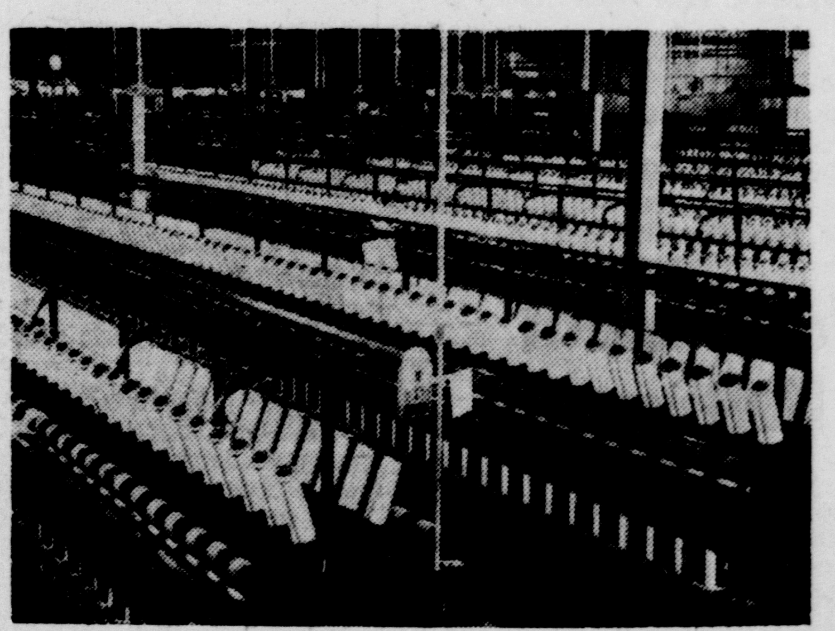
Celanese Corporation of America manufactures chemical fibers and fabrics, plastics and chemicals, sells them under the registered trademark Celanese*. Operations at Amcelle include production of cellulose acetate flake, acetate filament yarn, and dyeing and finishing of fabrics. Amcelle is one of 12 Celanese plants in 8 states.



Celanese employees take cellulose obtained from cotton linters and purified wood pulp and combine it with acetic acid and acetic anhydride to make cellulose acetate flake. The flake is then dissolved in acetone to make a spinning solution which is then spun into yarn. Fibers for almost any conceivable fabric can be produced.

Some tools are simple, and a man can furnish his own — but not the costly equipment needed to make a chemical yarn. Amcelle's modernization program, running into the millions of dollars, will provide new and better machines for employees to use to beat the competition of other plants. Keep your eye on Celanese — we're moving ahead.

Programs For Peace

The United States and other nations which are in a position to take the lead in developing world peace have made a start toward a positive approach which promises the possibility of success. But the negative attitude has not by any means been safely put aside and it remains a grave danger to be overcome. The positive approach embodies a peace program of our own, a realistic one which takes note of conditions as they are and of changes as they occur. The negative approach consists principally of resisting Russia.

The Soviet Union continues to argue tirelessly for its own peace program. The Soviet program has to be opposed because it contains errors of logic and, we fear, falsities of purpose. But we should not fail to examine every Russian proposal for understanding, to see if it may contain some useful seed. Neither should we become so obsessed with arguing against Russian proposals that we forget to keep presenting constructive proposals of our own.

This fall we proposed specific constructive ideas for the improvement of the United Nations machinery for dealing with international trouble, and we found some of those ideas converted into completed action with astonishing speed. A means has been provided for overriding the Russian veto in dealing with aggression, and the creation of a UN military force is being more seriously considered than ever before. These successes should spur America and the other non-Communist leaders to further positive efforts to assure peace through the UN. Who can tell what else may be achieved if we try?

Acheson's Future

More and more newspaper space is being devoted to future prospects of Dean Acheson, Secretary of State. For the long pull they seem bleak, unless he is fortunate enough to get kicked upstairs.

First reaction of the Republican leadership, after winning considerable public favor at the polls, was that Acheson must go. They had cashed in on Acheson's notorious remark about Alger Hiss and his disastrous Far Eastern policies, and were eager to push their advantage by nailing his scalp to the barn door in sight of all men.

That would have embarrassed the Truman administration because it would have been admission of his top Cabinet man's vulnerability and whetted the appetite of the Republicans for more scalps. But this plan did not take cognizance of President Truman's stubborn loyalty to his appointees.

But there is another factor which may be decisive in shortening Acheson's tenure in his post. It is that the Democrats know Acheson is a load to carry at the polls. They know that in 1952 he could spell the difference between victory and defeat for many a Democrat seeking election to Congress.

The Democrats, who rebelled against Henry Wallace's vice presidential candidacy in 1944, will protest mightily against Acheson being at the helm of foreign affairs in 1952. President Truman might yield by elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court or some other lofty post. But unless Acheson gets all the breaks he will be retired or in another position by 1952.

Prophets And Future

The fact that predictions sometimes influence events was brought out recently by Dr. Julius Hirsch, economist, commenting on the statement from the Department of Agriculture which embodied a forecast of rising food prices for next year. The statement predicted that there would be a greater demand for food as restrictions were placed on other commodities, and that higher prices would automatically follow.

Drawing on his experience as an Office of Price Administration consultant, Dr. Hirsch claimed that the natural result of such a prediction would be a holding back of produce, to take advantage of the expected higher prices. This would help to bring the higher prices. Such a situation would be wholly artificial, Dr. Hirsch claimed, because large surplus stocks exist in all food lines.

There may be a temptation sometimes to think that predictions, like comparisons, are odious, to argue that the columns of figures so laboriously compiled by the statisticians might better be used as measuring sticks for past and present accomplishments and trends, leaving the future in the future. But it is, as it has always been, a part of human nature to want to see what is to come. And if the prophets sometimes yield to the wish to guide the future as well as merely to predict it, that also is no more than human.

Setback In Germany

Socialist election victories in two West German states must be interpreted as a blow to U. S. prestige and a defeat for American policy. The fact that Communists took an even greater beating is little consolation.

The plan to create a new West German army to help Europe defend itself against Soviet attack was not the only issue in the campaign, but it was the one upon which the socialists put the most stress. It must now be assumed that any remilitarization program will encounter stiff popular resistance in the states of Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Without taking an active part in the campaigning, U. S. occupation forces had hoped that the conservative Christian Democratic Party, under the leadership of Chancellor Adenauer, would maintain its command. Adenauer has worked in close cooperation with American authorities and has repeatedly urged the Germans to support the rearmament plan. He and his party have now lost their numerical edge in the Wuerttemberg-Baden Parliament and slipped from second to third place in Hesse.

How all these developments will affect the efforts being made to include Germany in the proposed Western European army is anybody's guess. Those who have been predicting from the beginning that the U. S. would supply the troops see nothing in this newest development to cause them to change their prediction.

Those Chinese

In political discussion, as in many other things, we might learn from the Chinese. Chiang Kai-shek's vice-minister of information, Hollington Kong-tong, says in his new book "Dateline: China" that the Chinese dislike loud disputation. They prefer to convey their disapproval by innuendo.

Probably this method gets their point across just as effectively as abuse.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Parental Attitudes

DURING the last decade psychologists and psychiatrists have had a tendency to link the behavior of children to the attitudes of the parents. At first, only delinquency was traced to the frustrations created thru lack of love and understanding. Then came bed-wetting, thumbsucking, and stuttering, and, finally, psychoneurosis and a host of other nervous disorders. These ideas are theoretical and time will tell whether they represent the views of extremists.

But this modern concept of the parent-child relationship has imposed new responsibilities on mothers and fathers of young tots. After all, it is not unusual to read that the newborn is far from the "mindless creature" we generally believe him to be. His interest extends beyond eating and sleeping; he can sense the feelings of parents, nurse, or sitter. We are told, for example, that the infant knows whether these attendants are in a state of confusion or anxiety by the way he is held; when they clutch him too tightly or loosely, he realizes they are frustrated. But when the baby is held just right he knows that he is loved and appreciated.

I am in no position to state how much stock we can take in such ideas, but am somewhat skeptical about a child becoming a thief, stutterer, or sufferer from nervous indigestion just because his mother had worries, fears, or feelings of inadequacy when he was two months old. But such a state of affairs is more understandable when the child begins to toddle and shows signs of increasing intelligence. Here the attitudes of the parents are more likely to make a greater impression. Failure to give affection and approval robs the child of basic needs and it is easy to understand how the youngster can be started on the wrong path.

Children this age are far from emotional maturity and tend to react unfavorably to the anxieties and fears of their parents. With each succeeding year, susceptibility to their environment affects them more. In addition, as the young child begins to appreciate the sense of right and wrong there always is danger that he will mimic the undesirable traits of those around him. In this respect the child ultimately mirrors the personality of his parents.

If this is all true the future world is in for a beating. After all, this is an insecure era as a result of two major wars, a depression, and changing attitudes in general. The atomic bomb is the new sword of Damocles. But when we go back into history we find that life never was a bed of roses; wars, famines, epidemics, or financial insecurity always plagued the people. A strong nation gets too big for its "britches" and dissipates its wealth and men in trying to maintain its place as a major power. Perhaps the strain on the population is the basic cause of the inevitable downfall of these countries.

It is possible, however, that the effect of social chaos on the individual parent is not as dreadful as we have been led to believe. As a rule, those in their 20s wear rose-colored glasses. Anxiety is not a part of their makeup; they never had much and have little to lose. It is at this time that they are rearing children of the so-called impressionable age. After papa and mama have become better established and more set in their ways, they are likely to rebel against changes because of their concern with the world about them. Their children are now individuals and it is only natural to worry about their future. In other words, nature may be kind in this respect by making life more serene for the parents of infants and young children.

BABY'S BIG APPETITE

Mrs. J. S. writes: What is wrong with an 11 month old baby who eats as much as a child twice his age? He is strong and alert and seems healthy and is not overweight.

REPLY

So long as he is strong and developing normally mentally and physically, be thankful for his good appetite. Children take spurts in growing and eating; next month you might find him a feeding problem.

SENILITY

Mrs. E. writes: My 81 year old mother is irrational at itmes. Then she snaps out of it and is fine for a few days. Does this mean that she is insane?

REPLY

No, merely senile. She probably has hardening of the arteries, including those supplying the brain. This means that at times the brain is not receiving enough nourishment and the result is the behavior you describe. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hardening of the arteries.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. May Face Another Rubber Shortage; Sen. Connally Helps Korean Doughboys; House Committee Will Tighten Excess Profits Loopholes

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Communist advances in French Indo-China, Tibet and Asia generally are belatedly waking up some of our foreign-policy planners to what may be another Pearl Harbor.

In brief, the United States, after suffering the worst economic disaster in history when the Japs captured Singapore, may find our rubber, tin, quinine and other tropical products cut off again.

For four years the American people were forced to walk as a result of the rubber and tire shortage. Tin cans were also curtailed; while millions of dollars were spent planting cinchona or quinine trees in Latin America. Now, though we are much better prepared regarding synthetic rubber, part of this may happen all over again.

Chief lesson to be drawn from the Communist threat to our economic lifeline in Asia is the manner in which we have neglected our own best neighbors right next door in Latin America. While a few State department officials under live-wire Assistant Secretary Edward Miller have been pushing Latin-American friendship, actually much of our financial help to European cartels has hurt Latin America.

The American public has largely forgotten the fact that when Columbus arrived in America he was amazed to find Indians bouncing balls. This was the first discovery of rubber, which then became the great industry of Brazil and other Latin-American countries.

Ghost Rubber City

Today, however, Manaos, the rubber capital of Latin America, has become a ghost city—after a Britisher smuggled seeds of the rubber plant to Ceylon.

Gradually the British-Dutch rubber cartel built up its markets in the U.S.A., and once they attained a monopoly position, they put the price squeeze on the American consumer. Despite the vigorous protests of Charles Evans Hughes when secretary of state, we paid what the Asiatic rubber cartel wanted us to and paid through the nose.

After Pearl Harbor we began frantically to encourage our good neighbors in Latin America to grow rubber again. Brazil, Mexico, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Salvador, Nicaragua, Haiti, Honduras all were urged to grow rubber, regardless of the cost. Loud were the cries also: "This will never happen again."

However, it is happening again. In October 1947 American delegates at the Geneva Economic Conference agreed to give up about two-thirds of the American rubber market to Asiatic rubber, chiefly British controlled. This meant two things:

1. The complete collapse of the new rubber industry we had encouraged in Latin America.

2. The closing of various synthetic rubber plants in the U.S.A. Some of these plants, having been closed, later were sold at bargain-rate prices by Surplus Property Administrator Jess Larson, who thought, perhaps correctly, that he was merely following national policy.

Meanwhile, though we are much better off when it comes to synthetic rubber, we would have to have rubber rationing all over again—if war came.

Meanwhile also, communism has been growing at our own front Latin-American door—because of unemployment and curtailed economy.

Helping G.I.'s

Senator "Long Tom" Connally of Texas, in addition to helping steer U. S. foreign policy, is never too busy to fight for the little fellow. He is now about to win an important financial victory for American doughboys in Korea.

On October 21, Senator Connally spotted an item in the Washington Merry-Go-Round which read:

"Under the current army pay system, the real heroes in the Korean war are drawing the least pay. They don't even get a fair share of the glory when the publicity and medals are dished out.

"These unsung heroes are the infantrymen, who form the army's battering ram, but who are not paid as much as the technical men and pencil pushers behind the lines.

"It used to be that infantrymen could collect $10 extra each month for combat work. If they wore the Combat Infantryman's Badge, it was good for a $10 monthly bonus. However, even this has been taken away from them in Korea."

Senator Connally clipped the column and sent it to the army, together with a letter wanting to know why combat men were being discriminated against. He has now received a letter from the Army indicating that it would urge a $50 bonus monthly for combat enlisted men, with $100 a month for officers.

What the Army told Senator Connally in summary follows:

"The Department of the Army recognizes the plight of the infantrymen who in past wars and in the Korean operation have borne the brunt of the fighting. We intend to do everything possible to give the deserved recognition and compensation to those combat fighters upon whom the success of all our military efforts ultimately depends.

"From the standpoint of extra compensation for the combat fighter, the Army has prepared and submitted to the Department of Defense a proposal to ask Congress or extra pay for each month of combat duty in Korea. The Department of Defense has indicated considerable interest and we anticipate early submission of the proposal to Congress."

NOTE — Senator Connally was also among the few who in 1945 protested against removal of the excess-profits war tax. The White House since then has wished that it had followed his advice.

Excess-Profits Loopholes

The House Ways and Means Committee has decided behind closed doors to write a stiff clause in the excess-profits-tax bill to prevent big corporations from "squandering" profits as a means of reducing tax payments.

However, legitimate business expenses will be deductible under a formula proposed by Rep. Herman Eberharter of Pennsylvania whereby expenditures for hotel and travel, advertising and entertainment, would be governed by the amounts spent for these purposes from 1946 through 1949.

In other words, if a corporation spent $100,000 annually for advertising during the 1946-49 period it could deduct no more than that from its excess-profits return. Allowances will be made, however, for shifts from newspaper to costlier radio advertising.

"I was disgusted by some of the tricks used by corporations to escape taxes when we had an excess-profits tax during the last war," GOP Congressman Carl Curtis of Nebraska told his colleagues. "One company sent me expensive brochures that had nothing to do with promoting sales of its product.

"All that costly paper went into the wastebasket at a time when we were up against a war shortage of paper. But the company could deduct this useless expense."

"Another racket by these big fellows is renting hotel rooms the year round, whether they are used or not," objected Michigan Democrat John Dingell, a gadfly of the large comporations. "Some of these big outfits even rent hotel suites on a yearly basis for occasional cocktail parties for congressmen."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Best Adjusted

"WHY" magazine, a specialist in that branch of human ailments known as modern psychology, issued a questionnaire, probably as a circulation device. This one wants my opinion on who is the best adjusted person. The magazine hired some psychologists who gave them this definition of "best adjusted:"

". . a man or woman who shows outstanding ability to adjust psychologically to the problems confronting him, and who demonstrates a capacity to derive satisfaction and emotional security from his career and personal life."

The psychologists could have saved themselves their labor and said that the guy they are talking about "gets along." That is obviously what they mean, but as is fashionable these days, the simplest ideas have to be expressed in the most confused terms. For instance, "conspiracy," which is an old and fairly clear concept, is now called "guilt by association ," which gets all tangled up in emotions. Apparently, the psychologists picked this list as a starter: "Truman, MacArthur, Jackie Robinson, Grandma Moses, Robert Young, Esther Williams, Arthur Godfrey, Ed Wynn, Albert Einstein and Helen Keller.

About most of these I know too little to comment. Some are actors and such, about whom I only know from my children. But Harry Truman does not belong to this list; he is too vindictive. Nobody is well-adjusted who hates so hard. He is fighting his own inferiority and it bothers him. So, on that one I would say the psychologists are nuts.

As for the rest, I should have to know too much about them to vote for them. Perhaps on the surface, I should say Grandma Moses would get my vote. Certainly, I should not vote for Albert Einstein, who signs too many petitions and sponsors too many movements. He must be all mixed up.

Now, I, being at heart a man of the sidewalks, know literally thousands of finely adjusted people. They wake up in the morning; shave while trying to sing a tune; eat generally the same breakfast, starting off with orange juice; kiss the wife; instruct the child; and go to work, often meeting the same people on the way.

In bus or car or subway, they pursue their usual course. Often that is the reading of the same newspaper every day. This is done backwards; that is, they turn first to the sports pages; then to the obituaries; then to the comic strips. If there is time, they next read the columnist they trust and believe. Having done all that, if there is still time, they read the news and an editorial. By a process of osmosis, they have taken in all the advertising.

Then their personalities change, enter into a new phrase. That they call their job. The character we saw at home is now very different. If his sex is male, it takes on special facades, often highlighting a shrewdness, sharpness and efficiency never perceived by his family, who wonder how such a softy brings home so much bacon. So he sticks to this role for several hours, with occasional lapses into horseplay, wisecracks, story-telling and excessive imbibing of sugars and starches in various forms.

Then he goes home as he came, with another newspaper which he ready exactly as he did the morning one—with this exception: He sees the headline first. So, he arrives home, turns on radio or television, grabs a snack, horseplays with the frau; she gives him the devil about something; he takes refuge in a magazine and sulks; she makes up to him; they eat. Then stay home, look at television, play gin or canasta or something with another couple; talk on the telephone; horseplay with the children; go to movies; go to a church supper; go to a lodge or union or something. To bed by around 11 after having had a snack or two.

This guy's name is Joe Doakes, Sam Kaplan, Frank Esposito, John Smith, Bill Jones. And his wife's name is Shirley.

In 1948, he voted for Harry Truman; in 1950, he was for Bob Taft. He dislikes Dean Acheson and would vote anti-Russian, anti-British, anti-Europe, if he knew how. He is sore about how the U.S.A. puts up and shuts up.

He is the best adjusted guy in the world.

Defeated Congressmen's Votes Will Be Watched

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When the American people adopted the Twentieth Amendment to the Consituation, changing Inauguration Day from March 4 to January 20 and stipulating that each new congress shall begin on January 3, the general belief was that so-called "lame duck" sessions would never recur.

But the 81st Congress is meeting now, notwithstanding the fact that nearly 70 of its members either were not renominated or re-elected, and votes will be cast on pending legislation by persons who no longer represent their districts or their states, respectively.

The assumption hitherto has been that no session of Congress would be held betwen the November elections and January 3. There would have been none this year except that a national emergency faces the country, due to the war in the Far East and threats of Communist aggressions in Europe.

Thus, only legislation which has a bearing on the emergency is logical business for the present session. Already intimations have come from Capitol Hill that very little will be done between now and January. The truth is that efforts will be made, just the same, to press to a vote various matters which have nothing to do with the emergency but which will be pushed because the sponsors think they will have a better chance to obtain passage now than in the new Congress.

Spirit Against "Lame Ducks"

The idea that defeated members should hold chairmanships or other important places in the committees that determine the fate of legislation was never contemplated by the authors of the Twentieth Amendment. It is true that the amendment itself could not prohibit or prevent a special session from being called immediately after the November election at which a new Congress is elected but the spirit of the amendment at least would seem to be against any legislative action in which "lame ducks" participate.

In almost every other parliament in the world defeated members lose their seats immediately when they fail of election.

In many instances in the past there were grave abuses of legislative power by members of the House and Senate who were defeated for either renomination or re-election. This was when in December immediately after the November elections the second regular session of Congress started. It lasted until March 4. Many a member of Congress who was angling for an appointment in the executive establishment or perhaps for a good job in private industry or with some of the pressure groups would cast his vote with an eye to his forthcoming livelihood.

Abuse Became Conspicuous

The abuse became so conspicuous that the late Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, Republican, led the fight for the adoption of the lame-duck amendment to the Constitution, and it was successful notwithstanding the fact that it meant moving the historic inauguration day back from early spring to midwinter and despite the fact, too, that a new Congress takes office before a new president is inaugurated.

The present session of Congress may draw attention to new aspects of power wielded by defeated members in allegedly representing areas they really do not any longer represent. The federal laws make it a crime for a president or anyone else in the executive branch of the government to offer any job or anything else of value to any member of Congress in order to influence his vote. It will be interesting to watch the votes of the defeated members.

MATTER OF FACT

The Innocent Sacrifice

WASHINGTON.

AS Congress had now gathered for the Special Session, it grows more and more obvious that the position of Secretary of State Dean G. Atcheson has become all but impossible.

The world situation has deteriorated to the point where the problem before Congress may be described as the simple survival of the United States. Yet the Senators and Representatives, in their present mood will not even discuss the problem in a rational manner. And they will certainly refuse to vote the great measures on which national survival now depends, so long as Dean Acheson is at the State Department.

In this situation borrowed from a nightmare, many leading Democrats have already pressed President Truman to find a new Secretary of State who can deal with the Congress on more reasonable terms. Thus far, however, the President has answered that he would never ask for Acheson's resignation. And he added that Acheson is the victim of the foreign and defense policy the world situation has forced him to sponsor; and that any other man who presented the same policy would soon be in the same water on Capitol Hill.

The Truman argument implies that the Congress and the country are incapable of understanding the peril we are in. In that case, the end is not far off. In fact, however, this is not the cause of the fate that has overtaken Dean Acheson. He is really the victim of President Truman himself.

What Might Have Been

What has happened to Acheson was all too clearly suggested by his experience at the Governor's Conference last spring. With considerable difficulty, Thomas E. Dewey secured a serious hearing for Acheson from his hostile fellow-governors. For four gruelling hours, the Secretary described the menace of Soviet imperialism in all its grim detail. At the close, Governor Luther Youngdahl of Minnesota reportedly summed up the general reaction with the remark:

"Well, what Secretary Acheson has been telling us certainly makes what Senator McCarthy has been talking about look like pretty small potatoes."

Here is the clew to what might have been. If the Truman administration, from 1948 onwards, had used the same frankness with the American people as Acheson used with the governors, the popular response would have been like Governor Youngdahl's. Instead, in this crucial period, the President took as his motto his own oft-repeated phrase, "everything is going to be all right." Many dreadful warnings that everything was going to be all wrong were cheerily ignored.

The tragic period of our policy making reached its climax last winter and spring. Acheson himself finally began to speak out truthfully about the world crisis. But almost every time Acheson made one of his doom-filled speeches, the President told his next press conference that the outlook for peace "had never been better," and Louis A. Johnson followed up with some more "defense economies."

Has Become The Scapegoat

Acheson himself also took the lead in formulating the famous Security Council directive No. 69, acknowledging the increasing menace of the world crisis, and calling for much greater American efforts to create "situations of strength" in the free world. But the ink was hardly dry on this paper, before it became clear that nothing much was going to be done about it. Only the Kremlin's miscalculation in Korea rescued us from this cataleptic torpor, which would certainly have led to total catastrophe.

Long before Korea, meanwhile, the American people instinctively perceived everything was not going all right. They grew deeply uneasy. Their uneasiness was shrewdly exploited by Senator McCarthy and his allies. And Acheson particularly exposed himself to attack, by his unexpected but extreme maladroitness in dealing with Congress and the public. (This derived, one suspects, from Acheson's own inner sense of being in a false position, as a Secretary of State knowing that national survival demanded much greater national efforts, but unable to convince his chief and his colleagues).

The outcome is shockingly unjust. The only high official who was consistently on the right side and has become the accidental scapegoat for the Administration's inadequacies. Unfortunately, however, the practical fact must be faced. The Truman administration is now like the troika in the old Russian folk tales. The way has been lost in the forest. The horses are tired. The wolves are snapping at the traces. The driver must toss his baby to the wolves, or the whole equipage will be lost. Dean Acheson is the baby, the innocent sacrifice that must in the end be made.

Programs For Peace

The United States and other nations which are in a position to take the lead in developing world peace have made a start toward a positive approach which promises the possibility of success. But the negative attitude has not by any means been safely put aside and it remains a grave danger to be overcome. The positive approach embodies a peace program of our own, a realistic one which takes note of conditions as they are and of changes as they occur. The negative approach consists principally of resisting Russia.

The Soviet Union continues to argue tirelessly for its own peace program. The Soviet program has to be opposed because it contains errors of logic and, we fear, falsities of purpose. But we should not fail to examine every Russian proposal for understanding, to see if it may contain some useful seed. Neither should we become so obsessed with arguing against Russian proposals that we forget to keep presenting constructive proposals of our own.

This fall we proposed specific constructive ideas for the improvement of the United Nations machinery for dealing with international trouble, and we found some of those ideas converted into completed action with astonishing speed. A means has been provided for overriding the Russian veto in dealing with aggression, and the creation of a UN military force is being more seriously considered than ever before. These successes should spur America and the other non-Communist leaders to further positive efforts to assure peace through the UN. Who can tell what else may be achieved if we try?

Acheson's Future

More and more newspaper space is being devoted to future prospects of Dean Acheson, Secretary of State. For the long pull they seem bleak, unless he is fortunate enough to get kicked upstairs.

First reaction of the Republican leadership, after winning considerable public favor at the polls, was that Acheson must go. They had cashed in on Acheson's notorious remark about Alger Hiss and his disastrous Far Eastern policies, and were eager to push their advantage by nailing his scalp to the barn door in sight of all men.

That would have embarrassed the Truman administration because it would have been admission of his top Cabinet man's vulnerability and whetted the appetite of the Republicans for more scalps. But this plan did not take cognizance of President Truman's stubborn loyalty to his appointees.

But there is another factor which may be decisive in shortening Acheson's tenure in his post. It is that the Democrats know Acheson is a load to carry at the polls. They know that in 1952 he could spell the difference between victory and defeat for many a Democrat seeking election to Congress.

The Democrats, who rebelled against Henry Wallace's vice presidential candidacy in 1944, will protest mightily against Acheson being at the helm of foreign affairs in 1952. President Truman might yield by elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court or some other lofty post. But unless Acheson gets all the breaks he will be retired or in another position by 1952.

Prophets And Future

The fact that predictions sometimes influence events was brought out recently by Dr. Julius Hirsch, economist, commenting on the statement from the Department of Agriculture which embodied a forecast of rising food prices for next year. The statement predicted that there would be a greater demand for food as restrictions were placed on other commodities, and that higher prices would automatically follow.

Drawing on his experience as an Office of Price Administration consultant, Dr. Hirsch claimed that the natural result of such a prediction would be a holding back of produce, to take advantage of the expected higher prices. This would help to bring the higher prices. Such a situation would be wholly artificial, Dr. Hirsch claimed, because large surplus stocks exist in all food lines.

There may be a temptation sometimes to think that predictions, like comparisons, are odious, to argue that the columns of figures so laboriously compiled by the statisticians might better be used as measuring sticks for past and present accomplishments and trends, leaving the future in the future. But it is, as it has always been, a part of human nature to want to see what is to come. And if the prophets sometimes yield to the wish to guide the future as well as merely to predict it, that also is no more than human.

Setback In Germany

Socialist election victories in two West German states must be interpreted as a blow to U. S. prestige and a defeat for American policy. The fact that Communists took an even greater beating is little consolation.

The plan to create a new West German army to help Europe defend itself against Soviet attack was not the only issue in the campaign, but it was the one upon which the socialists put the most stress. It must now be assumed that any remilitarization program will encounter stiff popular resistance in the states of Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Without taking an active part in the campaigning, U. S. occupation forces had hoped that the conservative Christian Democratic Party, under the leadership of Chancellor Adenauer, would maintain its command. Adenauer has worked in close cooperation with American authorities and has repeatedly urged the Germans to support the rearmament plan. He and his party have now lost their numerical edge in the Wuerttemberg-Baden Parliament and slipped from second to third place in Hesse.

How all these developments will affect the efforts being made to include Germany in the proposed Western European army is anybody's guess. Those who have been predicting from the beginning that the U. S. would supply the troops see nothing in this newest development to cause them to change their prediction.

Those Chinese

In political discussion, as in many other things, we might learn from the Chinese. Chiang Kai-shek's vice-minister of information, Hollington Kong-tong, says in his new book "Dateline: China" that the Chinese dislike loud disputation. They prefer to convey their disapproval by innuendo.

Probably this method gets their point across just as effectively as abuse.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Parental Attitudes

DURING the last decade psychologists and psychiatrists have had a tendency to link the behavior of children to the attitudes of the parents. At first, only delinquency was traced to the frustrations created thru lack of love and understanding. Then came bed-wetting, thumbsucking, and stuttering, and, finally, psychoneurosis and a host of other nervous disorders. These ideas are theoretical and time will tell whether they represent the views of extremists.

But this modern concept of the parent-child relationship has imposed new responsibilities on mothers and fathers of young tots. After all, it is not unusual to read that the newborn is far from the "mindless creature" we generally believe him to be. His interest extends beyond eating and sleeping; he can sense the feelings of parents, nurse, or sitter. We are told, for example, that the infant knows whether these attendants are in a state of confusion or anxiety by the way he is held; when they clutch him too tightly or loosely, he realizes they are frustrated. But when the baby is held just right he knows that he is loved and appreciated.

I am in no position to state how much stock we can take in such ideas, but am somewhat skeptical about a child becoming a thief, stutterer, or sufferer from nervous indigestion just because his mother had worries, fears, or feelings of inadequacy when he was two months old. But such a state of affairs is more understandable when the child begins to toddle and shows signs of increasing intelligence. Here the attitudes of the parents are more likely to make a greater impression. Failure to give affection and approval robs the child of basic needs and it is easy to understand how the youngster can be started on the wrong path.

Children this age are far from emotional maturity and tend to react unfavorably to the anxieties and fears of their parents. With each succeeding year, susceptibility to their environment affects them more. In addition, as the young child begins to appreciate the sense of right and wrong there always is danger that he will mimic the undesirable traits of those around him. In this respect the child ultimately mirrors the personality of his parents.

If this is all true the future world is in for a beating. After all, this is an insecure era as a result of two major wars, a depression, and changing attitudes in general. The atomic bomb is the new sword of Damocles. But when we go back into history we find that life never was a bed of roses; wars, famines, epidemics, or financial insecurity always plagued the people. A strong nation gets too big for its "britches" and dissipates its wealth and men in trying to maintain its place as a major power. Perhaps the strain on the population is the basic cause of the inevitable downfall of these countries.

It is possible, however, that the effect of social chaos on the individual parent is not as dreadful as we have been led to believe. As a rule, those in their 20s wear rose-colored glasses. Anxiety is not a part of their makeup; they never had much and have little to lose. It is at this time that they are rearing children of the so-called impressionable age. After papa and mama have become better established and more set in their ways, they are likely to rebel against changes because of their concern with the world about them. Their children are now individuals and it is only natural to worry about their future. In other words, nature may be kind in this respect by making life more serene for the parents of infants and young children.

BABY'S BIG APPETITE

Mrs. J. S. writes: What is wrong with an 11 month old baby who eats as much as a child twice his age? He is strong and alert and seems healthy and is not overweight.

REPLY

So long as he is strong and developing normally mentally and physically, be thankful for his good appetite. Children take spurts in growing and eating; next month you might find him a feeding problem.

SENILITY

Mrs. E. writes: My 81 year old mother is irrational at itmes. Then she snaps out of it and is fine for a few days. Does this mean that she is insane?

REPLY

No, merely senile. She probably has hardening of the arteries, including those supplying the brain. This means that at times the brain is not receiving enough nourishment and the result is the behavior you describe. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hardening of the arteries.

U. S. May Face Another Rubber Shortage; Sen. Connally Helps Korean Doughboys; House Committee Will Tighten Excess Profits Loopholes

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Communist advances in French Indo-China, Tibet and Asia generally are belatedly waking up some of our foreign-policy planners to what may be another Pearl Harbor.

In brief, the United States, after suffering the worst economic disaster in history when the Japs captured Singapore, may find our rubber, tin, quinine and other tropical products cut off again.

For four years the American people were forced to walk as a result of the rubber and tire shortage. Tin cans were also curtailed; while millions of dollars were spent planting cinchona or quinine trees in Latin America. Now, though we are much better prepared regarding synthetic rubber, part of this may happen all over again.

Chief lesson to be drawn from the Communist threat to our economic lifeline in Asia is the manner in which we have neglected our own best neighbors right next door in Latin America. While a few State department officials under live-wire Assistant Secretary Edward Miller have been pushing Latin-American friendship, actually much of our financial help to European cartels has hurt Latin America.

The American public has largely forgotten the fact that when Columbus arrived in America he was amazed to find Indians bouncing balls. This was the first discovery of rubber, which then became the great industry of Brazil and other Latin-American countries.

Ghost Rubber City

Today, however, Manaos, the rubber capital of Latin America, has become a ghost city—after a Britisher smuggled seeds of the rubber plant to Ceylon.

Gradually the British-Dutch rubber cartel built up its markets in the U.S.A., and once they attained a monopoly position, they put the price squeeze on the American consumer. Despite the vigorous protests of Charles Evans Hughes when secretary of state, we paid what the Asiatic rubber cartel wanted us to and paid through the nose.

After Pearl Harbor we began frantically to encourage our good neighbors in Latin America to grow rubber again. Brazil, Mexico, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Salvador, Nicaragua, Haiti, Honduras all were urged to grow rubber, regardless of the cost. Loud were the cries also: "This will never happen again."

However, it is happening again. In October 1947 American delegates at the Geneva Economic Conference agreed to give up about two-thirds of the American rubber market to Asiatic rubber, chiefly British controlled. This meant two things:

1. The complete collapse of the new rubber industry we had encouraged in Latin America.

2. The closing of various synthetic rubber plants in the U.S.A. Some of these plants, having been closed, later were sold at bargain-rate prices by Surplus Property Administrator Jess Larson, who thought, perhaps correctly, that he was merely following national policy.

Meanwhile, though we are much better off when it comes to synthetic rubber, we would have to have rubber rationing all over again—if war came.

Meanwhile also, communism has been growing at our own front Latin-American door—because of unemployment and curtailed economy.

Helping G.I.'s

Senator "Long Tom" Connally of Texas, in addition to helping steer U. S. foreign policy, is never too busy to fight for the little fellow. He is now about to win an important financial victory for American doughboys in Korea.

On October 21, Senator Connally spotted an item in the Washington Merry-Go-Round which read:

"Under the current army pay system, the real heroes in the Korean war are drawing the least pay. They don't even get a fair share of the glory when the publicity and medals are dished out.

"These unsung heroes are the infantrymen, who form the army's battering ram, but who are not paid as much as the technical men and pencil pushers behind the lines.

"It used to be that infantrymen could collect $10 extra each month for combat work. If they wore the Combat Infantryman's Badge, it was good for a $10 monthly bonus. However, even this has been taken away from them in Korea."

Senator Connally clipped the column and sent it to the army, together with a letter wanting to know why combat men were being discriminated against. He has now received a letter from the Army indicating that it would urge a $50 bonus monthly for combat enlisted men, with $100 a month for officers.

What the Army told Senator Connally in summary follows:

"The Department of the Army recognizes the plight of the infantrymen who in past wars and in the Korean operation have borne the brunt of the fighting. We intend to do everything possible to give the deserved recognition and compensation to those combat fighters upon whom the success of all our military efforts ultimately depends.

"From the standpoint of extra compensation for the combat fighter, the Army has prepared and submitted to the Department of Defense a proposal to ask Congress or extra pay for each month of combat duty in Korea. The Department of Defense has indicated considerable interest and we anticipate early submission of the proposal to Congress."

NOTE — Senator Connally was also among the few who in 1945 protested against removal of the excess-profits war tax. The White House since then has wished that it had followed his advice.

Excess-Profits Loopholes

The House Ways and Means Committee has decided behind closed doors to write a stiff clause in the excess-profits-tax bill to prevent big corporations from "squandering" profits as a means of reducing tax payments.

However, legitimate business expenses will be deductible under a formula proposed by Rep. Herman Eberharter of Pennsylvania whereby expenditures for hotel and travel, advertising and entertainment, would be governed by the amounts spent for these purposes from 1946 through 1949.

In other words, if a corporation spent $100,000 annually for advertising during the 1946-49 period it could deduct no more than that from its excess-profits return. Allowances will be made, however, for shifts from newspaper to costlier radio advertising.

"I was disgusted by some of the tricks used by corporations to escape taxes when we had an excess-profits tax during the last war," GOP Congressman Carl Curtis of Nebraska told his colleagues. "One company sent me expensive brochures that had nothing to do with promoting sales of its product.

"All that costly paper went into the wastebasket at a time when we were up against a war shortage of paper. But the company could deduct this useless expense."

"Another racket by these big fellows is renting hotel rooms the year round, whether they are used or not," objected Michigan Democrat John Dingell, a gadfly of the large comporations. "Some of these big outfits even rent hotel suites on a yearly basis for occasional cocktail parties for congressmen."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Best Adjusted

"WHY" magazine, a specialist in that branch of human ailments known as modern psychology, issued a questionnaire, probably as a circulation device. This one wants my opinion on who is the best adjusted person. The magazine hired some psychologists who gave them this definition of "best adjusted:"

". . a man or woman who shows outstanding ability to adjust psychologically to the problems confronting him, and who demonstrates a capacity to derive satisfaction and emotional security from his career and personal life."

The psychologists could have saved themselves their labor and said that the guy they are talking about "gets along." That is obviously what they mean, but as is fashionable these days, the simplest ideas have to be expressed in the most confused terms. For instance, "conspiracy," which is an old and fairly clear concept, is now called "guilt by association," which gets all tangled up in emotions. Apparently, the psychologists picked this list as a starter: "Truman, MacArthur, Jackie Robinson, Grandma Moses, Robert Young, Esther Williams, Arthur Godfrey, Ed Wynn, Albert Einstein and Helen Keller.

About most of these I know too little to comment. Some are actors and such, about whom I only know from my children. But Harry Truman does not belong to this list; he is too vindictive. Nobody is well-adjusted who hates so hard. He is fighting his own inferiority and it bothers him. So, on that one I would say the psychologists are nuts.

As for the rest, I should have to know too much about them to vote for them. Perhaps on the surface, I should say Grandma Moses would get my vote. Certainly, I should not vote for Albert Einstein, who signs too many petitions and sponsors too many movements. He must be all mixed up.

Now, I, being at heart a man of the sidewalks, know literally thousands of finely adjusted people. They wake up in the morning; shave while trying to sing a tune; eat generally the same breakfast, starting off with orange juice; kiss the wife; instruct the child; and go to work, often meeting the same people on the way.

In bus or car or subway, they pursue their usual course. Often that is the reading of the same newspaper every day. This is done backwards; that is, they turn first to the sports pages; then to the obituaries; then to the comic strips. If there is time, they next read the columnist they trust and believe. Having done all that, if there is still time, they read the news and an editorial. By a process of osmosis, they have taken in all the advertising.

Then their personalities change, enter into a new phrase. That they call their job. The character we saw at home is now very different. If his sex is male, it takes on special facades, often highlighting a shrewdness, sharpness and efficiency never perceived by his family, who wonder how such a softy brings home so much bacon. So he sticks to this role for several hours, with occasional lapses into horseplay, wisecracks, story-telling and excessive imbibing of sugars and starches in various forms.

Then he goes home as he came, with another newspaper which he ready exactly as he did the morning one—with this exception: He sees the headline first. So, he arrives home, turns on radio or television, grabs a snack, horseplays with the frau; she gives him the devil about something; he takes refuge in a magazine and sulks; she makes up to him; they eat. Then stay home, look at television, play gin or canasta or something with another couple; talk on the telephone; horseplay with the children; go to movies; go to a church supper; go to a lodge or union or something. To bed by around 11 after having had a snack or two.

This guy's name is Joe Doakes, Sam Kaplan, Frank Esposito, John Smith, Bill Jones. And his wife's name is Shirley.

In 1948, he voted for Harry Truman; in 1950, he was for Bob Taft. He dislikes Dean Acheson and would vote anti-Russian, anti-British, anti-Europe, if he knew how. He is sore about how the U.S.A. puts up and shuts up.

He is the best adjusted guy in the world.

Defeated Congressmen's Votes Will Be Watched

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When the American people adopted the Twentieth Amendment to the Consituation, changing Inauguration Day from March 4 to January 20 and stipulating that each new congress shall begin on January 3, the general belief was that so-called "lame duck" sessions would never recur.

But the 81st Congress is meeting now, notwithstanding the fact that nearly 70 of its members either were not renominated or re-elected, and votes will be cast on pending legislation by persons who no longer represent their districts or their states, respectively.

The assumption hitherto has been that no session of Congress would be held betwen the November elections and January 3. There would have been none this year except that a national emergency faces the country, due to the war in the Far East and threats of Communist aggressions in Europe.

Thus, only legislation which has a bearing on the emergency is logical business for the present session. Already intimations have come from Capitol Hill that very little will be done between now and January. The truth is that efforts will be made, just the same, to press to a vote various matters which have nothing to do with the emergency but which will be pushed because the sponsors think they will have a better chance to obtain passage now than in the new Congress.

Spirit Against "Lame Ducks"

The idea that defeated members should hold chairmanships or other important places in the committees that determine the fate of legislation was never contemplated by the authors of the Twentieth Amendment. It is true that the amendment itself could not prohibit or prevent a special session from being called immediately after the November election at which a new Congress is elected but the spirit of the amendment at least would seem to be against any legislative action in which "lame ducks" participate.

In almost every other parliament in the world defeated members lose their seats immediately when they fail of election.

In many instances in the past there were grave abuses of legislative power by members of the House and Senate who were defeated for either renomination or re-election. This was when in December immediately after the November elections the second regular session of Congress started. It lasted until March 4. Many a member of Congress who was angling for an appointment in the executive establishment or perhaps for a good job in private industry or with some of the pressure groups would cast his vote with an eye to his forthcoming livelihood.

Abuse Became Conspicuous

The abuse became so conspicuous that the late Senator George W. The present session of Congress may draw attention to new aspects of power wielded by defeated members in allegedly representing areas they really do not any longer represent. The federal laws make it a crime for a president or anyone else in the executive branch of the government to offer any job or anything else of value to any member of Congress in order to influence his vote. It will be interesting to watch the votes of the defeated members.

THE NEW YORK (INS)—THE PASSING SHOW:

One aspect of the endlessly incredible A-bomb story that may never be told, even by an A-spy, is what lay in the mind of Joe Stalin at the Potsdam conference, the day after we proved at Alamagordo, N. Mex., that the fantastic weapon worked.

The word had come to the late Henry L. Stimson, then our secretary of war, in a pre-arranged code. It was in the form of a message reading, "Baby boy born today mother and child doing well."

The non-com who decoded and delivered it, without knowing its meaning, expressed a wish to a Stimson aide that Mrs. Stimson and the baby would thrive. (Mrs. Stimson was a very old lady at the time.)

The American delegation at Potsdam (this was July, 1945) now knew we had in our possession an instrument so appalling that it would end the war against Japan. And this being a time of much palsy-walsiness between our side and the Russians, we probably would have told all—if prompted. We might have given away the whole process, or A-bombs themselves, as an inducement to persuade Russia to enter the war against Japan.

Stalin, by an excruciating coincidence, was chairman of the next day's meeting of the Big Three. An item on the day's agenda went something like this: "Atomic energy, progress in." But when Joe got to that item he said through his interpreter, "We will let this pass and go on to the next item."

Had his spies in our atomic setup told him, and was he waiting for us to do the talking? Had his own progress in A-bomb building reached such a point at that time that he chose to keep us from knowing how far along it was?

Or did he pull one of the prize skulls of history? If he had known about the success of the New Mexico test, he would also probably have known that we planned to drop one on Japan as quickly as possible. Then why did he wait until after we dropped it on Hiroshima, in the fading few days of the war, before sending the Red army against Japan in order to get in on such spoils as were offered?

During the late war a lieutenant colonel named Tom Paradine was stationed at the Los Angeles port of embarkation, and one of his jobs was to ship countless fighting men and mountains or armor into war. Now he's in a happier export job.

Paradine, a past commander of the Schenley Post No. 1190 of the American Legion is national director of the Legion's "Tide of Toys." His goal this year is to send 10,000,000 gifts to needy youngsters throughout the world. American Legion posts in every city in this country act as collection headquarters for the campaign—and they will be distributed on the other end by CARE, Inc.

Paradine suggests that each child who gives up an old or new toy (toy guns, soldiers, tanks, etc., are not allowed) attach a personal note to it—for the kid who gets it overseas.

It could make for a better world. Bing Crosby is one who thinks so. He's the honorary national chairman of "Tide of Toys."

From Hotelman Conrad Hilton's vigorous speech, after receiving the annual award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at the Waldorf:

"We have broken faith with those who fought and died for freedom and who warned us 'if you break faith with us who die we shall not sleep.'

"If we believe what they said, we here tonight know that these boys do not sleep in peace, and we also know that we do not live in peace—and why? Because when the boys had won their victories at arms we permitted the forces of hate, injustice and appeasement to take the victories from them.

"Across the world the boys of two wars have been betrayed. And in solemn truth I say to you, if we allow the forces of evil to refashion the world to their image and likeness, if we let hate, injustice and appeasement guide us during these next few years, if we break faith, we shall never live in peace again."

Ex-Red Capital Provides Test For UN In Korea

By WILLIAM JORDEN

PYONGYANG, Korea — (AP) — Imagine Dallas, or Denver, or Detroit without a city government, without water or electricity, with half its population fled.

Take away most of the factory managers, doctors, teachers, engineers, police and firemen. Close all the banks and remove most of the money. Hide or destroy most of the food stores.

That was the plight of this former Communist capital of North Korea on the day it fell. A handful of United Nations advisors, most of them American Army officers, are working day and night to put the city back on its feet.

The success or failure of this stop-gap U. N. effort may color the attitude of hundreds of thousands of North Koreans toward future U. N. moves. Thus far the citizens of Pyongyang are inclined to view the U. N. with hope, the Americans with nervous gratitude and the South Koreans with deep distrust.

Here is what Pyongyang's interim city government has given the townspeople so far:

Public safety—A police force of 1,600 men, 700 of them armed; a police training school and the nucleus of a fire department.

Utilities—Available 24 hours a day in East Pyongyang; four hours a day in West Pyongyang. Electricity at two airstrips and water filtration plants.

Supply—A steady supply of food, thus far, from a 10-day stockpile which is kept under guard.

Finance — A fairly stable price level pegged to the average wage. Prices are maintained by police supervision and warning.

Transportation — 30 city-owned barges and five street cars, ready to operate when power becomes available; 20 trucks, about half of them operable.

Labor—Employment for thousands of civilians, mostly laborers, on military and municipal projects.

Public health—Five hospitals in operation and plans under way for medical examination of refugees and control of disease.

Even those modest achievements seem nearly miraculous to observers who see the obstacles which had to be overcome. But a great deal remains to be done if mass discontent and hardships are to be lessened in the winter months ahead.

Civil assistance officers say their most pressing problems are directly caused by the large number of unauthorized South Korean army and civilian personnel who have flocked into Pyongyang to reap a rich harvest.

The food situation is not considered serious now. But the civil assistance officer handling supply, Capt. Malcolm D. Brannen, Greenville, S. C., warns that unless additional stocks are stored quickly a great many people will go hungry.

There are two main reasons why food is not being put in warehouses: The shortage of transportation to gather available stocks and the shipment of rice to Seoul. It can be sold in the south for five times the Pyongyang market price.

Transportation is scarce because of the number of vehicles confiscated by the Communists and either lost during the fighting or taken north. There is a fuel shortage too. But Transportation Officer Capt. Louis L. Toth, Columbia, S. C., put his finger on the reason why the Pyongyang city government hesitates to put even the trucks it has on the road.

Laborador retrievers were found to be especially adept at scenting out land mines during the war.

Spirit Blamed In Deaths

YINH LIET, Sudan—(AP)—Residents of this Bahr el Ghazal Province village blame the Jakunuan—the spirit of the water that lives on human blood—for the death by drowning of a number of young girls.

Less imaginative informants say, however, the girls drowned because they misjudged the depth of a pond.

STARVATION DIETS BEING A THING OF THE PAST, THE MODERN WOMAN LOSES HER POUNDAGE ENJOYABLY

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Starvation diets are a thing of the past. Modern woman chooses a diet which improves her looks and disposition and gives her increased vigor as she concentrates on losing pounds.

Every reducing book stresses the need for vitamins in the foods we eat while dieting. Black coffee and crackers may get you down to skeleton proportions, if that is what you want, but you'll pay for exhausting your body eventually.

The most effective reducing program begins with a day or two of liquid diet. As a matter of fact, fruit nectars, milk drinks and vitamin-full health cocktails can be turned out in 15 seconds to one minute with an electric blender which can crush carrots, tomatoes, spinach and fruits into healthful rich juice.

Milk can be made palatable in 20 seconds by whipping it with a banana. Use a medium-size banana to one cup of milk and combine one cup of finely cracked ice. Blended together, it is a delectable drink.

A special vitamin-packed health cocktail combines ⅔ cup of sauerkraut juice, ¼ cup of parsley, 1 medium-size tomato, ¼ cup celery leaves. This also is a delightful change from watered-down broth and weak tea, dieters find.

The advantage of these blenders, in many instances, is that often a necessary food can be disguised with other nutrients. Liver really can be taken quite easily—even raw—when combined with tomato juice, pineapple juice, milk, consomme or broth. A cup of diced raw liver mixed with any of these liquids will produce a tasty drink without the slightest suspicion of a liver taste.

If you run out of ideas for mixing vegetables to produce drinks, there are a number of beauty and health books which can be referred to for suggestions. Gaylord Hauser's "Look Younger, Live Longer" stresses the need for vitamins and offers many suggestions for healthful vegetable and fruit cocktails.

A delightful vegetable juice cocktail can be made by mixing carrots, spinach, celery, cucumber, tomatoes and a little water cress together in just the right amounts to achieve a tangy flavor. It depends on what you consider a taste treat. Experiment with different proportions of vegetables until you find a formula that is particularly palatable.

Once you get interested in liquids, you will enjoy mixing these concoctions, and dieting will become fun instead of a chore.

Paraguay is about the size of California.

Will you be fatigued and drooping for Christmas parties? Or fresh, sparkling and ready for fun?

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE simplest way to combat the fatigue that robs the holiday festivities of their expected pleasure is to prevent it before it starts. Enjoyment will be yours if you begin right now to follow an anti-fatigue campaign.

If you want to rush through myriad tasks and scramble on countless rounds, yet be fresh and gay for the season's parties, teach yourself breath control. One of the big secrets of a tireless, nerve-free body and mind lies in deep, natural breathing.

It's All In Breathing

Why? Because deep breathing improves the poor posture that leds to body fatigue. You can't slouch or slump when you are filling your lungs to their capacity! Furthermore, you automatically supply your muscle tissues with the increased oxygen that is necessary for sustained physical vitality. And you'll discover that nervous tension diminishes almost magically as your physical fatigue is lessened. Want to know how to achieve these coveted results? This is what you do:

1. Place your hands on your lower ribs so you can feel the expansion and contraction of your rib cage as you breathe. Inhale deeply and steadily for a count of four. Be sure to keep your shoulders relaxed and your chest elevated all the while. Now, slowly exhale to a count of four.

What happened? Did your chest heave up and down? If so, you're on the wrong track. The only movement that should have occurred in your entire torso was the expansion and contraction of your lower ribs. To correct your breathing, practice to a rhythmic count of four until expansion and contraction occur in the right place. Now is the time!

Find the Trick

2. Here's an exercise to help you transfer your rhythmical breathing into everyday movements. Lie on your back with your legs straight, your arms at your sides and inhale. Raise the right leg up in a 40-5° angle to the floor and simultaneously swing both arms up and back over your head to the floor. As you do this exhale hard. Then, lower your arms and leg to the floor as you inhale deeply. Repeat with the opposite leg.

Now, did you find the trick in this exercise? Your inhalations and exhalations are exactly opposite to what they would be if you were not concentrating. That's what's good for you: You have to think about your breath control if you want to put it to work to combat fatigue!

Tomorrow: Are you a friendly person?

But the forceful, gray-haired lady, who owns a vast estate along Georgetown's Gold Coast (almost as valuable as the lands where papa struck it rich in oil) has lately taken up wrestling! . . . An avid devotee of the wrestling matches, she sits up, ram-rod straight, never missing a trick, out at Turner's Arena every Wednesday night . . . Her crackling black eyes under heavy brows study every contortion the big lugs twist themselves into . . . And she enjoys discussing the finer points with her constant escort, George Coulon, the former collegiate heavyweight, now pushing past his 50's.

Another absolutely-ageless-but-still-going-strong oldster, Robert Lincoln O'Brien commanded attention the other day . . . He dominated the meetings of two organizations—the Washington Literary Society and the Gridiron Club . . . A Gridiron member since 1899, O'Brien joined the newsmen's club when he was secretary to President Cleveland. . . . He often jokes about how the White House staff then consisted of seven, plus three messenger boys.

Now the White House employs over 1,000 people.

O'Brien says "I knew when I left they'd need more than one man to fill my shoes."

He chuckles, too, over the thrill of inserting one word in a speech of Cleveland's about tariffs . . . Stuck in the word "high" and the President let it remain.

"Today it's different," observes O'Brien. "With all the secretaries and ghost writers doing speeches, I suppose the President would be very proud if he inserted one word and they let it stay."

Now that Thanksgiving is over you can entertain the family with a short turkey talk.

If the family won't listen, and they seldom do, you can just tell yourself how well informed you are.

For an intellecutual feast I have gathered some turkey stuff (not stuffing) from Washington's naturalists . . . And we have quite a colony here.

Probably the country's best-known ornithologist, Roger Torey Peterson, (his field guide books on birds made bird-watching easier and pleasanter for thousands of American nature lovers) consented to talk turkeys with me . . . He also suggested I telephone his friend, John Aldrich, who has completed many a paper, treatise, manuscript, pamphlet and book on the turkey . . . And here's some bits I picked up:

'Twas not the Pilgrim Fathers celebrating the first Thanksgiving who found out that turkey was a tasty bird!

Many years before the Pilgrims landed, turkeys had been raised in Spain, France and England . . . When Cortez went to Mexico, around 1530, he found the turkeydomesticated by Indians . . . Shortly afterwards Jesuit priests took crates of turkeys back to Spain.

The turkey you enjoyed Thanksgiving Day and the native American wild turkey hybridize readily . . . Showing they belong to the same family . . .

An easy mark for the hunter, native wild turkeys, rigidly protected by game laws, aren't near extinction.

Over 70 and still a non-conformist, Standard Oil heiress Anne has tried about everything . . . Including sailing a Chinese junk, or river boat, around the oceans of the world . . . Also subsidizing numerous other expeditions in the interests of science, or whatever struck her unpredictable fancy.

But the forceful, gray-haired lady, who owns a vast estate along Georgetown's Gold Coast (almost as valuable as the lands where papa struck it rich in oil) has lately taken up wrestling! . . . An avid devotee of the wrestling matches, she sits up, ram-rod straight, never missing a trick, out at Turner's Arena every Wednesday night . . . Her crackling black eyes under heavy brows study every contortion the big lugs twist themselves into . . . And she enjoys discussing the finer points with her constant escort, George Coulon, the former collegiate heavyweight, now pushing past his 50's.

AUSTINE

Another absolutely-ageless-but-still-going-strong oldster, Robert Lincoln O'Brien commanded attention the other day . . . He dominated the meetings of two organizations—the Washington Literary Society and the Gridiron Club . . . A Gridiron member since 1899, O'Brien joined the newsmen's club when he was secretary to President Cleveland. . . . He often jokes about how the White House staff then consisted of seven, plus three messenger boys.

Now the White House employs over 1,000 people.

O'Brien says "I knew when I left they'd need more than one man to fill my shoes."

He chuckles, too, over the thrill of inserting one word in a speech of Cleveland's about tariffs . . . Stuck in the word "high" and the President let it remain.

"Today it's different," observes O'Brien. "With all the secretaries and ghost writers doing speeches, I suppose the President would be very proud if he inserted one word and they let it stay."

Argentine Ambassador Remorino hasn't been at his desk for quite a while . . . It hasn't been heart troubles that kept him away—but his gall bladder.

Feeling ill in N. Y., he developed a high temperature and was rushed to the hospital where doctors decided to operate immediately . . . Now back at N.Y.'s Park Lane Hotel, a nurse still constantly attends him.

Now that Thanksgiving is over you can entertain the family with a short turkey talk.

If the family won't listen, and they seldom do, you can just tell yourself how well informed you are.

For an intellecutual feast I have gathered some turkey stuff (not stuffing) from Washington's naturalists . . . And we have quite a colony here.

Probably the country's best-known ornithologist, Roger Torey Peterson, (his field guide books on birds made bird-watching easier and pleasanter for thousands of American nature lovers) consented to talk turkeys with me . . . He also suggested I telephone his friend, John Aldrich, who has completed many a paper, treatise, manuscript, pamphlet and book on the turkey . . . And here's some bits I picked up:

'Twas not the Pilgrim Fathers celebrating the first Thanksgiving who found out that turkey was a tasty bird!

Many years before the Pilgrims landed, turkeys had been raised in Spain, France and England . . . When Cortez went to Mexico, around 1530, he found the turkeydomesticated by Indians . . . Shortly afterwards Jesuit priests took crates of turkeys back to Spain.

The turkey you enjoyed Thanksgiving Day and the native American wild turkey hybridize readily . . . Showing they belong to the same family . . .

An easy mark for the hunter, native wild turkeys, rigidly protected by game laws, aren't near extinction.

Army Lieutenant In Germany Receives Estate Of $13,000 By The Will Of A Woman Who Never Knew He Existed

A young Army lieutenant serving in Germany is $13,000 richer today thanks to a woman who never met him, saw him or even knew he existed.

The lucky lieutenant is Frank C. Boerger. He was awarded the money because of an odd provision in the will of the late Janet Buchanan Grover, who died in 1946.

In her will, Miss Grover directed that a tenth of her estate—slightly more than $13,000—be given to a military Academy cadet of the class following her death. The cadet was to be chosen on the basis of "character, ability and willingness to serve his country."

The award was made in honor of Gen. Cuvier Grover, her grandfather, who fought in the Civil War and is buried on the West Point Grounds.

When West Point officials learned of the bequest, they began to scan the roster of the class of 1947 to pick the man they would hand $13,000.

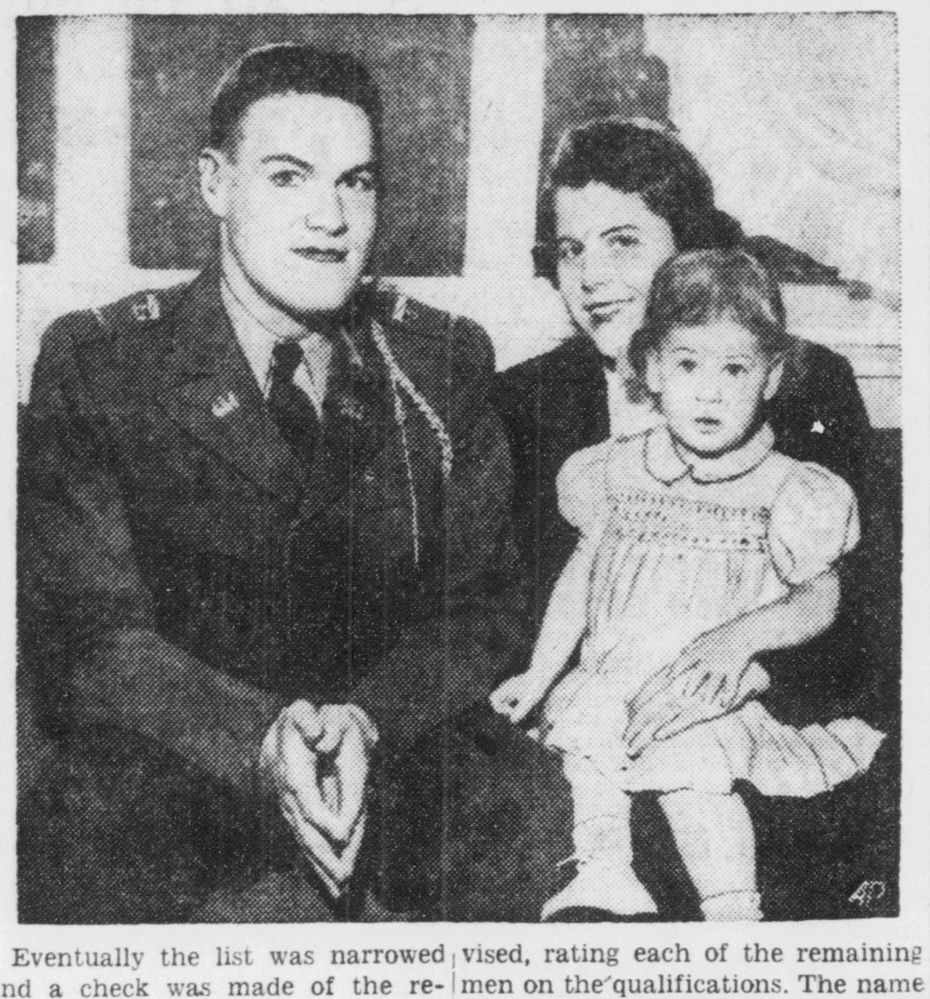
It wasn't easy.

Because it took a couple of years to probate the will, settle some fine legal questions and handle a few small bequests it wasn't until 1948 that West Point brass began to pick their man. By that time, the class of 1947 was scattered over the world.

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, Academy superintendent, asked members of the class to nominate men who filled the requirements. When the names were compiled the Superintendent, as directed in the will, called together a committee of three composed of himself, the cadet first captain of the '47 class and the cadet adjutant of '47.

The committee went over the names. High on the list was Lt. William J. Schuder, who had been cadet first captain.

In the initial ballot, Lt. Schuder drew one vote. By voting for himself Schuder could have gained the necessary two votes, and the $13,000. Instead, he campaigned actively for another candidate.



Eventually the list was narrowed and a check was made of the remaining names to see how they are faring in their Army careers. (willingness to serve his country" being one of the will provisions.)

Finally, a scoring system was devised, rating each of the remaining men on the qualifications. The name of the winner, says Superintendent Moore, "simply jumped up when we totalled the points."

In Darmstadt, Germany, where he has served for two years with the First Engineers Battalion, Lt. Boerger says he is not going to let the money interfere with his Army career.

"I'm going to save that money to educate my children," he said. "I had always planned to serve in the Army and this won't change my plans a bit."

Boerger, 28, grew up in Milbanks, S. D. His wife is from Morris, Minn., and they have a two-year-old daughter. The family lives in a comfortable little house in the American military community in Darmstadt.

At West Point, Boerger ranked No. 2 in general excellence in the class of 310, and No. 2 in military rating. His brother, Phillip, was a classmate, and stood third militarily and 41st in general excellence. Frank was cadet commander of the first regiment of the corps. His brother commanded the second regiment.

Miss Grover, last surviving child of her parents, came from a long line of military men. Her family came to Massachusetts in 1642, and she says in her will, her "forbears… for the last 300 years have given their lives for, or spent their lives in, the service of this country."

She got her money by inheritance from her parents and other relatives. She spent much of her early life in Washington and her later life in Europe, chiefly Rome. She was 64 when she died.

Gen. Cuvier Grover, in whose honor the award was made, was a member of the West Point Class of 1850, standing fourth in the class of 44 men. His commission as a brigadier general was signed by Abraham Lincoln in 1862 and he was wounded at Cedar Creek during the Civil War. He died in 1885 at the age of 57.

Miss Grover presented the rest of her considerable estate to churches, charitable organizations in Italy and America, hospitals and homes for the aged. She also awarded $13,000 to the former Queen of Italy to be given to a worthy Italian charity.

Farmers Want Arms

RANGOON—(AP)—Farmers in the Hanthawaddy district, 70 miles north of Rangoon, want to be armed because their ricefields are in areas surrounded by rebels and bandits. They decided at a mass meeting to ask the Burmese government to give them guns and ammunition.

Boxcars stretching from New York to within 50 miles of Chicago would be needed to carry the weight displaced by the 400 ships of the UN naval force in Korean waters.

Trolley Wire Is Stolen At Barton

The theft of 2,000 feet of trolley wire at a Barton area mine yesterday marked the fifth time in the past few months that the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company has been subject to fires and burglaries.

George D. Campbell, owner of the union-operated diggings on Route 36 just south of Barton, said footprints in the snow indicated that three men last night cut down the 2,000 feet of wire from its poles and cross bars.

No trace of the wire was found, Campbell reported. He said this is the third time wire has been stolen from the trolley poles, — the first time 400 feet was missing and the second, 750.

October 23 a fanhouse at the mine was destroyed by fire termed by authorities as being of incendiary origin. A week later another fanhouse was leveled by flames of the same origin.

The sheriff's office received word of the theft at 10 a.m. and Sheriff Edward R. Muir dispatched Deputies William Chappell and William Orr to the scene.

Campbell was of the opinion that the thieves cut the wire off the hangars and slid it down the hill over the snow. The trolley line extends from near Route 36 up a hill to a plain and then branches north an south.

The incident marks the continuance of a number of acts of violence and thefts among the coal mines in the George's Creek section. No arrests have been made.

From the beginning of the Korean conflict until October 27, 21,576 patients were evacuated by air from Korea and southern Japan to the Tokyo area.

Two U. S. Navy frigates, among 27 loaned to Russia during World War II, now are being used by the Republic of Korea Navy.

South End Merchants Plan Yule Decorations On Avenue

Will Light Christmas Tree On Race Street

Virginia Avenue will have illuminated laurel strand Christmas decorations this year for the first time in more than 20 years.

The South End Business Men's Association has announced lighted strands will be turned on by the end of the week. An order has been placed with the Potomac Edison Company which has informed the group it would begin placing strands in position today barring any change in the weather which would put an added burden on its crews.

The strands will cover Virginia Avenue from Boone Street to Laing Avenue.

Canvass Nets Funds

Money for the program was raised by a store-to-store canvass on Virginia Avenue and through a contribution from the association's funds. A total of $1,000 was obtained, George Millenson, chairman of the decorations committee, said.

The association, organized two years ago, has as its purpose the stimulating interest and pride in the community through the creation of better facilities, Millenson said.

Sponsoring a Christmas program for the second-straight year, the association has endeavored to give the South End a part in other such observances, he added.

The decorations will include laurel and stars which were used last year in addition to the new, varied-colored light bulbs.

The association is making a special plea to merchants along Virginia Avenue to decorate their display windows in harmony with the street plan.

Signs To Be Extinguished

To give added emphasis to street lighting, merchants are also requested to extinguish neon advertising signs after 9 p. m. during the time the street decorations are used

As last year, the association will also sponsor the erection of a lighted Christmas tree on Race street The tree will be dedicated Tuesday, December 5. Plans call for a tree 15 to 18 feet tall.

Mrs. Karl M. Lehman and A. J Saliga, association members, are in charge of arrangements for the tree and program, details of which will be announced later.

The night the tree is dedicated will also mark a visit of "Santa Claus" to the South End.

Buckingham Palace is where British Royalty lives while in London.

Virginia probably boasts more wild turkeys than any other state.

And the experts, both Mr. Peterson and Mr. Aldrich, who, incidentally, had Thanksgiving dinner together, heartily agreed that:

No matter how you slice it, turkey is pretty good eating.

• — • — •

Speaking of poultry—Sen. Scott Lucas, now a lame duck, actually did break down and cry election night after his defeat and still feels the Administration has let him down.

Though he has already told confidantes he will open a law office here and stack up some cash, Lucas may yet get a better consoling reason to dry his tears.

If Pres. Truman approves "The Fire Brannan Plan," and Secretary Brannan does resign, then tall, dark dapper, good poker-player Scott Lucas may bow into the Cabinet.

The ex-majority leader, a veteran of the Agricultural Committee, isn't, however, counting his Agricultural chickens before they hatch . . . It's dobutful if he'd accept a judgeship in Illinois for a few thousand a year when he could make a mint in private practice.

P.S. Now, no matter what he does, I think I'm pretty well covered!

Collects Ethiopian Seeds

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Dr. W. Andrew Archer, plant explorer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is collecting seeds of Ethiopia's main agricultural crops on a field safari in the interior. He is chiefly interested in Ethiopia's grain crops, especially barley.

He said specimens of the seed collected will be sent to agricultural colleges and agronomists in the United States for experimental purposes.

He said certain types of wild olives, wild dates and wild lemons are found only in Ethiopia.

Trolley Wire Is Stolen At Barton

The theft of 2,000 feet of trolley wire at a Barton area mine yesterday marked the fifth time in the past few months that the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company has been subject to fires and burglaries.

George D. Campbell, owner of the union-operated diggings on Route 36 just south of Barton, said footprints in the snow indicated that three men last night cut down the 2,000 feet of wire from its poles and cross bars.

No trace of the wire was found, Campbell reported. He said this is the third time wire has been stolen from the trolley poles, — the first time 400 feet was missing and the second, 750.

October 23 a fanhouse at the mine was destroyed by fire termed by authorities as being of incendiary origin. A week later another fanhouse was leveled by flames of the same origin.

The sheriff's office received word of the theft at 10 a.m. and Sheriff Edward R. Muir dispatched Deputies William Chappell and William Orr to the scene.

Campbell was of the opinion that the thieves cut the wire off the hangars and slid it down the hill over the snow. The trolley line extends from near Route 36 up a hill to a plain and then branches north an south.

The incident marks the continuance of a number of acts of violence and thefts among the coal mines in the George's Creek section. No arrests have been made.

From the beginning of the Korean conflict until October 27, 21,576 patients were evacuated by air from Korea and southern Japan to the Tokyo area.

South End Merchants Plan Yule Decorations On Avenue

Will Light Christmas Tree On Race Street

Virginia Avenue will have illuminated laurel strand Christmas decorations this year for the first time in more than 20 years.

The South End Business Men's Association has announced lighted strands will be turned on by the end of the week. An order has been placed with the Potomac Edison Company which has informed the group it would begin placing strands in position today barring any change in the weather which would put an added burden on its crews.

The strands will cover Virginia Avenue from Boone Street to Laing Avenue.

Canvass Nets Funds

Money for the program was raised by a store-to-store canvass on Virginia Avenue and through a contribution from the association's funds. A total of $1,000 was obtained, George Millenson, chairman of the decorations committee, said.

The association, organized two years ago, has as its purpose the stimulating interest and pride in the community through the creation of better facilities, Millenson said.

Sponsoring a Christmas program for the second-straight year, the association has endeavored to give the South End a part in other such observances, he added.

The decorations will include laurel and stars which were used last year in addition to the new, varied-colored light bulbs.

The association is making a special plea to merchants along Virginia Avenue to decorate their display windows in harmony with the street plan.

Signs To Be Extinguished

To give added emphasis to street lighting, merchants are also requested to extinguish neon advertising signs after 9 p. m. during the time the street decorations are used

As last year, the association will also sponsor the erection of a lighted Christmas tree on Race street The tree will be dedicated Tuesday, December 5. Plans call for a tree 15 to 18 feet tall.

Mrs. Karl M. Lehman and A. J Saliga, association members, are in charge of arrangements for the tree and program, details of which will be announced later.

The night the tree is dedicated will also mark a visit of "Santa Claus" to the South End.

Virginia probably boasts more wild turkeys than any other state.

And the experts, both Mr. Peterson and Mr. Aldrich, who, incidentally, had Thanksgiving dinner together, heartily agreed that:

No matter how you slice it, turkey is pretty good eating.

Speaking of poultry—Sen. Scott Lucas, now a lame duck, actually did break down and cry election night after his defeat and still feels the Administration has let him down.

Though he has already told confidantes he will open a law office here and stack up some cash, Lucas may yet get a better consoling reason to dry his tears.

If Pres. Truman approves "The Fire Brannan Plan," and Secretary Brannan does resign, then tall, dark dapper, good poker-player Scott Lucas may bow into the Cabinet.

The ex-majority leader, a veteran of the Agricultural Committee, isn't, however, counting his Agricultural chickens before they hatch . . . It's dobutful if he'd accept a judgeship in Illinois for a few thousand a year when he could make a mint in private practice.

P.S. Now, no matter what he does, I think I'm pretty well covered!

Collects Ethiopian Seeds

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Dr. W. Andrew Archer, plant explorer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is collecting seeds of Ethiopia's main agricultural crops on a field safari in the interior. He is chiefly interested in Ethiopia's grain crops, especially barley.

He said specimens of the seed collected will be sent to agricultural colleges and agronomists in the United States for experimental purposes.

He said certain types of wild olives, wild dates and wild lemons are found only in Ethiopia.

Judge J. D. Mish Is To Resume Court Duties

After having been ill since September, Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish, of Hagerstown, is expected to resume some of his court duties within the next week or so.

Judge Mish visited the Court House in Hagerstown recently for the first time since suffering a heart attack. He had been a patient in Washington County Hospital. During his Court House visit he announced plans to return to the bench.

Associate Judge George Henderson who has been handling the bulk of court matters during Judge Mish's absence, commented in Washington county last week that the heavy load of non-support cases before the Circuit Court was one of the causes for Judge Mish's illness.

Jury Urges Corrections

Judge Henderson made his comment after receiving the Washington County grand jury report which strongly urged correction of what it calls weaknesses that exist in the Juvenile Court system.

The grand jury recommended that laws be passed to strengthen and broaden the authority of the Juvenile Court. This would take a lot of pressure off the Circuit Court and off the grand jury, both of which now spend most of their time handling non-support cases.

For some time a plan has been under consideration here to give the Juvenile Court original authority in all non-support cases instead of having to take such matters into the higher Circuit Court for final action.

In fact, a bill was introduced in the General Assembly by Senator D. Kenneth McLaughlin, of Washington County, two years ago to correct the situation. But the bill was vetoed by Governor Lane. Last year McLaughlin introduced a similar bill and it got lost in the last-minute adjournment shuffle.

Senator McLaughlin says he will introduce the bill again in January.

Transit Lines Boost Service To South End

The bad weather and Christmas shopping has resulted in the Cumberland Transit Lines starting service every ten minutes to South End.

G. M. Davis, president, said that buses will leave every ten minutes from Baltimore Street from now until Christmas.

This additional service will be offered only during store hours.

RETIRES — John A. Remon, vice-president of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Companies, retires from active service Thursday to end a 41-year career in the industry. A native of Salem, Mass., he began his career with the Long Lines traffic department of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Baltimore in 1909. He joined C & P in 1925 and became traffic manager for Maryland, West Virginia, Washington, and Virginia. In 1936 he became a director and vice president.

Materials ranging from 3,000 miles of telephone wire to 3,000,000 water-purifying tablets were landed in the Inchon area by the U. S. Navy within two weeks after the landings.

Pfc. Wade Paugh Released By Reds

Among 29 American prisoners released by Chinese Communists in North Korea last Friday was Pfc. Wade M. Paugh, son of Mrs. Agnes Leona Paugh, Route 3, Swanton, who had been serving with the 25th Infantry Division, according to a casualty list of the Department of Defense.

The 29 ex-prisoners are in various U. S. Army hospitals.

Military authorities reported the group believed their captors tried to make "Fifth Column" out of them. All were given Red indoctrination lectures which assailed American political and military leaders.

Barbara Rohman Enlists In WAF

A recent enlistee in the Woman's Air Force is Miss Barbara Jean "Bobby" Rohman, 21, daughter of Mrs. Reba Rohman, 227 Saratoga Street, and the late Edward Rohman, according to M. Sgt. Clarence Biehn.

Miss Rohman enlisted here for the WAF and was accepted after examinations at the Army and Air Force Main Recruiting Station at Martinsburg, W. Va.

Miss Rohman enlisted here for the Woman's Air Force and was accepted after mental and physical examinations at the Army and Air Force Main recruiting station at Martinsburg, W. Va.

She is awaiting orders to report to Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas, where she will receive indoctrination training.

For the past two years she has been a student at Frostburg State Teachers College where she matriculated after being graduated from Ursuline Academy.

One of the top local women athletes, she was a member of the East Side Maids, the championship soft ball team in the Queen's League sponsored by the City Recreation Association this summer. In addition she was a playleader at one of the local playgrounds.

County Leader Criticizes Snow Clearing

A Roads Department foreman was criticized yesterday by County Commissioner William H. Lemmert for failing to clear county roads in the eastern section of the county over the weekend.

Lemmert made his remarks at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to County Engineer John J. Smith. He told Smith the foreman used poor judgement in not being ready for snow removal and failing to utilize a grader, which was left standing on top of a mountain road in the Green Ridge section.

Lemmert said he received a number of complaints from residents of that area and that school buses, mail delivery vehicles, farmers and other residents were unable to travel on the roads due to the heavy snow and sleet storm.

It was also decided by Lemmert and Commissioner James Holmes to place a night mechanic and helper on duty at the warehouse during the winter months.

County Engineer Smith was ordered to attend to this matter. It was pointed out that trucks which need repairs may be made ready for use the next day by the night mechanic and his helper. This will avoid tieing up men and equipment.

Both Lemmert and Holmes also informed Smith that during periods of snow, the men should be used only as necessary with the force being rotated. It is costly to have men on duty when there is no work available, they pointed out.

Snow removal work over the week end cost more than $1,000. Lemmert said this can be expected, but he emphasized that the situation in the eastern section of the county was deplorable. Some action was indicated to prevent another occurrence of this nature.

In the four-month period ended October 28, UN naval forces destroyed 78 aircraft, 253 artillery positions, 424 military buildings and innumerable other military targets.

Cuban And American Scientists Gather Gulf Stream Information

MIAMI — (INS) — Cuban and American scientists are pressing an oceanic investigation today which was begun 468 years ago by Christopher Columbus and picked up again 300 years later by Benjamin Franklin.

The well-organized scientific research project will give the world as much information as the oceanographers conducting it can discover about the Gulf Stream and its baffling course.

Columbus, the first man to record the existence of the stream, did not learn much more than the fact that it was warm and it flowed.

Franklin saw the same thing and wondered why. Since the wise old American man of letters posed the question, scientists have picked up a little more information, but they still have not answered it.

Today, an international team made up of Cuban navy scientists and oceanographers from the University of Miami is sailing around the stream in a converted Cuban gunboat gathering more information than Columbus or Franklin dreamed was possible.

What the scientists learn may make weather predicting in the southern United States and much of Western Europe easier. It also will serve as a boon to the men who navigate the Atlantic and fish in its waters.

Dr. F. G. Walton Smith, head of the University of Miami's marine laboratory, explained that one of the things the team will check is what makes the stream push between 20 and 30 million tons of water each second through the Florida straits.

The expedition, which includes three University of Miami scientists, is under the direction of Dr. Luis Howell Rivero, oceanographer for the Cuban navy.

Dr. Rivero has some 50 men with him aboard the Cuban ship Yara, gathering samples of water and sea life from the Gulf Stream and recording its flow.

Dr. Smith, who will publish a joint report on the expedition with the Cuban government, said the study should bear out a generally accepted theory that the stream is pushed along by trade winds.

The team of experts will make detailed recordings of the current in an effort to discover what causes the Gulf Stream's fluctuations and if those changes in flow can be charted.

In order to carry out the research, Dr. Rivero and his colleagues must have ideal weather conditions. For this reason, they have no idea how long the study will take.

When it is completed, however, the findings of the group will be tied in with other research on the stream's movement and made available to the navy and any other seagoing group which needs it.

France To Cause No. 1 Headache In Rearming Europe

PARIS—(AP)—To arm Europe is going to cost the United States a lot more money, a lot more time, and a lot more headaches.

And the biggest cause of all these will be France—unless you include Russia.

The blame for all this?

A solid packet of it must be laid on the doorsteps of the United States itself. But not all.

Equally, however, it should be stated that the European rearmament program in America snapped into being the way the rearmament program in America snapped into being under the whiplash of the Korean conflict.

Here we are, five months after the beginning of the "great scare" in Korea, and not a great deal of rearmament has been accomplished in Europe.

The "why" of this doesn't find an easy answer. There are some explanations—but there is no quick solution. In Europe, things go slowly.

America, for one thing, sees only one foe. That is Russia and Communism. Europe sees other foes and other problems. The mere declaration by America that the combination of Russia and Communism is the worst foe and most urgently to be dealt with is not wholly convincing to Europeans. They won't act on the whiplash that stirred America. That is discouraging to Americans, but it is a hard fact which Americans must face.

The hard fact is that the French population, by and large, doesn't care two whoops about the Russian Menace. This is a tired population and the average Frenchman is more concerned about improving his very bad living standard than about building up armies.

Comes the big question: Is Europe the danger spot for America to help protect as a bulwark against Russia? The acts of Russia and its friends seem to give the answer. Communists everywhere in Europe are trying to prevent rearmament here. They don't mince words explaining why. It is because rearmament is a menace to Russia and Russian policy. And Russia, through its friends in the Orient, is working cleverly to thwart Western rearmament. There they are fighting a cheap and wasting war against the West. Nearly half of France's fighting money goes to carry on the war in Indochina. Some 5,000 guerrillas are tieing up an estimated 30,000 troops under British command in Malaya. The war in Korea has pinned down almost the whole of America's available striking force.

Only recently have the Dutch been able to reduce their forces in Indonesia, and China seems obligingly ready to help keep the drains open.

Brooklyn Gets Breukelen Thanks

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—Breukelen, Holland, has just exchanged new bulbs for old clothes with Brooklyn, U.S.A. The Associated Bulb Growers of Holland have shipped a case of choice tulip bulbs to the children of Brooklyn schools as a "thank you" for their aid to Breukelen.

In 1948, cooperating with the "Brooklyn Adopts Breukelen Project," they collected and sent over 1,000 cartons filled with needed clothes and food to the little town from which Brooklyn gets its name. The bulbs will be planted in the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens this month in a special section set aside for them.

Ghost Hunter Declares He's Still Chilled By Apparitions

EWELL, Eng. — (INS) — George Hurlock, who claims a nodding acquaintance with the best-known ghosts in Britain, never quite has become used to meeting apparitions face-to-face.

Hurlock, who is a "gentlemen's outfitter" by day and a ghost-hunter by night, said of the encounters:

"Everything in you turns to ice and you freeze."

Despite this uncomfortable feeling, Hurlock has lost the "scary" feeling he used to have.

But he turns angry when you so much as mention his pet "hate"—fake ghosts.

Hurlock says he has developed a "certain chemical," of undisclosed ingredients, which permits him to detect a fake "instantly."

He adds:

"And no one is harder to convince and more skeptical than myself concerning such things."

His first experience after becoming a ghost hunter was not a particular success.

Hurlock explained:

"After climbing a haystack at midnight, I tread on a soft jelly-like substance but from the awful language emanating from it, concluded it was a tramp's face and not a ghost."

One experience which still chills him is his meeting with a ghost on the stairs of Dunheved House in Croydon, a London suburb.

He said:

"I heard its animal grunting, smelled its awful stench and felt its ice blasts like a gorilla breathing over me."

Undismayed, Hurlock returned to his labors, hopeful of meeting more companionable apparitions.

The Guarani Indians are natives of Paraguay.

Nearly 500,000 magazines were distributed to American soldiers in Korea during the four-month period ended November 11, according to figures compiled by Special Services Section, GHQ, Far East Command.

France To Cause No. 1 Headache In Rearming Europe

PARIS—(AP)—To arm Europe is going to cost the United States a lot more money, a lot more time, and a lot more headaches.

And the biggest cause of all these will be France—unless you include Russia.

The blame for all this?

A solid packet of it must be laid on the doorsteps of the United States itself. But not all.

Equally, however, it should be stated that the European rearmament program in America snapped into being the way the rearmament program in America snapped into being under the whiplash of the Korean conflict.

Here we are, five months after the beginning of the "great scare" in Korea, and not a great deal of rearmament has been accomplished in Europe.

The "why" of this doesn't find an easy answer. There are some explanations—but there is no quick solution. In Europe, things go slowly.

America, for one thing, sees only one foe. That is Russia and Communism. Europe sees other foes and other problems. The mere declaration by America that the combination of Russia and Communism is the worst foe and most urgently to be dealt with is not wholly convincing to Europeans. They won't act on the whiplash that stirred America. That is discouraging to Americans, but it is a hard fact which Americans must face.

The hard fact is that the French population, by and large, doesn't care two whoops about the Russian Menace. This is a tired population and the average Frenchman is more concerned about improving his very bad living standard than about building up armies.

Comes the big question: Is Europe the danger spot for America to help protect as a bulwark against Russia? The acts of Russia and its friends seem to give the answer. Communists everywhere in Europe are trying to prevent rearmament here. They don't mince words explaining why. It is because rearmament is a menace to Russia and Russian policy. And Russia, through its friends in the Orient, is working cleverly to thwart Western rearmament. There they are fighting a cheap and wasting war against the West. Nearly half of France's fighting money goes to carry on the war in Indochina. Some 5,000 guerrillas are tieing up an estimated 30,000 troops under British command in Malaya. The war in Korea has pinned down almost the whole of America's available striking force.

Only recently have the Dutch been able to reduce their forces in Indonesia, and China seems obligingly ready to help keep the drains open.

Brooklyn Gets Breukelen Thanks

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—Breukelen, Holland, has just exchanged new bulbs for old clothes with Brooklyn, U.S.A. The Associated Bulb Growers of Holland have shipped a case of choice tulip bulbs to the children of Brooklyn schools as a "thank you" for their aid to Breukelen.

In 1948, cooperating with the "Brooklyn Adopts Breukelen Project," they collected and sent over 1,000 cartons filled with needed clothes and food to the little town from which Brooklyn gets its name. The bulbs will be planted in the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens this month in a special section set aside for them.

Ghost Hunter Declares He's Still Chilled By Apparitions

EWELL, Eng. — (INS) — George Hurlock, who claims a nodding acquaintance with the best-known ghosts in Britain, never quite has become used to meeting apparitions face-to-face.

Hurlock, who is a "gentlemen's outfitter" by day and a ghost-hunter by night, said of the encounters:

"Everything in you turns to ice and you freeze."

Despite this uncomfortable feeling, Hurlock has lost the "scary" feeling he used to have.

But he turns angry when you so much as mention his pet "hate"—fake ghosts.

Hurlock says he has developed a "certain chemical," of undisclosed ingredients, which permits him to detect a fake "instantly."

He adds:

"And no one is harder to convince and more skeptical than myself concerning such things."

His first experience after becoming a ghost hunter was not a particular success.

Hurlock explained:

"After climbing a haystack at midnight, I tread on a soft jelly-like substance but from the awful language emanating from it, concluded it was a tramp's face and not a ghost."

One experience which still chills him is his meeting with a ghost on the stairs of Dunheved House in Croydon, a London suburb.

He said:

"I heard its animal grunting, smelled its awful stench and felt its ice blasts like a gorilla breathing over me."

Undismayed, Hurlock returned to his labors, hopeful of meeting more companionable apparitions.

The Guarani Indians are natives of Paraguay.

Nearly 500,000 magazines were distributed to American soldiers in Korea during the four-month period ended November 11, according to figures compiled by Special Services Section, GHQ, Far East Command.

Washington And Lee Accepts Invite To Play In Gator Bowl

Four Colleges Considered As Generals' Foe

Southern Conference Champions' Opponent Will Be Named Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP) — Washington and Lee, 1950 football champion of the Southern Conference, was named tonight to play in the Gator Bowl game here Jan. 1.

An opponent will be named tomorrow. It probably will be Wyoming, Tulsa, Nebraska or Wake Forest, all considered by the committee.

Washington and Lee won six straight conference games to edge Orange bowl-bound Clemson for the Southern Conference title. The Generals finished with an 8-2 season record. Tennessee beat Washington and Lee, 27-20, and Virginia did it, 26-21.

Ranked 18th in the final Associated Press poll of the season, Washington and Lee operates from the split-t formation. Coach George Barclay, All-America at North Carolina in 1934, is in his second year as head man at Washington and Lee.

Gator Bowl Selection Chairman Edgar Jones announced the Southern champs' acceptance after talking by phone with Dick Smith, W. and L. athletic director.

"We're very happy to obtain the Southern Conference champs as one of our teams," Jones said.

It is the second time the Southern Conference champion comes to the Gator Bowl. Clemson won the conference crown in 1948 and beat Missouri in the 1949 Gator Bowl game.

The selection also keeps a Southern Conference team in the Gator Bowl, a record that extends through all five previous games. Maryland of the Southern Conference won over Missouri last year.

South Carolina and Wake Forest, both of the Southern, met in the first Gator Bowl game New Year's Day 1947, Wake Forest winning. North Carolina State of the Southern lost to Oklahoma next year. Maryland played a tie with Georgia in 1949.

Wes Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley H. Abrams, 310 Piedmont Avenue, is a member of the Washington and Lee varsity football team and plays a backfield position for the Generals. He is a graduate of Allegany High School where he starred in football.

New Deal Asked By Bowie Track

O'Hara Wants 25 Days At Continuous Meet

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — Before this year's racing is even over, the Bowie management today announced it will demand another new deal in Maryland's horse dates for 1951.

Bowie will ask that its 25 days be at one continuous session in November, General Manager E. O'Hara announced.

This would be something new at the 36-year-old track and also a departure from any recent operation at any of Maryland's four major tracks. All had split meetings this year.

Up until this year, Bowie had opened the 100 day Maryland season in the spring and closed it in the fall. In a scramble to lighten competition from New Jersey all around, Bowie this year gave up its spring dates and ran a financially poor autumn meeting. It will close its current 13-day season Saturday.

O'Hara said Bowie lost $280,000 in revenue during its earlier meeting.

He said that if the Maryland Racing Commission disapproves 25 straight days Bowie then will ask for its old spring and fall dates again. He said Bowie views this year's schedule as "an experiment which as far as we are concerned did not work out."

The racing commission is expected to meet next month or in January to discuss the 1951 racing dates.

Chuck Dressen To Retain Two Dodger Coaches

Pitler And Sukeforth Stay With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers brought an old warhorse back to the major league battleground today by signing 52-year-old Charles Walter (Chuck) Dressen to a one-year contract as manager.

Dressen, who managed the Cincinnati Reds from 1934 through 1937 and coached in the majors for ten years, succeeds Burt Shotton. Terms of Dressen's contract were not revealed, but he reportedly will receive a salary of about $35,000.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers said Shotton has been asked to remain in the Brooklyn organization in "some capacity." O'Malley praised the record of the 66-year-old Shotton, who won two pennants in three full years as Dodger pilot.

However, Shotton's chances of remaining as manager following the departure of Branch Rickey were wrecked by a flood of protests from fans, who thought the Dodgers should have won the National League championship last season.

Dressen's selection had been rumored for several days. He served as a Dodger coach from 1939 through 1946 and the next two years was Bucky Harris' right-hand man on the New York Yankees.

Chuck managed Oakland to the Pacific Coast League championship in 1949 and again last season.

Dressen indicated he will retain two of Shotton's coaches, Jake Pitler and Clyde Sukeforth. He made it clear that he expects to direct the Dodgers from the third base coaching box, although Shotton was strictly a bench manager.

Little League Team Honored At Dinner

A dinner in honor of the Red Sox, winners in the Dapper Davision in the Little Baseball League, of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, was tendered the players by their parents last night at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Manager Bob Collins acted as toastmaster, and introduced the guests.

Gifts were presented the manager and three coaches. Collins received a cigaret lighter and the three coaches were the recipients of leather wallets.

Baseball, boxing and football movies were shown. The films included the Cerdan-Zale championship fight and the 1948 major league all-star game.

SPORT SLANTS

Shay Leaves Bowdoin • • • Long Got 52 Points

Hyndman Forms Quint • • • Records On Deer Kill

By C. V. BURNS

George D. (Dinny) Shay, head coach of basketball and assistant football coach at Bowdoin College (Brunswick, Me.) for the past 14 years, has resigned to enter private business.

Mr. Shay is the same gentleman who coached LaSalle's only undefeated footall team in 1930, two years after the sport was introduced at the North Centre Street school by Arthur Slocum of Keyser who is now the Explorers' head basketball mentor.

John J. Long, present Cumberland police and fire commissioner, coached the gridders at LaSalle the year before Shay came here from Notre Dame University.

A grid star at South Bend, Shay served as line coach under Head Coach Adam Walsh (Notre Dame, 1925) at Bowdoin. While Walsh was in the service during World War II, Shay was head coach of the Polar Bears for two years.

"Dinny's" LaSalle team of 1930 won eight games and played a 6-6 tie with Waynesboro (Pa.) High. Charles "Rip" Engle, now head coach at Penn State, was the grid boss at Waynesboro in those days.

We believe that the defensive record set by LaSalle in 1930 is an all-time record here. Only 12 points were scored against the Explorers — six by Waynesboro and six by Windber. The Explorers themselves rolled up 174 points.

LaSalle's first stringers that season were "Lawrence "Buck" Reynolds, Kenneth "Hank" Lindsay, Charles McDade, John Blough, Metz Cioni, Joe Coulehan and John Silvestri on the line and Harry DeHart, Dave Conley, Hubert Fleckenstein and Robert "Peck" O'Neill in the backfield.

Nine of those players—all but Reynolds and Silvestri — were on Johnny Long's team of 1929. Long, incidentally, came to LaSalle from Catholic U. where he starred in football and basketball. In 1930 Long took over as athletic director and head coach at Newman Prep School, Lakewood, N. J., where he remained for five years.

• — • — •

Johnny Long, incidentally, set an all-time scoring record for Allegany county when he played for Allegany County High School just 26 years ago.

In a W. M. I. League contest against Bruce High School on the Greene Street court, the ACHS senior of 1924 racked up a grand total of 52 points. He sank 23 shots from the field and meshed 6 of 14 free throws as Allegany swamped the Westernport quint, 76-11.

On the same Allegany team were Charley Barrett, Nixon, Eddie Wolfe, Brace Krimm, Howard "Shorty" Radcliffe, Dave Sigel, George Wolfe and Bruce Cowden. "Ike" Law was the referee, Paul Schilling, scorer and Max Huddle, timer. Schilling and Huddle are now members of the clergy.

• — • — •

The appearance of Hyndman High School on the Barton High school schedule means that the Pennsylvania school will have its first basketball team during the 1950-51 season.

Lloyd Keller, Hyndman principal, says the big problem right now is installing baskets at Hyndman's new Community Center where the team will play its home games.

The court is 70 by 35 feet and has a 20 foot ceiling.

Hyndman hopes to play a light schedule the first season and most of the opposition will be provided by junior varsity quints of other schools.

The Bedford County school was represented by football teams from 1932 to 1940 but dropped out because of the lack of finances.

"There is plenty of agitation for football again and we might give it a fling in a couple of years," Mr. Keller declares.

The school has grown since the last football team of 10 years ago. In fact, there are 140 boys enrolled from the 7th to the 12th grade.

• — • — •

Maryland's six-day open season on buck deer only gets under way on Monday (Dec. 4 to 9) and Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, tells us that he would not be surprised if a new record for kills is established in Allegany county.

The record for this county is 201 and was established on the 6-day season in 1948.

Minke points out that a phosphorous poison killed off a good number of the deer population in the summer of 1949 and the total bucks bagged by nimrods in December decreased to 177. This was a good showing yet it was 24 under the peak year of 1948.

Garrett is Maryland's No. 1 deer county and the all-time high of 517 kills was chalked up there in 1946. Last year the six-day bag was 493.

• — • — •

A record of 98 slain male deer was established in Washington county last year. This exceeded the previous high of 87 recorded in 1948. Washington, Garrett and Allegany counties come under Region No. 1 of which Minke is the chief warden.

There are six counties in Maryland in which male deer become legal quarry on Monday. In addition to the three already mentioned there are Frederick, Cecil and Worcester.

• — • — •

The Maryland record for deer kills was 1,090, set in 1947.

Jack Murphy, center of the Cumberland Spas, arrived here safely Monday at 11 a. m., after taking two days to travel 300 miles by automobile from his home in Newark, N. J.

Murphy left Newark on Saturday at 10 a. m., and during his harrowing experiences on the road he ran into terrific winds, snow, sleet, and rain, was kept off the Pennsylvania turnpike at Harrisburg and was delayed six hours at a service station when his gas line froze.

"Believe it, or not," Murphy told Coach Bill Keegan, "I was traveling by auto and not by dog sled."

Brion Spots Louis 21 Pounds In Scrap At Chicago Tonight

South American Has Youth In His Favor, 6,500 To See Bout

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, who didn't quit when he was ahead, will try to make it from behind tomorrow night when he renews a projected ring comeback against a foe 13 years younger.

Before a Chicago Stadium crowd of probably not more than 6,500, the once-famed Brown Bomber, now 36, will battle the Argentine heavyweight, Cesar Brion, in a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds or less.

Louis was soundly defeated last Sept. 27 by Champion Ezzard Charles in a 15-round title bout at New York.

The ex-Brown Bomber, whose tawny fists once were so potent, has not looked impressive in training sessions for this engagement, although he hopes to go into the ring at 215 pounds, three lighter than against Charles.

Brion, at 194, will spot Louis some 21 pounds, but at 23 the South American has that great equalizer, youth, in his favor.

Both Louis and Brion predicted a knockout victory.

Louis said he would try to end the bout as soon as possible, but he declined to name the round. Brion said he would finish off Louis within seven rounds.

"I'm going to shoot for a knockout from the very start," Louis said. "I'm going to throw as many right hand punches as possible. One of them is sure to land."

Hymie Wallman, manager of Brion, predicts a quick knockout for the South American fighter, who has won 31 out of 34 bouts. Said Wallman:

"We are sending Brion out to get Louis in the very first round, Brion thinks he can score a knockout and so do we."

Brion is a stand-up fighter, lacking skillful boxing ability and a devastating punch. He wades in without caution and has won his last four engagements. His main achievement was a second-round knockout by Tami Mauriello in 1949.

Explaining his comeback attempt, Louis said: "I believe my bad showing against Charles was due to the fact I had an off night. I'll find out for sure tomorrow night."

The inference was that Louis definitely will quit the ring if he fails to knock out Brion.

Laurel Track Releases Names Of New Board

Former Ambassadors Among Eight Members

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—The secretary of the Senate, two former ambassadors and a one-time under secretary of defense are on the new eight-man board of directors of Laurel Race Track.

The makeup of the board was announced today by Morris Schapiro, Baltimore businessman who took over a controlling interest in the track yesterday.

His son, John D. Schapiro, new Laurel president, heads a board which includes Stephen Early, Leslie Biffle, James Bruce, Breckinridge Long, C. E. Tuttle, J. M. Willis and Morris Schapiro.

Early, a one-time top assistant to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, resigned recently as under secretary of defense. He is now vice president of the Pullman Company.

Biffle is secretary of the Senate and staff director of the Democratic Senate Policy Committee.

James Bruce, a native Marylander and a nationally known banker and industrialist, is former U. S. ambassador to Argentina.

Breckenridge Long, former ambassador to Italy, has long been identified with Maryland horse racing and breeding.

Willis is head of the Bethlehem Steel Company's shipbuilding division. Tuttle, a retired industrialist, is also a member of the Maryland Jockey Club's board of directors. The Jockey Club, which owns Pimlico race track, sold its Laurel stock to Schapiro for an undisclosed sum.

George H. Martin will continue as manager of Laurel, a post he has held ten years. He was elected a vice president of the new organization.

Three Shoot 67s, Lead Qualifiers

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Two Florida professionals and an amateur from Detroit turned in 67s today to lead 165 golfers in the qualifying round of the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament.

Sammy Sigh, who operates a Miami golf driving range, and Lou Bateman, professional at the Ocala Country Club, both shot 33-34—67.

Amateur Jack McGivern of Detroit played a 31-36—67 over the 7,000-yard Miami Springs course. Par is 35-35—70. McGivern's 31 on the front nine was four under par and the best nine-hole score of the day.

Deer Season Opens Monday, Checking Stations Listed

Eleven checking stations will be in operation in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties during the open season on deer, December 4 through 9, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced last night.

A new station is being established in Washington county and will be located in Anthony Ankeney's store at Clear Spring, 12 miles west of Hagerstown. The other station in the same county is Powers' Service Station, near the bridge at Hancock.

Garrett county's five checking stations are: William Biddington's, Grantsville; Sheriff's office, Oakland; Murphy's Restaurant, Friendsville; Matt Storey's, Deep Creek Lake, and the Swanton postoffice.

In Allegany county hunters may have their deer checked at Police headquarters, Westernport; LaVale sub-station, Maryland State Police; Shipway's Inn at Green Ridge, and Lewis' Store, Oldtown.

Army And Navy To Play Before 102,000 Sellout

Cadets Prohibitive Favorite Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—It's Army-Navy week in Philadelphia and if you're not an admiral or general you'll have trouble getting a hotel room.

You'll have even more trouble if you're trying to find a ticket or so for the football game at Municipal Stadium Saturday.

The huge horseshoe seats 102,000 persons, and it's the one football game that's a sellout every season. Most of the tickets, of course, go to past and present members of the two service academies. And you have to know some of those gentlemen to get tickets.

The President will be here, as usual. But this year there will be special secret service precautions to guard his safety, a step taken after the assassination attempt in Washington earlier this month.

Navy will be the home team and so the President and his party, with the customary electric blankets, will sit on the Navy side.

Army will be a prohibitive favorite to win the game, having swept its first eight games without a defeat. Navy has won only twice.

The Army and Navy football teams will arrive in town Friday and will go immediately to suburban seclusion at country clubs. Parties have been arranged for the teams Saturday night at the Bellevue-Stratford and Benjamin Franklin.

One possible drawback is in prospect for the festivities. The weather bureau, in its long range forecast, said the weather trend indicates mixed rain and snow Saturday or Sunday.

Rain or snow, it's unlikely there will be an empty seat at the stadium come game time Saturday.

High scorers included: John Smith, Silver Lanes, 215; Everett Clem, Silver Lanes, 545; Sam Brown, Cresap Tavern, 222; Jim Jones, Cresap Tavern, 587; Del Mongold, Kaiser, 202-583; George Schriver, Century, 214-549; Gil Winner, Green's, 204; Ernie Scarpelli, Green's, 588; Ralph Cover, Sanitation, 206 and 540; Kendall Twigg, Workman's, 234-621; John Cunningham, Ballistics, 208-554. High Point Will Drop Football

College To Broaden Scope In Basketball

HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 28 (AP)—High Point College notified the North State Conference directors today that it was abandoning intercollegiate football indefinitely.

The announcement said the school would quit the gridiron sport until such time "as the manpower situation enables the small college to have a normal male enrollment and until the program may be carried on without undue financial sacrifice by the school."

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, High Point College president, asserted that the football schedule had brought about "terrific deficits." He declared the board of trustees and the athletic council both had approved the abandonment of football. He asserted that the small college, with small game revenues, had found it almost impossible to meet the keen competition of larger schools for football players.

Simultaneously with the announcement Dr. Cooke announced that High Point College would attempt to broaden its scope in basketball.

Washington And Lee Accepts Invite To Play In Gator Bowl

Four Colleges Considered As Generals' Foe

Southern Conference Champions' Opponent Will Be Named Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP) — Washington and Lee, 1950 football champion of the Southern Conference, was named tonight to play in the Gator Bowl game here Jan. 1.

An opponent will be named tomorrow. It probably will be Wyoming, Tulsa, Nebraska or Wake Forest, all considered by the committee.

Washington and Lee won six straight conference games to edge Orange bowl-bound Clemson for the Southern Conference title. The Generals finished with an 8-2 season record. Tennessee beat Washington and Lee, 27-20, and Virginia did it, 26-21.

Ranked 18th in the final Associated Press poll of the season, Washington and Lee operates from the split-t formation. Coach George Barclay, All-America at North Carolina in 1934, is in his second year as head man at Washington and Lee.

Gator Bowl Selection Chairman Edgar Jones announced the Southern champs' acceptance after talking by phone with Dick Smith, W. and L. athletic director.

"We're very happy to obtain the Southern Conference champs as one of our teams," Jones said.

It is the second time the Southern Conference champion comes to the Gator Bowl. Clemson won the conference crown in 1948 and beat Missouri in the 1949 Gator Bowl game.

The selection also keeps a Southern Conference team in the Gator Bowl, a record that extends through all five previous games. Maryland of the Southern Conference won over Missouri last year.

South Carolina and Wake Forest, both of the Southern, met in the first Gator Bowl game New Year's Day 1947, Wake Forest winning. North Carolina State of the Southern lost to Oklahoma next year. Maryland played a tie with Georgia in 1949.

Wes Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley H. Abrams, 310 Piedmont Avenue, is a member of the Washington and Lee varsity football team and plays a backfield position for the Generals. He is a graduate of Allegany High School where he starred in football.

New Deal Asked By Bowie Track

O'Hara Wants 25 Days At Continuous Meet

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — Before this year's racing is even over, the Bowie management today announced it will demand another new deal in Maryland's horse dates for 1951.

Bowie will ask that its 25 days be at one continuous session in November, General Manager E. O'Hara announced.

This would be something new at the 36-year-old track and also a departure from any recent operation at any of Maryland's four major tracks. All had split meetings this year.

Up until this year, Bowie had opened the 100 day Maryland season in the spring and closed it in the fall. In a scramble to lighten competition from New Jersey all around, Bowie this year gave up its spring dates and ran a financially poor autumn meeting. It will close its current 13-day season Saturday.

O'Hara said Bowie lost $280,000 in revenue during its earlier meeting.

He said that if the Maryland Racing Commission disapproves 25 straight days Bowie then will ask for its old spring and fall dates again. He said Bowie views this year's schedule as "an experiment which as far as we are concerned did not work out."

The racing commission is expected to meet next month or in January to discuss the 1951 racing dates.

Chuck Dressen To Retain Two Dodger Coaches

Pitler And Sukeforth Stay With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers brought an old warhorse back to the major league battleground today by signing 52-year-old Charles Walter (Chuck) Dressen to a one-year contract as manager.

Dressen, who managed the Cincinnati Reds from 1934 through 1937 and coached in the majors for ten years, succeeds Burt Shotton. Terms of Dressen's contract were not revealed, but he reportedly will receive a salary of about $35,000.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers said Shotton has been asked to remain in the Brooklyn organization in "some capacity." O'Malley praised the record of the 66-year-old Shotton, who won two pennants in three full years as Dodger pilot.

However, Shotton's chances of remaining as manager following the departure of Branch Rickey were wrecked by a flood of protests from fans, who thought the Dodgers should have won the National League championship last season.

Dressen's selection had been rumored for several days. He served as a Dodger coach from 1939 through 1946 and the next two years was Bucky Harris' right-hand man on the New York Yankees.

Chuck managed Oakland to the Pacific Coast League championship in 1949 and again last season.

Dressen indicated he will retain two of Shotton's coaches, Jake Pitler and Clyde Sukeforth. He made it clear that he expects to direct the Dodgers from the third base coaching box, although Shotton was strictly a bench manager.

Little League Team Honored At Dinner

A dinner in honor of the Red Sox, winners in the Dapper Davision in the Little Baseball League, of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, was tendered the players by their parents last night at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Manager Bob Collins acted as toastmaster, and introduced the guests.

Gifts were presented the manager and three coaches. Collins received a cigaret lighter and the three coaches were the recipients of leather wallets.

Baseball, boxing and football movies were shown. The films included the Cerdan-Zale championship fight and the 1948 major league all-star game.

SPORT SLANTS

Shay Leaves Bowdoin • • • Long Got 52 Points

Hyndman Forms Quint • • • Records On Deer Kill

By C. V. BURNS

George D. (Dinny) Shay, head coach of basketball and assistant football coach at Bowdoin College (Brunswick, Me.) for the past 14 years, has resigned to enter private business.

Mr. Shay is the same gentleman who coached LaSalle's only undefeated footall team in 1930, two years after the sport was introduced at the North Centre Street school by Arthur Slocum of Keyser who is now the Explorers' head basketball mentor.

John J. Long, present Cumberland police and fire commissioner, coached the gridders at LaSalle the year before Shay came here from Notre Dame University.

A grid star at South Bend, Shay served as line coach under Head Coach Adam Walsh (Notre Dame, 1925) at Bowdoin. While Walsh was in the service during World War II, Shay was head coach of the Polar Bears for two years.

"Dinny's" LaSalle team of 1930 won eight games and played a 6-6 tie with Waynesboro (Pa.) High. Charles "Rip" Engle, now head coach at Penn State, was the grid boss at Waynesboro in those days.

We believe that the defensive record set by LaSalle in 1930 is an all-time record here. Only 12 points were scored against the Explorers — six by Waynesboro and six by Windber. The Explorers themselves rolled up 174 points.

LaSalle's first stringers that season were "Lawrence "Buck" Reynolds, Kenneth "Hank" Lindsay, Charles McDade, John Blough, Metz Cioni, Joe Coulehan and John Silvestri on the line and Harry DeHart, Dave Conley, Hubert Fleckenstein and Robert "Peck" O'Neill in the backfield.

Nine of those players—all but Reynolds and Silvestri — were on Johnny Long's team of 1929. Long, incidentally, came to LaSalle from Catholic U. where he starred in football and basketball. In 1930 Long took over as athletic director and head coach at Newman Prep School, Lakewood, N. J., where he remained for five years.

Johnny Long, incidentally, set an all-time scoring record for Allegany county when he played for Allegany County High School just 26 years ago.

In a W. M. I. League contest against Bruce High School on the Greene Street court, the ACHS senior of 1924 racked up a grand total of 52 points. He sank 23 shots from the field and meshed 6 of 14 free throws as Allegany swamped the Westernport quint, 76-11.

On the same Allegany team were Charley Barrett, Nixon, Eddie Wolfe, Brace Krimm, Howard "Shorty" Radcliffe, Dave Sigel, George Wolfe and Bruce Cowden. "Ike" Law was the referee, Paul Schilling, scorer and Max Huddle, timer. Schilling and Huddle are now members of the clergy.

The appearance of Hyndman High School on the Barton High school schedule means that the Pennsylvania school will have its first basketball team during the 1950-51 season.

Lloyd Keller, Hyndman principal, says the big problem right now is installing baskets at Hyndman's new Community Center where the team will play its home games.

The court is 70 by 35 feet and has a 20 foot ceiling.

Hyndman hopes to play a light schedule the first season and most of the opposition will be provided by junior varsity quints of other schools.

The Bedford County school was represented by football teams from 1932 to 1940 but dropped out because of the lack of finances.

"There is plenty of agitation for football again and we might give it a fling in a couple of years," Mr. Keller declares.

The school has grown since the last football team of 10 years ago. In fact, there are 140 boys enrolled from the 7th to the 12th grade.

Maryland's six-day open season on buck deer only gets under way on Monday (Dec. 4 to 9) and Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, tells us that he would not be surprised if a new record for kills is established in Allegany county.

The record for this county is 201 and was established on the 6-day season in 1948.

Minke points out that a phosphorous poison killed off a good number of the deer population in the summer of 1949 and the total bucks bagged by nimrods in December decreased to 177. This was a good showing yet it was 24 under the peak year of 1948.

Garrett is Maryland's No. 1 deer county and the all-time high of 517 kills was chalked up there in 1946. Last year the six-day bag was 493.

A record of 98 slain male deer was established in Washington county last year. This exceeded the previous high of 87 recorded in 1948. Washington, Garrett and Allegany counties come under Region No. 1 of which Minke is the chief warden.

There are six counties in Maryland in which male deer become legal quarry on Monday. In addition to the three already mentioned there are Frederick, Cecil and Worcester.

The Maryland record for deer kills was 1,090, set in 1947.

Jack Murphy, center of the Cumberland Spas, arrived here safely Monday at 11 a. m., after taking two days to travel 300 miles by automobile from his home in Newark, N. J.

Murphy left Newark on Saturday at 10 a. m., and during his harrowing experiences on the road he ran into terrific winds, snow, sleet, and rain, was kept off the Pennsylvania turnpike at Harrisburg and was delayed six hours at a service station when his gas line froze.

"Believe it, or not," Murphy told Coach Bill Keegan, "I was traveling by auto and not by dog sled."

Brion Spots Louis 21 Pounds In Scrap At Chicago Tonight

South American Has Youth In His Favor, 6,500 To See Bout

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, who didn't quit when he was ahead, will try to make it from behind tomorrow night when he renews a projected ring comeback against a foe 13 years younger.

Before a Chicago Stadium crowd of probably not more than 6,500, the once-famed Brown Bomber, now 36, will battle the Argentine heavyweight, Cesar Brion, in a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds or less.

Louis was soundly defeated last Sept. 27 by Champion Ezzard Charles in a 15-round title bout at New York.

The ex-Brown Bomber, whose tawny fists once were so potent, has not looked impressive in training sessions for this engagement, although he hopes to go into the ring at 215 pounds, three lighter than against Charles.

Brion, at 194, will spot Louis some 21 pounds, but at 23 the South American has that great equalizer, youth, in his favor.

Both Louis and Brion predicted a knockout victory.

Louis said he would try to end the bout as soon as possible, but he declined to name the round. Brion said he would finish off Louis within seven rounds.

"I'm going to shoot for a knockout from the very start," Louis said. "I'm going to throw as many right hand punches as possible. One of them is sure to land."

Hymie Wallman, manager of Brion, predicts a quick knockout for the South American fighter, who has won 31 out of 34 bouts. Said Wallman:

"We are sending Brion out to get Louis in the very first round, Brion thinks he can score a knockout and so do we."

Brion is a stand-up fighter, lacking skillful boxing ability and a devastating punch. He wades in without caution and has won his last four engagements. His main achievement was a second-round knockout by Tami Mauriello in 1949.

Explaining his comeback attempt, Louis said: "I believe my bad showing against Charles was due to the fact I had an off night. I'll find out for sure tomorrow night."

The inference was that Louis definitely will quit the ring if he fails to knock out Brion.

Laurel Track Releases Names Of New Board

Former Ambassadors Among Eight Members

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—The secretary of the Senate, two former ambassadors and a one-time under secretary of defense are on the new eight-man board of directors of Laurel Race Track.

The makeup of the board was announced today by Morris Schapiro, Baltimore businessman who took over a controlling interest in the track yesterday.

His son, John D. Schapiro, new Laurel president, heads a board which includes Stephen Early, Leslie Biffle, James Bruce, Breckinridge Long, C. E. Tuttle, J. M. Willis and Morris Schapiro.

Early, a one-time top assistant to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, resigned recently as under secretary of defense. He is now vice president of the Pullman Company.

Biffle is secretary of the Senate and staff director of the Democratic Senate Policy Committee.

James Bruce, a native Marylander and a nationally known banker and industrialist, is former U. S. ambassador to Argentina.

Breckenridge Long, former ambassador to Italy, has long been identified with Maryland horse racing and breeding.

Willis is head of the Bethlehem Steel Company's shipbuilding division. Tuttle, a retired industrialist, is also a member of the Maryland Jockey Club's board of directors. The Jockey Club, which owns Pimlico race track, sold its Laurel stock to Schapiro for an undisclosed sum.

George H. Martin will continue as manager of Laurel, a post he has held ten years. He was elected a vice president of the new organization.

Three Shoot 67s, Lead Qualifiers

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Two Florida professionals and an amateur from Detroit turned in 67s today to lead 165 golfers in the qualifying round of the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament.

Sammy Sigh, who operates a Miami golf driving range, and Lou Bateman, professional at the Ocala Country Club, both shot 33-34—67.

Amateur Jack McGivern of Detroit played a 31-36—67 over the 7,000-yard Miami Springs course. Par is 35-35—70. McGivern's 31 on the front nine was four under par and the best nine-hole score of the day.

Deer Season Opens Monday, Checking Stations Listed

Eleven checking stations will be in operation in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties during the open season on deer, December 4 through 9, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced last night.

A new station is being established in Washington county and will be located in Anthony Ankeney's store at Clear Spring, 12 miles west of Hagerstown. The other station in the same county is Powers' Service Station, near the bridge at Hancock.

Garrett county's five checking stations are: William Biddington's, Grantsville; Sheriff's office, Oakland; Murphy's Restaurant, Friendsville; Matt Storey's, Deep Creek Lake, and the Swanton postoffice.

In Allegany county hunters may have their deer checked at Police headquarters, Westernport; LaVale sub-station, Maryland State Police; Shipway's Inn at Green Ridge, and Lewis' Store, Oldtown.

Army And Navy To Play Before 102,000 Sellout

Cadets Prohibitive Favorite Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—It's Army-Navy week in Philadelphia and if you're not an admiral or general you'll have trouble getting a hotel room.

You'll have even more trouble if you're trying to find a ticket or so for the football game at Municipal Stadium Saturday.

The huge horseshoe seats 102,000 persons, and it's the one football game that's a sellout every season. Most of the tickets, of course, go to past and present members of the two service academies. And you have to know some of those gentlemen to get tickets.

The President will be here, as usual. But this year there will be special secret service precautions to guard his safety, a step taken after the assassination attempt in Washington earlier this month.

Navy will be the home team and so the President and his party, with the customary electric blankets, will sit on the Navy side.

Army will be a prohibitive favorite to win the game, having swept its first eight games without a defeat. Navy has won only twice.

The Army and Navy football teams will arrive in town Friday and will go immediately to suburban seclusion at country clubs. Parties have been arranged for the teams Saturday night at the Bellevue-Stratford and Benjamin Franklin.

One possible drawback is in prospect for the festivities. The weather bureau, in its long range forecast, said the weather trend indicates mixed rain and snow Saturday or Sunday.

Rain or snow, it's unlikely there will be an empty seat at the stadium come game time Saturday.

High Point Will Drop Football

College To Broaden Scope In Basketball

HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 28 (AP)—High Point College notified the North State Conference directors today that it was abandoning intercollegiate football indefinitely.

The announcement said the school would quit the gridiron sport until such time "as the manpower situation enables the small college to have a normal male enrollment and until the program may be carried on without undue financial sacrifice by the school."

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, High Point College president, asserted that the football schedule had brought about "terrific deficits." He declared the board of trustees and the athletic council both had approved the abandonment of football. He asserted that the small college, with small game revenues, had found it almost impossible to meet the keen competition of larger schools for football players.

Simultaneously with the announcement Dr. Cooke announced that High Point College would attempt to broaden its scope in basketball.

Algasir Takes Bowie Feature

Scores Head Victory Over Flying Weather

BOWIE RACETRACK, Bowie, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — H. A. Kimball's Algasir, the $4.20 favorite, withstood a long stretch challenge from Flying Weather to capture the featured $3,500 Charles Purse by a head here today.

Dark Favorite, owned by W. Ewing, earned third in the field of ten sprinters contesting the six-furlong event. Darrell Hartley, an apprentice rider from Calgary, Alberta, rode the winner, which covered the three-quarters of a mile in 1:12 4-5.

Jockey Joe Culmone, who rode six winners here yesterday, when facing Willie Shoemaker, let down his followers today by failing to win in the first seven races. The Italian booter was aboard five choices in the first six races. The best he could accomplish was three seconds.

In the feature, Blue Rocket obtained the early advantage but was caught by Algasir. The favorite held sway through the stretch but was hard driven to turn back Flying Weather, owned and trained by Dion K. Kerr, Jr., Culmone finished seventh astride Mr. Buster.

A small turnout of 4,217 racing fans was present today despite clear but cold weather.

Algasir Takes Bowie Feature

Scores Head Victory Over Flying Weather

BOWIE RACETRACK, Bowie, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — H. A. Kimball's Algasir, the $4.20 favorite, withstood a long stretch challenge from Flying Weather to capture the featured $3,500 Charles Purse by a head here today.

Dark Favorite, owned by W. Ewing, earned third in the field of ten sprinters contesting the six-furlong event. Darrell Hartley, an apprentice rider from Calgary, Alberta, rode the winner, which covered the three-quarters of a mile in 1:12 4-5.

Jockey Joe Culmone, who rode six winners here yesterday, when facing Willie Shoemaker, let down his followers today by failing to win in the first seven races. The Italian booter was aboard five choices in the first six races. The best he could accomplish was three seconds.

In the feature, Blue Rocket obtained the early advantage but was caught by Algasir. The favorite held sway through the stretch but was hard driven to turn back Flying Weather, owned and trained by Dion K. Kerr, Jr., Culmone finished seventh astride Mr. Buster.

A small turnout of 4,217 racing fans was present today despite clear but cold weather.

Sooners Voted Tops In Final Football Poll

Army Is Runner-Up; Irish Do Fadeout

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—Coach Bud Wilkinson, who expected his graduation-riddled Oklahoma team to get its lumps this year, wound up instead with the nation's No. 1 football team for 1950.

The Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners were ranked tops in the final Associated Press poll of the season with Army's all-conquering Cadets a distant second.

Third place was awarded to Texas, beaten only by Oklahoma, 14-13. The Longhorns were followed by: 4-Tennessee; 5-California; 6-Princeton; 7-Kentucky; 8-Michigan State; 9-Michigan, and 10-Clemson.

Wilkinson lost his entire first line and three of his starting backs after last year's eventful campaign. All he had to remind him of his past glory was fullback Leon Heath, a good reminder though. If anyone had mentioned a No. 1 ranking and a Sugar Bowl berth to Wilkinson, the coach would have sent the person the Optimists' Club Medal.

A total of 319 sportswriters and sportscasters from coast to coast took part in the final balloting and 213 named Oklahoma as their No. 1 choice. All told, the Sooners garnered 2,963 points on a basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and son on.

Army, which finished as the No. 2 team last year behind Notre Dame, piled up a total of 2,380 points. The Cadets were named first by 38 experts.

It was a sad year for the Irish, who were named as the team most likely to succeed this year in a pre-season poll. The thrice-beaten Notre Damers didn't even make the top 20. It was the first time in a decade they didn't rate a berth in the first ten.

Standings of all teams receiving at least 10 points with first-place votes in parentheses. (Points figure on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis).

KEYSER ATTORNEY PRAISES CHAMPS—Emory Tyler, Keyser attorney, (standing) served as the toastmaster at the dinner given Sunday by Vigilant Reel and Hose Company in honor of the Keyser Firemen, co-champions of the 1950 Bi-State Baseball League. Keyser shared the title with Westvaco when the teams were unable to get together on a site or date for the 7th and deciding game. Tyler lauded the players and said the firemen and fans were proud of the team. Seated at the table, left to right, are: Richard (Mickey) Herndon, city councilman; Mrs. and Mr. Elmer Hartman, city councilman; Tyler, Mrs. Tyler, Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, club physician and booster, and Mrs. Koplovitz. On a rack in the background are the jackets which were later presented to the players and Dr. Koplovitz.

Don't let this happen to you!

Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Winter-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

Maryland Lands Two On Southern Conference Team

Ward, Wingate Named By Writers, Coaches

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 28 (AP)—Players from eight of the league's 17 colleges today were named to the 1950 All-Southern Conference football team of the Associated Press.

Duke, Maryland and North Carolina each placed two. North Carolina State, Wake Forest, South Carolina, champion Washington and Lee and runnerup Clemson had one star selected to the mythical eleven. The team was picked by vote of Southern Conference area sports writers and head coaches of circuit football squads.

Selected to quarterback the eleven was Gil Bocetti, a 185-pound junior at Washington and Lee. Bocetti's deadly pitchouts, handoffs and passes guided the W&L team to six victories and no defeats in conference play. Bocetti's coach, George Barclay, an All-America guard 16 years ago at North Carolina, describes his ace as the finest split-t quarterback in college today. Bocetti calls McKeesport, Pa., "home."

With Bocetti in the backfield are Duke's Billy Cox, South Carolina's Steve Wadiak and Clemson's Fred Cone. Cox, a 180-pound senior from Mt. Airy, N. C., is one of the country's finest passers, kicks well and can more than hold his own as a runner.

Wadiak Is Standout

Wadiak, though only five feet, nine inches tall, has been the pride and joy of Coach Rex Enright at South Carolina since he first set foot on the Columbia, S. C., campus. Many coaches regard the 190-pound junior from Chicago as the most dangerous runner in the league. Wadiak personally spoiled Clemson's record this season when his long runs against the Tigers held them to a deadlock and knocked the Bengals from the nation's unbeaten and untied teams.

Cone, Clemson's great fullback, contributed 86 of his team's 329 points this season. Clemson Coach Frank Howard thinks there's no finer fullback in the land. Cone's home is Elmore, Ala. He's a 185-pound senior.

The lightest fellow in the line is Bob Ward, the pride of Maryland, who fills a guard slot. Ward weighs only 189, is a junior from Elizabeth, N. J. but the coaches who have praised Ward's play are many. Michigan State's Biggie Munn said after his team lost to Maryland, 34-7, that "Ward wrecked us. We were unable to run a play through, around, or over him."

Joe Dudeck, a North Carolina junior from Hazelton, Pa., got the other guard assignment. He's a 203-pounder and, like Ward, stands five feet, 10 inches.

Holdash Is Center

North Carolina's Irvin Holdash easily was the choice of center. The 200-pound bruiser from Youngstown, Ohio, has been labeled the "perfect linebacker" by his coach, Carl Snavely. Holdash was named the Associated Press "lineman of the week" for his performance in North Carolina's 14-7 loss to Notre Dame.

North Carolina State's Elmer Costa and Wake Forest's Jim Staton, a pair of 225-pound giants, are the tackles. Costa, an even six-footer, hails from Paterson, N. J. His play sparked state to an upset win over Maryland and a tie with Wake Forest, Staton, tallest player on the team at 6-feet, 4-inches, is from Greensboro, N. C.

Senators Interested In Vern Stephens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—"If the Red Sox are interested in disposing of Vern Stephens," President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators said today, "I'd be interested in trading for him."

Griffith Stadium, home of the Senators, however, has been Stephens' jinx park. Since coming to the major leagus nine years ago Stephens has hit 178 home runs, but only one of those was hit in Washington.

In addition, that lone homer didn't even reach the fence in Griffith Stadium. It was an inside-the-park affair off pitcher Scott Cary on July 29, 1947.

Holland Is Starter

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28—Harold Holland of New Orleans, La., who will serve as starter during the Charles Town Jockey Club's 18 day race meeting—December 4 to December 23, inclusive, reports that he has been breaking an exceedingly large number of three year olds from the Bahr stall gate.

Name Three Captains

It is believed that Virginia Tech is the only major basketball team in the country with three captains. Three seniors, Dick Sayre, Tex Tilson, and Gene Jones were so close in the balloting that the squad decided to have all three as captains.

KEYSER ATTORNEY PRAISES CHAMPS—Emory Tyler, Keyser attorney, (standing) served as the toastmaster at the dinner given Sunday by Vigilant Reel and Hose Company in honor of the Keyser Firemen, co-champions of the 1950 Bi-State Baseball League. Keyser shared the title with Westvaco when the teams were unable to get together on a site or date for the 7th and deciding game. Tyler lauded the players and said the firemen and fans were proud of the team. Seated at the table, left to right, are: Richard (Mickey) Herndon, city councilman; Mrs. and Mr. Elmer Hartman, city councilman; Tyler, Mrs. Tyler, Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, club physician and booster, and Mrs. Koplovitz. On a rack in the background are the jackets which were later presented to the players and Dr. Koplovitz.

Hill Prince Is American Champ Racer For 1950

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(INS)—C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince today became the first race horse to be designated as the thoroughbred racing association's "American Champion."

The Virginia-bred three-year-old colt easily won out in the TRA's first annual poll of the nation's top racing secretaries.

Maryland Lands Two On Southern Conference Team

Ward, Wingate Named By Writers, Coaches

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 28 (AP)—Players from eight of the league's 17 colleges today were named to the 1950 All-Southern Conference football team of the Associated Press.

Duke, Maryland and North Carolina each placed two. North Carolina State, Wake Forest, South Carolina, champion Washington and Lee and runnerup Clemson had one star selected to the mythical eleven. The team was picked by vote of Southern Conference area sports writers and head coaches of circuit football squads.

Selected to quarterback the eleven was Gil Bocetti, a 185-pound junior at Washington and Lee. Bocetti's deadly pitchouts, handoffs and passes guided the W&L team to six victories and no defeats in conference play. Bocetti's coach, George Barclay, an All-America guard 16 years ago at North Carolina, describes his ace as the finest split-t quarterback in college today. Bocetti calls McKeesport, Pa., "home."

With Bocetti in the backfield are Duke's Billy Cox, South Carolina's Steve Wadiak and Clemson's Fred Cone. Cox, a 180-pound senior from Mt. Airy, N. C., is one of the country's finest passers, kicks well and can more than hold his own as a runner.

Wadiak Is Standout

Wadiak, though only five feet, nine inches tall, has been the pride and joy of Coach Rex Enright at South Carolina since he first set foot on the Columbia, S. C., campus. Many coaches regard the 190-pound junior from Chicago as the most dangerous runner in the league. Wadiak personally spoiled Clemson's record this season when his long runs against the Tigers held them to a deadlock and knocked the Bengals from the nation's unbeaten and untied teams.

Cone, Clemson's great fullback, contributed 86 of his team's 329 points this season. Clemson Coach Frank Howard thinks there's no finer fullback in the land. Cone's home is Elmore, Ala. He's a 185-pound senior.

The lightest fellow in the line is Bob Ward, the pride of Maryland, who fills a guard slot. Ward weighs only 189, is a junior from Elizabeth, N. J. but the coaches who have praised Ward's play are many. Michigan State's Biggie Munn said after his team lost to Maryland, 34-7, that "Ward wrecked us. We were unable to run a play through, around, or over him."

Joe Dudeck, a North Carolina junior from Hazelton, Pa., got the other guard assignment. He's a 203-pounder and, like Ward, stands five feet, 10 inches.

Holdash Is Center

North Carolina's Irvin Holdash easily was the choice of center. The 200-pound bruiser from Youngstown, Ohio, has been labeled the "perfect linebacker" by his coach, Carl Snavely. Holdash was named the Associated Press "lineman of the week" for his performance in North Carolina's 14-7 loss to Notre Dame.

North Carolina State's Elmer Costa and Wake Forest's Jim Staton, a pair of 225-pound giants, are the tackles. Costa, an even six-footer, hails from Paterson, N. J. His play sparked state to an upset win over Maryland and a tie with Wake Forest, Staton, tallest player on the team at 6-feet, 4-inches, is from Greensboro, N. C.

Senators Interested In Vern Stephens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—"If the Red Sox are interested in disposing of Vern Stephens," President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators said today, "I'd be interested in trading for him."

Griffith Stadium, home of the Senators, however, has been Stephens' jinx park. Since coming to the major leagus nine years ago Stephens has hit 178 home runs, but only one of those was hit in Washington.

In addition, that lone homer didn't even reach the fence in Griffith Stadium. It was an inside-the-park affair off pitcher Scott Cary on July 29, 1947.

Holland Is Starter

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28—Harold Holland of New Orleans, La., who will serve as starter during the Charles Town Jockey Club's 18 day race meeting—December 4 to December 23, inclusive, reports that he has been breaking an exceedingly large number of three year olds from the Bahr stall gate.

Name Three Captains

It is believed that Virginia Tech is the only major basketball team in the country with three captains. Three seniors, Dick Sayre, Tex Tilson, and Gene Jones were so close in the balloting that the squad decided to have all three as captains.

Esso
ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY
COPR. 1950, ESSO INC.
Don't let this happen to you!
Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Winter-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28—(INS)—Frank Seltzer, whose thriller "711 Ocean Drive" was supposed to be filmed under police guard because of the underworld racing wire syndicate's objection, has a yarn that will be another hot potato.

Seltzer plans to make "The Kansas City Story" telling the inside of the Pendergast political machine and the underworld empire inherited by Charles Binaggio and Johnny Lazzio.

Edmond O'Brien will again star for Seltzer, who procured all his authentic material from Alfred Klein, associate counsel to Rudolph Halley, chief attorney in the Binaggio case. Finland's "Rock," Now 80, Still Stubborn About Peace

HELSINKI—(AP)—Juho K. Paasikivi, Finland's peacemaker No. 1, turned 80 this week at the helm of the only surviving democracy on Russia's western border.

Most Finns feel that without this temperamental, bulb-nosed octogenarian—whose name means "rock" in English—their fortunes might have been greatly different.

Climaxing a unique career in the brief but eventful history of free Finland, Juho Paasikivi was the first Finn to be reelected to the presidency for a second term. That was last February.

Described by close associates as "probably the most hot tempered man in the country," Paasikivi's biggest job has been peacemaking.

He was called in as premier for half a year in 1918 to settle internal peace after the Finnish civil war.

He negotiated the peace with Russia at Dorpat, Esthonia, in 1920, establishing the eastern boundaries of the new Finnish republic.

Paasikivi also negotiated the so called March peace of 1940, ending the Russo-Finnish winter war. Shuttling between Helsinki, Moscow and sometimes Stockholm, first to try to avert and then to settle that war, he was known as "Finland's peace ambassador."

He sounded the conditions for a separate peace between Russia and Finland in Stockholm in April 1944 and from behind the scenes played an important part in Finland's disentanglement from Germany.

A former banker and conservative party "strong man," Paasikivi wound up with a greater personal knowledge of Soviet top leaders than most western diplomats.

No western chief of state could match President Paasikivi's record of some 50 meetings with Stalin and Molotov in the Kremlin.

Called in repeatedly, even by those who disliked his views profoundly, to talk Russia into laying down her guns, stocky, crop haired Paasikivi is a man who knows his worth.

Strong-willed and self-confident he can fly into a towering rage when his advice is not heeded.

Paasikivi who speaks the Russian language like his mother tongue views Russia as "the one overshadowing problem in Finland's foreign relations"

Finland, he has said, is too small to afford any foreign policy which is directed against Russia, but from his inauguration address he has stressed throughout that "without political freedom and independence the Finnish nation can not live happily to fulfil her destiny."

How to keep Russia's confidence without sacrificing the cherished freedoms of the Finns is the task the president has set before himself. He will be 85 before his term expires.

HELSINKI—(AP)—Juho K. Paasikivi, Finland's peacemaker No. 1, turned 80 this week at the helm of the only surviving democracy on Russia's western border.

Most Finns feel that without this temperamental, bulb-nosed octogenarian—whose name means "rock" in English—their fortunes might have been greatly different.

Climaxing a unique career in the brief but eventful history of free Finland, Juho Paasikivi was the first Finn to be reelected to the presidency for a second term. That was last February.

Described by close associates as "probably the most hot tempered man in the country," Paasikivi's biggest job has been peacemaking.

He was called in as premier for half a year in 1918 to settle internal peace after the Finnish civil war.

He negotiated the peace with Russia at Dorpat, Esthonia, in 1920, establishing the eastern boundaries of the new Finnish republic.

Paasikivi also negotiated the so called March peace of 1940, ending the Russo-Finnish winter war. Shuttling between Helsinki, Moscow and sometimes Stockholm, first to try to avert and then to settle that war, he was known as "Finland's peace ambassador."

He sounded the conditions for a separate peace between Russia and Finland in Stockholm in April 1944 and from behind the scenes played an important part in Finland's disentanglement from Germany.

A former banker and conservative party "strong man," Paasikivi wound up with a greater personal knowledge of Soviet top leaders than most western diplomats.

No western chief of state could match President Paasikivi's record of some 50 meetings with Stalin and Molotov in the Kremlin.

Called in repeatedly, even by those who disliked his views profoundly, to talk Russia into laying down her guns, stocky, crop haired Paasikivi is a man who knows his worth.

Strong-willed and self-confident he can fly into a towering rage when his advice is not heeded.

Paasikivi who speaks the Russian language like his mother tongue views Russia as "the one overshadowing problem in Finland's foreign relations."

Finland, he has said, is too small to afford any foreign policy which is directed against Russia, but from his inauguration address he has stressed throughout that "without political freedom and independence the Finnish nation can not live happily to fulfil her destiny."

How to keep Russia's confidence without sacrificing the cherished freedoms of the Finns is the task the president has set before himself. He will be 85 before his term expires.

WINNIPEG — (AP) — Winnipeggers prefer to study salesmanship, interior decoration and how to improve their English, rather than learn what makes the atom bomb tick. Enrollment figures for the University of Manitoba's evening institute showed preference for such courses while few displayed interest in a hpysics course on atomic energy.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Beans, Animals and Laughter

I AM easily the most passionate devotee of radio contests around, having been suckled on "The American Boy" which had half the youth of America writing the last line of limericks in an earnest attempt to win a pony. (I never met anyone who won a pony and I would have been seriously embarrassed if they'd sent me one, not having any place to put it).

John Crosby

Radio contests, though, have a sort of dreamy detachment from anything in my experience; many of them sound as if they'd been invented by someone on another planet, a person—if you could so label him—whose desires and attitudes differ pretty sharply from my own.

Take this one, for example, which I pass on direct from the contest form of station WJZ.

PROGRAM: God's Truth Marches On.

SPONSOR: Ayerow Christian Projects.

PRODUCT: Religion.

BRIEF TERMS OF CONTEST OR OFFER: If you would like to have a Billy Graham Evangelistic Rally, send a letter or postcard to Dr Ayer, Box 403, New York 8, N Y.

It drew, in case you're interested, several hundred letters, but not enough to lure Billy Graham to New York to dispense his product, religion.

Then the Breakfast Club is running—or was running, last I heard—a navy bean-growing contest. You just plant navy beans in a pot and write in once a week telling how high your plant has grown. The Breakfast Club, which was doing a little bean-growing of its own, measured its plant against yours and announced results from time to time. No, there weren't any prizes. Just the satisfaction of out-doing Don McNeill, if that sort of thing affords you any satisfaction.

More and more, the rewards for these contests are becoming moral rather than material victories. ABC, for instance, recently concluded a letter-writing contest in which youngsters were invited to tell what animal on the "Saturday at the Zoo" program they would like to have as a pet. The animal receiving the most votes didn't get a thing, the prize-winning letter writers got darn little (a copy of a book called "True Zoo Sories"); the real winner was the animal's trainer. He got a Westinghouse refrigerator.

One of the most earth-shaking of the recent competitions on the air lanes was a 177-city search for "Miss Mirthquake of 1950," or—to put it in English—the girl with the heartiest laugh. This little gem was conducted by Harold Peary, the former "Great Gildersleeve," to whip up a little interest in his new show. "Miss Mirthquake of 1950" was run to earth in Knoxville, Tenn., in the person of Mrs. Lena Duncan, age 49. Mrs. Duncan was shipped to Hollywood and put on the "Honest Harold" program where she emitted her mirthquaking laugh. Ears were split as far east as Denver.

* * *

A British delegate to the United Nations elevated one eyebrow after several of Ed Murrow's recent news programs which were cast on a rather lofty plane. "I say," he murmured, "Murrow's taking on a rather high moral tone lately. I wonder—when are they going to frock him?"

* * *

A new record, released last week, has a song called "Sam, Don't Slam the Door" on one side. On the other: "When Your Lover Has Gone."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Beans, Animals and Laughter

I AM easily the most passionate devotee of radio contests around, having been suckled on "The American Boy" which had half the youth of America writing the last line of limericks in an earnest attempt to win a pony. (I never met anyone who won a pony and I would have been seriously embarrassed if they'd sent me one, not having any place to put it).

John Crosby

Radio contests, though, have a sort of dreamy detachment from anything in my experience; many of them sound as if they'd been invented by someone on another planet, a person—if you could so label him—whose desires and attitudes differ pretty sharply from my own.

Take this one, for example, which I pass on direct from the contest form of station WJZ.

PROGRAM: God's Truth Marches On.

SPONSOR: Ayerow Christian Projects.

PRODUCT: Religion.

BRIEF TERMS OF CONTEST OR OFFER: If you would like to have a Billy Graham Evangelistic Rally, send a letter or postcard to Dr Ayer, Box 403, New York 8, N Y.

It drew, in case you're interested, several hundred letters, but not enough to lure Billy Graham to New York to dispense his product, religion.

Then the Breakfast Club is running—or was running, last I heard—a navy bean-growing contest. You just plant navy beans in a pot and write in once a week telling how high your plant has grown. The Breakfast Club, which was doing a little bean-growing of its own, measured its plant against yours and announced results from time to time. No, there weren't any prizes. Just the satisfaction of out-doing Don McNeill, if that sort of thing affords you any satisfaction.

More and more, the rewards for these contests are becoming moral rather than material victories. ABC, for instance, recently concluded a letter-writing contest in which youngsters were invited to tell what animal on the "Saturday at the Zoo" program they would like to have as a pet. The animal receiving the most votes didn't get a thing, the prize-winning letter writers got darn little (a copy of a book called "True Zoo Sories"); the real winner was the animal's trainer. He got a Westinghouse refrigerator.

One of the most earth-shaking of the recent competitions on the air lanes was a 177-city search for "Miss Mirthquake of 1950," or—to put it in English—the girl with the heartiest laugh. This little gem was conducted by Harold Peary, the former "Great Gildersleeve," to whip up a little interest in his new show. "Miss Mirthquake of 1950" was run to earth in Knoxville, Tenn., in the person of Mrs. Lena Duncan, age 49. Mrs. Duncan was shipped to Hollywood and put on the "Honest Harold" program where she emitted her mirthquaking laugh. Ears were split as far east as Denver.

* * *

A British delegate to the United Nations elevated one eyebrow after several of Ed Murrow's recent news programs which were cast on a rather lofty plane. "I say," he murmured, "Murrow's taking on a rather high moral tone lately. I wonder—when are they going to frock him?"

* * *

A new record, released last week, has a song called "Sam, Don't Slam the Door" on one side. On the other: "When Your Lover Has Gone."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

OH, CALEB!
DO YOU FORGET THAT ONCE WE WERE YOUNG AND IN LOVE?!

HONEST, ZERO—I GUESS WE'RE TERRIBLE LUCKY—WHEN WE WAS LOST IN THE OCEAN I WAS AWFUL SCARED—
THE OCEAN WAS SO AWFUL BIG, AN' ME AN' YOU AN' OUR BOAT WAS SO AWFUL LITTLE, I DIDN'T THINK ANYBODY WOULD EVER FIND US—
EVERY DAY MY LEGS GOT TIREDER AN' TIREDER AN' I GOT LONESOMER AN' LONESOMER—AT LAST MY LEGS GOT ALL WEAK AN' RUBBERY, AN' I FELL DOWN—
WHEN I WOKE UP, WE WAS SAFE ON THIS LOVELY, BIG SHIP—I'M STILL KINDA TIRED, BUT IT'S A NICE KINDA TIREDNESS THAT FEELS GOOD—

In Memoriam

In memory of our wife and grandmother, Christina A. Brant, who passed away November 28, 1935.

Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest.
And the ones who think of you today,
Are the ones who loved you best.
Sadly missed by her husband and granddaughter, William M. Brant and Georgia Brant.

In memory of our dear husband and father, James H. Hipsley, Jr., who passed away one year ago, November 28, 1949.

Precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled,
But God in His wisdom has recalled,
Bonations love has given,
Although his body slumbers,
His soul is safe in heaven.
Sadly missed by his Wife and Children

In Memoriam

In memory of our wife and grandmother, Christina A. Brant, who passed away November 28, 1935.

Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest.
And the ones who think of you today,
Are the ones who loved you best.

Sadly missed by her husband and granddaughter, William M. Brant and Georgia Brant.

In memory of our dear husband and father, James H. Hipsley, Jr., who passed away one year ago, November 28, 1949.

Precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled,
But God in His wisdom has recalled,
Bonations love has given,
Although his body slumbers,
His soul is safe in heaven.

Sadly missed by his Wife and Children

Mt. Savage KC Has Anniversary

MT. SAVAGE — Msgr. William Kelly, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Washington, was principal speaker at the 45th anniversary dinner of Mt. Savage Council No. 1058, Knights of Columbus, Saturday evening at the Clary Club, Claryville.

"Catholic Action" was the subject of his remarks. Tribute was paid to the charter members.

Other speakers were Hugh D. Nolan, Frostburg, state district deputy; James Gillespie, grand knight of Mt. Savage Council, and Patrick A. Fannon, one of the charter members. John R. Uhl was toastmaster.

Fannon said that 60 young men became knights when the council was organized on Thanksgiving Day in 1905. The late Msgr. John W. Dowling, then pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was the first chaplain.

Charter members still living are William L. Hamilton, New York City; Henry Mullaney, Cumberland; Charles W. Carney, John F. Gallagher and Fannon. A dance followed the dinner. Fifty persons attended despite the inclement weather.

Rev. Charles L. Voll To Become Local Minister

Assuming duties as pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Bowling Green on Sunday will be Rev. Charles L. Voll, who has been pastor of the Brush Creek-Manor charge in Pennsylvania.

He attended grade and high school in Jeannette, Pa., and received a bachelor's degree at Franklin and Marshall College in 1941. He graduated from the Theological Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., in 1944 with a divinity degree.

In June of 1950 he was awarded the Th.-M. degree from Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Voll is married to the former Catherine Cornell of Blairsville, Pa., and they have two children, Rebecca Ann and Gretchen Gray. The family is expected to arrive at Bowling Green tomorrow.

During the summer services were conducted by Thomas Phillips, of Garwood, N. J., a student at the Theological Seminary at Lancaster.

Since he resumed his studies the services have been held by a retired Christian Church minister, Rev. Jesse Kauffman.

The Bowling Green congregation has been holding services in the Fire Hall, but starting Sunday it is planned to use the church basement pending completion of the edifice.

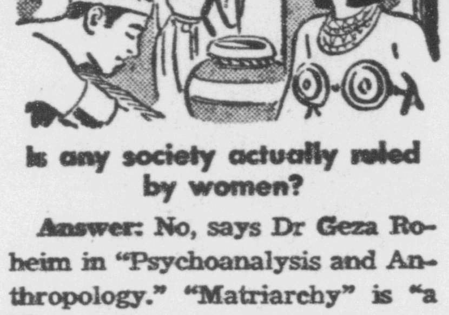
MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

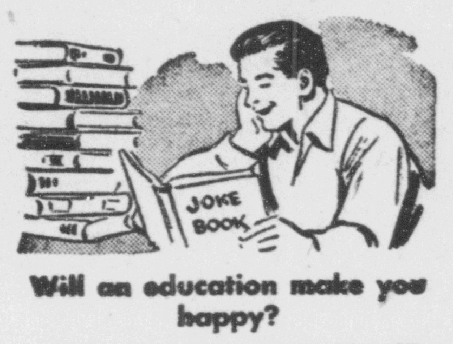
Should you be afraid to "impose on" your friends?

Answer: Within reasonable limits, yes, but the fear can be carried to neurotic extremes. There are people who not only will not ask favors, even from their best friends, but refuse gifts that are offered freely and "with no strings attached." What they really are so much afraid of may be their own intense, repressed longing to be helpless and dependent. To feel free to accept help from others when you need it, knowing you'd "do as much for them," may show more real self-reliance than being fanatically "independent."



Is any society actually ruled by women?

Answer: No, says Dr Geza Roheim in "Psychoanalysis and Anthropology." "Matriarchy" is "a state that exists only in the fantasy of certain writers." There are primitive tribes in which—because the facts of biology are unknown—a child's ancestry is traced through his mother, and the father, who is not believed to be related to him plays a relatively minor part in his life. But the tribal rulers are almost invariably men, and the chief authority in a child's life is not his mother, but her father or brother.



Will an education make you happy?

Answer: At worst it's like money which, as someone has said, at least helps you to forget your troubles. For besides increasing your earning power, education should add greatly to the number of things you'll be able to enjoy, provided your inner conflicts do not get in the way. Life can be immeasurably richer for a person who has learned to enjoy reading than for one who has not, and even a smattering of psychology makes everyone you meet more interesting. More stress should be laid on "education as a means to pleasure."

Do you re-live your past at the movies?

Answer: Yes, writes Italian psychologist Enrico Fulchignoni. The images on the screen, while real in themselves, create an unrealistic state of mind by reviving memories of your own past experiences, and it is these, not the picture, that stir you emotionally. You are actually re-living your past in a condition very much like dreaming, so that your critical faculties are dimmed and your unconscious mind "takes over." Whether you realize it or not, unless something like this happens the picture will merely bore you.

Are all criminals neurotic?

Answer: By no means. Criminality as such is not a psychological condition; it is the act of breaking the laws of the community you live in, and may have any of several causes, including defective moral training. It is not neurotic to steal if you never were made to feel stealing is wrong. But a very large proportion of criminals are neurotic, and break the law in order to rebel against authority, to get some unconscious satisfaction, or even to get themselves caught and punished to ease secret feelings of guilt.

Does your social background effect your I.Q.?

Answer: Yes, writes Julian Blackburn in Biology and Human Affairs (London). The comparison of scores made in intelligence tests by members of different social groups or classes is dangerous and unreliable. Factors like an individual's attitude toward the test or toward competition, his familiarity with language, how much training he has had in abstract thinking, and whether he has been "coached" beforehand affect his score too much to make it fair to compare it with that of a person with a different background.

Stock Prices Fall Sharply Due To Korean War Crisis

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A staggering setback in the stock market today was brought on by the grave international crisis in Korea arising from Chinese Communist aggression.

Losses were the greatest since the early days of American defeats at the hands of advancing North Korean troops late in June at the outset of Korean fighting.

Losses ran from $1 to $4 a share and higher throughout the entire list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $83.20. That drop indicates a loss of around $2,500,000,000 in the quoted value of listed securities.

Gen. MacArthur's statement that we face "an entire new war" started brokers' wires humming with selling orders before the stock market opened for business.

The volume of trading came to 2,970,000 shares, as against 1,740,000 shares Monday. The total was close to the largest of the year.

The market almost completely ignored good news developing that in other times probably would have touched off a wave of buying. Railroads continued their reports of remarkable recoveries, and there was a flood of dividends in the extra, increased and stock categories.

Some of the heaviest setbacks among leaders included General Motors off 1⅜ at 46¼ (day's most active issue), U. S. Steel 1⅜ at 38⅞, Nickel Plate 9½ at 164½, Bethlehem Steel 1⅞ at 43⅞, Chrysler 2 at 68⅛, Goodyear 2⅜ at 59, Montgomery Ward 2⅛ at 63½, Douglas Aircraft 2½ at 82½, Union Pacific 4¼ at 94¾, Philco 2 at 45¾ Motorola 2⅝ at 48⅜, American Telephone 1¼ at 150⅝, Phelps Dodge 3 at 61¼, Allied Chemical 2¼ at 57, duPont 2⅛ at 79⅜, American Can 3 at 97, Sante Fe 2⅞ at 130⅛, Illinois Central 2¼ at 54, Standard Oil (NJ) 3⅝ at 85⅞, and Gulf Oil 3¼ at 79½.

"The Authority on Authorities"

IF YOU HAD MIRRORS

MANY a matter at which you must guess—or at least try to estimate—would be simple if you had a well-placed set of mirrors behind the various players. In fact, after a hand is over, there are frequently apparent facts which you can then see might have been inferred early enough to do you some good. But hindsight, accurate as it is, can't ever pay you the dividends that foresight offers. In fact, you have to be stout-hearted sometimes to keep it from depressing you and weakening your keenness as the next deal comes up.

This is the deal that brought grief to a fine pair of Long Islanders who had journeyed to Easton, Pa., for the big annual tournament there. Bob Tyson in the North and Ray Duggan in the South had led their section in the first round, but barely failed to win when they guessed wrong on this deal.

Somewhat of a philosopher, Mr. Duggan says: "The bidding was so crowded that perhaps I should have bid 5-Clubs instead of 5-Hearts to give my partner a picture of the hand. However, I wasn't sure but what he had a short club suit, and I didn't want to give him the idea of playing it at clubs anyway. As you can easily see, we got a bad score, since a reluctant sacrifice by me at 6-Hearts would have resulted in a made contract. Several other pairs did as we did, since we got 4 points on the deal as against a top of 13."

Speaking of the play, he added: "The 5 of hearts on the K lead makes it tough to underlead the club A to make possible a diamond ruff."

Suppose Mr. Tyson had decided his bidding in the North had given almost an exact picture of his hand, and instead of doubling had passed to make his partner decide what to do. But all such suppositions only lock the stable door after the horse is gone. What would you have done?

Mt. Savage KC Has Anniversary

MT. SAVAGE — Msgr. William Kelly, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Washington, was principal speaker at the 45th anniversary dinner of Mt. Savage Council No. 1058, Knights of Columbus, Saturday evening at the Clary Club, Claryville.

"Catholic Action" was the subject of his remarks. Tribute was paid to the charter members.

Other speakers were Hugh D. Nolan, Frostburg, state district deputy; James Gillespie, grand knight of Mt. Savage Council, and Patrick A. Fannon, one of the charter members. John R. Uhl was toastmaster.

Fannon said that 60 young men became knights when the council was organized on Thanksgiving Day in 1905. The late Msgr. John W. Dowling, then pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was the first chaplain.

Charter members still living are William L. Hamilton, New York City; Henry Mullaney, Cumberland; Charles W. Carney, John F. Gallagher and Fannon. A dance followed the dinner. Fifty persons attended despite the inclement weather.

Rev. Charles L. Voll To Become Local Minister

Assuming duties as pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Bowling Green on Sunday will be Rev. Charles L. Voll, who has been pastor of the Brush Creek-Manor charge in Pennsylvania.

He attended grade and high school in Jeannette, Pa., and received a bachelor's degree at Franklin and Marshall College in 1941. He graduated from the Theological Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., in 1944 with a divinity degree.

In June of 1950 he was awarded the Th.-M. degree from Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Voll is married to the former Catherine Cornell of Blairsville, Pa., and they have two children, Rebecca Ann and Gretchen Gray. The family is expected to arrive at Bowling Green tomorrow.

During the summer services were conducted by Thomas Phillips, of Garwood, N. J., a student at the Theological Seminary at Lancaster.

Since he resumed his studies the services have been held by a retired Christian Church minister, Rev. Jesse Kauffman.

The Bowling Green congregation has been holding services in the Fire Hall, but starting Sunday it is planned to use the church basement pending completion of the edifice.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should you be afraid to "impose on" your friends?

Answer: Within reasonable limits, yes, but the fear can be carried to neurotic extremes. There are people who not only will not ask favors, even from their best friends, but refuse gifts that are offered freely and "with no strings attached." What they really are so much afraid of may be their own intense, repressed longing to be helpless and dependent. To feel free to accept help from others when you need it, knowing you'd "do as much for them," may show more real self-reliance than being fanatically "independent."

Is any society actually ruled by women?

Answer: No, says Dr Geza Roheim in "Psychoanalysis and Anthropology." "Matriarchy" is "a state that exists only in the fantasy of certain writers." There are primitive tribes in which—because the facts of biology are unknown—a child's ancestry is traced through his mother, and the father, who is not believed to be related to him plays a relatively minor part in his life. But the tribal rulers are almost invariably men, and the chief authority in a child's life is not his mother, but her father or brother.

Will an education make you happy?

Answer: At worst it's like money which, as someone has said, at least helps you to forget your troubles. For besides increasing your earning power, education should add greatly to the number of things you'll be able to enjoy, provided your inner conflicts do not get in the way. Life can be immeasurably richer for a person who has learned to enjoy reading than for one who has not, and even a smattering of psychology makes everyone you meet more interesting. More stress should be laid on "education as a means to pleasure."

Do you re-live your past at the movies?

Answer: Yes, writes Italian psychologist Enrico Fulchignoni. The images on the screen, while real in themselves, create an unrealistic state of mind by reviving memories of your own past experiences, and it is these, not the picture, that stir you emotionally. You are actually re-living your past in a condition very much like dreaming, so that your critical faculties are dimmed and your unconscious mind "takes over." Whether you realize it or not, unless something like this happens the picture will merely bore you.

Are all criminals neurotic?

Answer: By no means. Criminality as such is not a psychological condition; it is the act of breaking the laws of the community you live in, and may have any of several causes, including defective moral training. It is not neurotic to steal if you never were made to feel stealing is wrong. But a very large proportion of criminals are neurotic, and break the law in order to rebel against authority, to get some unconscious satisfaction, or even to get themselves caught and punished to ease secret feelings of guilt.

Does your social background effect your I.Q.?

Answer: Yes, writes Julian Blackburn in Biology and Human Affairs (London). The comparison of scores made in intelligence tests by members of different social groups or classes is dangerous and unreliable. Factors like an individual's attitude toward the test or toward competition, his familiarity with language, how much training he has had in abstract thinking, and whether he has been "coached" beforehand affect his score too much to make it fair to compare it with that of a person with a different background.

Stock Prices Fall Sharply Due To Korean War Crisis

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A staggering setback in the stock market today was brought on by the grave international crisis in Korea arising from Chinese Communist aggression.

Losses were the greatest since the early days of American defeats at the hands of advancing North Korean troops late in June at the outset of Korean fighting.

Losses ran from $1 to $4 a share and higher throughout the entire list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $83.20. That drop indicates a loss of around $2,500,000,000 in the quoted value of listed securities.

Gen. MacArthur's statement that we face "an entire new war" started brokers' wires humming with selling orders before the stock market opened for business.

The volume of trading came to 2,970,000 shares, as against 1,740,000 shares Monday. The total was close to the largest of the year.

The market almost completely ignored good news developing that in other times probably would have touched off a wave of buying. Railroads continued their reports of remarkable recoveries, and there was a flood of dividends in the extra, increased and stock categories.

Some of the heaviest setbacks among leaders included General Motors off 1⅜ at 46¼ (day's most active issue), U. S. Steel 1⅜ at 38⅞, Nickel Plate 9½ at 164½, Bethlehem Steel 1⅞ at 43⅞, Chrysler 2 at 68⅛, Goodyear 2⅜ at 59, Montgomery Ward 2⅛ at 63½, Douglas Aircraft 2½ at 82½, Union Pacific 4¼ at 94¾, Philco 2 at 45¾ Motorola 2⅝ at 48⅜, American Telephone 1¼ at 150⅝, Phelps Dodge 3 at 61¼, Allied Chemical 2¼ at 57, duPont 2⅛ at 79⅜, American Can 3 at 97, Sante Fe 2⅞ at 130⅛, Illinois Central 2¼ at 54, Standard Oil (NJ) 3⅝ at 85⅞, and Gulf Oil 3¼ at 79½.

"The Authority on Authorities"

IF YOU HAD MIRRORS

MANY a matter at which you must guess—or at least try to estimate—would be simple if you had a well-placed set of mirrors behind the various players. In fact, after a hand is over, there are frequently apparent facts which you can then see might have been inferred early enough to do you some good. But hindsight, accurate as it is, can't ever pay you the dividends that foresight offers. In fact, you have to be stout-hearted sometimes to keep it from depressing you and weakening your keenness as the next deal comes up.

This is the deal that brought grief to a fine pair of Long Islanders who had journeyed to Easton, Pa., for the big annual tournament there. Bob Tyson in the North and Ray Duggan in the South had led their section in the first round, but barely failed to win when they guessed wrong on this deal.

Somewhat of a philosopher, Mr. Duggan says: "The bidding was so crowded that perhaps I should have bid 5-Clubs instead of 5-Hearts to give my partner a picture of the hand. However, I wasn't sure but what he had a short club suit, and I didn't want to give him the idea of playing it at clubs anyway. As you can easily see, we got a bad score, since a reluctant sacrifice by me at 6-Hearts would have resulted in a made contract. Several other pairs did as we did, since we got 4 points on the deal as against a top of 13."

Speaking of the play, he added: "The 5 of hearts on the K lead makes it tough to underlead the club A to make possible a diamond ruff."

Suppose Mr. Tyson had decided his bidding in the North had given almost an exact picture of his hand, and instead of doubling had passed to make his partner decide what to do. But all such suppositions only lock the stable door after the horse is gone. What would you have done?

2,751 Dwelling Units Termed "Substandard"

Advance Census Tabulation Cited

Special advance tabulation prepared by the Bureau of the Census shows that Cumberland has a total of 2,751 occupied dwelling units which are "substandard."

The advance report was received here under an agreement with the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Surveys for the 1950 census of housing were made here last April.

The report states that a dwelling unit is considered "substandard" by the Public Housing Administration if it is either dilapidated or lacks a flush toilet and bath inside the structure for the unit's exclusive use, and hot running water.

Of the 2,751 total, all but 138 are occupied by white persons.

Majority, or 2,020, are rented and the average is three rooms. Those which are owned by the occupants, in both white and colored categories, average six rooms.

Only 17.6 per cent of the dwellings occupied by white persons were found to be in dilapidated condition but 52.9 per cent of the non-white units were termed dilapidated.

Of the 109 non-white dwelling units occupied on a rental basis, 3.7 per cent were reported to have no piped running water inside the structure.

In the same category, 75.2 per cent were found to have only cold piped running water.

Majority of all the substandard dwellings are occupied by from one to four persons.

Over half, or 60.1 per cent, are listed as having two to four dwelling units in one structure.

Gross rent payments averaged from $15 to $34 monthly.

Of the 2,020 renter-occupied substandard units, 66.5 per cent in the "not dilapidated" class had running water but no private flush toilet.

Total number of families occupying the substandard dwelling units was 2,236, including 119 colored families.

Range in size averaged from two to five persons.

Ohio Woman Is Improving

The 27-year-old woman who was severely burned yesterday morning in a freak accident after a B. and O. passenger train uncoupled near Patterson's Creek Station, was reportedly in good condition late last night at Memorial Hospital.

She is Mrs. Frances Rositano, wife of Cpl. James Rositano, 3526 East 149th Street, Cleveland. She suffered first, second, and third degree burns from the waist down.

Mrs. Rositano, her husband and daughter were returning east after spending the Thanksgiving holiday in Cleveland. She was walking from one car to another on Train No. 18 and the cars uncoupled as she stepped on a platform.

Attendants said Mrs. Rositano fell between the cars and landed on the ground. A broken steam hose sprayed her with scalding mist. An air hose also was ripped loose.

An ambulance from Cumberland brought the woman to the hospital. Mrs. Rositano was returning to a Marine base with her husband and child when the accident occurred. The train arrived here about 6 a. m. and she was admitted to the hospital at 7:15.

Navy Veteran Vanishes From His Home Here

Police Search For John David Varner

Police of 13 eastern states have been asked to help locate John David Varner, 24-year-old Navy veteran who disappeared from his home at Potomac Park here on Thanksgiving Day.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Varner, the young man is unmarried and described as five feet four inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, blue eyes and dark brown hair. When last seen he was wearing a tan fingertip coat, brown trousers and tan shoes. He did not wear a hat.

Varner left his home at Potomac Park, according to his mother, at 5 p. m. Thursday, shortly after eating Thanksgiving dinner with the family. He said he was going to Cresaptown to visit a family which had recently installed a television set and he wanted to see how it worked. He was last seen, investigation disclosed, at 1 a. m. Friday at the Fairgo Tavern.

Mrs. Varner said the young man served two years in the Navy during the war and had been stationed at various places in this country. He was unemployed for a time since his discharge and later worked on the local flood control project as a laborer. More recently, about two or three months ago, he began operating a radio repair shop on Harrison Street. He has not been at the shop since his disappearance.

The young man's mother said he is a qualified radio technician and has not been ill nor despondent. Neither has he made a habit of going anywhere without letting his family know his whereabouts.

She said he took no clothes or personal affects except his 1933 model Chevrolet four-door sedan. The car is black with grey fenders. The left rear fender was missing. License tag number is 632-654.

Mrs. Varner said she has appealed to state and county authorities for help in locating her son and the State Police have contacted police in 13 states over their teletype and radio networks.

Area National Guard Units To Seek Members

Col. Millholland Says Extensive Drive Set

National Guard units of Cumberland, Frostburg and other parts of this area are planning an extensive recruiting campaign, according to Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment.

Col. Millholland said 40 men can be enlisted in Headquarters Company and Company C here and 20 can be enlisted in Company D at Frostburg.

In addition the battalion has been ordered to bring its officer personnel up to full strength and Col. Millholland said he can place an ammunition and pioneer officer, a communications officer and a couple of Infantry platoon leaders.

For enlisted men, any able-bodied male, of good moral character over the age of 18, married or single can be enlisted. Men over 17 can be enlisted if they have the consent of one parent.

Col. Millholland said an arrangement has been worked out with Selective Service so that members of active National Guard units such as those here, will not be drafted. He said there is nothing in the law providing for exempting Guardsmen from the draft, but Selective Service has agreed that men with good records in the Guard will not be drafted, so long as they remain in the Guard.

In the recruiting campaign being planned, the Colonel stated, emphasis will be placed upon the advantages of being well trained to meet any emergency, along with numerous other opportunities offered by Guard membership.

Veterans and non-veterans will be sought during the drive.

Flood Control Work Blamed In $1,750 Suit

Used Car Dealer Contends Lot Damaged

A civil suit for $1,750 for damages allegedly resulting from the current flood control project in Cumberland was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Harold A. Clayton, who formerly operated a used car lot at 35 Wineow Street.

The suit, filed for Clayton by Attorney John M. Robb, named the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, George and Lynch, Inc., a corporation, and the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army as defendants.

In his declaration Clayton cited that prior to the month of December, 1949, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland obtained a grant from the Federal government for a flood control project. This project was begun under the control and supervision of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Subsequently, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland entered into contract with George and Lynch, Inc., a firm of contractors, to do the work.

The declaration alleges further that the Mayor and City Council entered into an agreement with Clayton for right of entry and easement on and upon his used car lot at 35 Wineow Street. Under this right, the suit contends, permission was granted to use Clayton's lot to do certain working connection with the flood control project. In turn Clayton was to receive certain scheduled payments and the Mayor and Council agreed to restore Clayton's property upon completion of the work to as good or better condition than it was at the beginning, the suit alleges, but failed to do so.

Although the work was completed on or about April 15, Clayton contends, he has been unable to operate a used car business on that lot since then. He alleges that (1) the surface was improperly graded and full of mud holes, (2) that certain poles, lights and signs were not returned to positions, (3) signs were damaged, (4) roof of the building was damaged, and (5) two trucks belonging to Clayton were placed where they were stripped and damaged by vandals.

School Board Lacks Authority Over Some Buses

Public Vehicles Outside Jurisdiction

County School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp yesterday issued a statement in which he emphasized that he and the school board have no jurisdiction over public service buses which haul school children in Cumberland.

This comment came in response to a statement made Monday night at the council meeting when Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder suggested notifying Kopp about the overcrowding of school buses.

Mrs. Roeder's remarks followed a recommendation from Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long that a new ordinance be enacted to prevent overloading of buses carrying school children. Long said that he had received complaints from mothers that buses were being overloaded.

"Police investigation showed that one bus from Baltimore Avenue to Fort Hill High School carried more than 55 students, another bus from Bedford Street to Allegany High School carried 76 students," Long stated Monday night.

"The buses referred to by the commissioner apparently are public service buses over which we have no jurisdiction," Kopp emphasized yesterday afternoon.

"The school board buses do not pick up children, except those who are physically handicapped, within the city limits of Cumberland," the superintendent added.

"If there is anything that can be done to improve this condition we will be glad to cooperate with Commissioner Long and other interested persons," Kopp concluded.

Concerning difficulty encountered by county school buses in bringing children over snow-covered roads to classes, Kopp said that only one of the county's 80 school buses was unable to negotiate its route. That was in the Green Ridge area, he added.

The superintendent also said that absenteeism yesterday was lower than during the first school day after the weekend storm. He stated that Fort Hill High School, as an illustration, had 91 per cent attendance yesterday.

More Snow Falls With More Wind

The fifth day of continual snow flurries ended yesterday in the same way with the forecast calling for still more flurries and squalls today.

The official recorded snowfall for Cumberland was given as six inches yesterday and the flurries of the evening were listed as negligible. At 11 o'clock last night the temperature in the city was 28 degrees.

Maryland State Police said that an eighth of an inch of snow had fallen during the evening in Narrows Park.

At 11 o'clock last night, the temperature at Deal, Pa., was 18 degrees with 13 inches of snow on the ground and a light snow blowing. At Thomas, W. Va., it was 16 degrees above zero, 26 inches of snow laying, and a light snow blowing.

Garrett County got another inch of snow yesterday morning.

This brought to 19 inches the official measurement since last Friday night, when the first real storm of the winter broke. Some of the recordings in the county were up to 26 inches.

Most of the snowfell yesterday morning from 6:45 to 9 a. m., with the thermometer dipping 22 degrees. Other readings in the area included 18 degrees at Frostbur,g where the depth of snow was recorded at nine inches.

Born in Paw Paw in 1938, she was the daughter of Leonard and Emiley Tarrill Bailey.

Butts received numerous contusions and lacerations about his body, was severely shocked and his automobile was completely demolished, the declaration states.

2,751 Dwelling Units Termed "Substandard"

Advance Census Tabulation Cited

Special advance tabulation prepared by the Bureau of the Census shows that Cumberland has a total of 2,751 occupied dwelling units which are "substandard."

The advance report was received here under an agreement with the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Surveys for the 1950 census of housing were made here last April.

The report states that a dwelling unit is considered "substandard" by the Public Housing Administration if it is either dilapidated or lacks a flush toilet and bath inside the structure for the unit's exclusive use, and hot running water.

Of the 2,751 total, all but 138 are occupied by white persons.

Majority, or 2,020, are rented and the average is three rooms. Those which are owned by the occupants, in both white and colored categories, average six rooms.

Only 17.6 per cent of the dwellings occupied by white persons were found to be in dilapidated condition but 52.9 per cent of the non-white units were termed dilapidated.

Of the 109 non-white dwelling units occupied on a rental basis, 3.7 per cent were reported to have no piped running water inside the structure.

In the same category, 75.2 per cent were found to have only cold piped running water.

Majority of all the substandard dwellings are occupied by from one to four persons.

Over half, or 60.1 per cent, are listed as having two to four dwelling units in one structure.

Gross rent payments averaged from $15 to $34 monthly.

Of the 2,020 renter-occupied substandard units, 66.5 per cent in the "not dilapidated" class had running water but no private flush toilet.

Total number of families occupying the substandard dwelling units was 2,236, including 119 colored families.

Range in size averaged from two to five persons.

Flood Control Work Blamed In $1,750 Suit

Used Car Dealer Contends Lot Damaged

A civil suit for $1,750 for damages allegedly resulting from the current flood control project in Cumberland was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Harold A. Clayton, who formerly operated a used car lot at 35 Wineow Street.

The suit, filed for Clayton by Attorney John M. Robb, named the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, George and Lynch, Inc., a corporation, and the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army as defendants.

In his declaration Clayton cited that prior to the month of December, 1949, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland obtained a grant from the Federal government for a flood control project. This project was begun under the control and supervision of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Subsequently, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland entered into contract with George and Lynch, Inc., a firm of contractors, to do the work.

The declaration alleges further that the Mayor and City Council entered into an agreement with Clayton for right of entry and easement on and upon his used car lot at 35 Wineow Street. Under this right, the suit contends, permission was granted to use Clayton's lot to do certain working connection with the flood control project. In turn Clayton was to receive certain scheduled payments and the Mayor and Council agreed to restore Clayton's property upon completion of the work to as good or better condition than it was at the beginning, the suit alleges, but failed to do so.

Although the work was completed on or about April 15, Clayton contends, he has been unable to operate a used car business on that lot since then. He alleges that (1) the surface was improperly graded and full of mud holes, (2) that certain poles, lights and signs were not returned to positions, (3) signs were damaged, (4) roof of the building was damaged, and (5) two trucks belonging to Clayton were placed where they were stripped and damaged by vandals.

School Board Lacks Authority Over Some Buses

Public Vehicles Outside Jurisdiction

County School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp yesterday issued a statement in which he emphasized that he and the school board have no jurisdiction over public service buses which haul school children in Cumberland.

This comment came in response to a statement made Monday night at the council meeting when Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder suggested notifying Kopp about the overcrowding of school buses.

Mrs. Roeder's remarks followed a recommendation from Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long that a new ordinance be enacted to prevent overloading of buses carrying school children. Long said that he had received complaints from mothers that buses were being overloaded.

"Police investigation showed that one bus from Baltimore Avenue to Fort Hill High School carried more than 55 students, another bus from Bedford Street to Allegany High School carried 76 students," Long stated Monday night.

"The buses referred to by the commissioner apparently are public service buses over which we have no jurisdiction," Kopp emphasized yesterday afternoon.

"The school board buses do not pick up children, except those who are physically handicapped, within the city limits of Cumberland," the superintendent added.

"If there is anything that can be done to improve this condition we will be glad to cooperate with Commissioner Long and other interested persons," Kopp concluded.

Concerning difficulty encountered by county school buses in bringing children over snow-covered roads to classes, Kopp said that only one of the county's 80 school buses was unable to negotiate its route. That was in the Green Ridge area, he added.

The superintendent also said that absenteeism yesterday was lower than during the first school day after the weekend storm. He stated that Fort Hill High School, as an illustration, had 91 per cent attendance yesterday.

More Snow Falls With More Wind

The fifth day of continual snow flurries ended yesterday in the same way with the forecast calling for still more flurries and squalls today.

The official recorded snowfall for Cumberland was given as six inches yesterday and the flurries of the evening were listed as negligible. At 11 o'clock last night the temperature in the city was 28 degrees.

Maryland State Police said that an eighth of an inch of snow had fallen during the evening in Narrows Park.

At 11 o'clock last night, the temperature at Deal, Pa., was 18 degrees with 13 inches of snow on the ground and a light snow blowing. At Thomas, W. Va., it was 16 degrees above zero, 26 inches of snow laying, and a light snow blowing.

Garrett County got another inch of snow yesterday morning.

This brought to 19 inches the official measurement since last Friday night, when the first real storm of the winter broke. Some of the recordings in the county were up to 26 inches.

Most of the snowfell yesterday morning from 6:45 to 9 a. m., with the thermometer dipping 22 degrees. Other readings in the area included 18 degrees at Frostbur,g where the depth of snow was recorded at nine inches.

Harry Beneman Hurt In Fall

Harry Beneman, 802 Fayette Street, suffered a right leg injury yesterday when he fell on the ice in front of the residence of his brother, Milton D. Beneman, 109 Luteman Highway.

He was taken to Memorial Hospital, where a cast was applied. His condition is satisfactory.

Paw Paw Girl Is Fatally Hurt While Sledding

Wheels Of Truck Crush Her Chest

A 12-year-old Paw Paw, W. Va., girl was fatally injured yesterday afternoon while sled riding when the rear wheels of a truck crushed her chest.

She was Sonja Lee Bailey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bailey, Okonoko Road, Paw Paw, according to Dr. H. V. Deming, deputy county medical officer.

Dr. Deming said the accident occurred at 3:30 p. m. yesterday three and one-half miles south of Paw Paw on State Route 9, when the sled the girl was riding went under a truck driven by John Boher, Paw Paw.

She was taken immediately to Memorial Hospital by the Paw Paw Volunteer Fire Company ambulance, but was pronounced dead upon arrival at 4:40 p. m. Dr. Deming said death overtook her in Oldtown.

He attributed the cause of death to a hemorrhage together with punctured lungs caused by fractured ribs on the right side.

At the time of the accident, the girl was visiting with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Bernard Bailey.

Born in Paw Paw in 1938, she was the daughter of Leonard and Emiley Tarrill Bailey.

Besides her parents she is survived by three brothers, Bernard Bailey, U. S. Army, Dale Preston, at home, and Bryan, also at home; and one sister, Mrs. Lorraine Twigg, Kifer.

The body is at the W. D. Parks Funeral Home, Paw Paw.

Motorist Seeks $10,000 Damages From Accident

Alleges Unlighted Auto On Highway

Harry G. Butts, who contends that he was severely injured in an automobile accident near Clarysville on U. S. Route 40 on or about October 26, seeks $10,000 from Marcello Fabbri in a suit filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The suit was filed by Attorney W. Earle Cobey.

In the declaration, Butts contends that Fabbri permitted his automobile to stand on the highway without lights or other warning device to show its presence.

As a result, the suit continues, Fabbri's automobile was struck by a car operated by a third person and then by the car operated by Butts.

Butts received numerous contusions and lacerations about his body, was severely shocked and his automobile was completely demolished, the declaration states.

In conclusion the plaintiff charges that the accident was the result of negligence and carelessness of the defendant.

The event was sponsored by the Allegany Hospital Aid Society. Mrs. Proudfoot a retired school teacher, began her hobby a number of years ago, dressing dolls to represent various foreign countries, characters in books, art, religion and history. The collection is growing in size every year.

U. S. CHARGES CHINESE AGGRESSION

Allies Yield Three Key Towns To Reds

Communists, Exploiting Their Breakthrough, Swing 13 Miles In Behind American Positions

MacArthur, Reporting "New War," Talks 4 Hours With Top Generals

TOKYO Wednesday, Nov. 29 (AP)—Chinese Reds swung 13 miles in behind American positions in Northwest Korea today through the crushed east flank of the 75-mile United Nations front.

American reinforcemnets and tanks rushed up to meet the flank menace while U. N. forces in the west and center of the line made an orderly withdrawal up to 10 miles southward toward the Chogchon river.

The withdrawing forces yielded the key towns of Yongbyon and Yongsan on the northwest side of the river and Won on the east bank.

The critical situation, posed by 200,000 Chinese Reds and 70,000 North Koreans, amounted to "an entirely new war," Gen. MacArthur said in a special communique. He promptly summoned his two top generals in Korea and Tokyo for an emergency conference. It lasted four hours.

From Red-captured Tokchon, at the east end of the front, the onrushing Communists rolled 23 miles southeast to the town of Samso. It is 13 air miles south of Won on the Chongchon river.

Withdrawing U. S. infantrymen have taken up new positions near Won.

Reds Threaten Supply Line

At Samso, the Reds are less than five miles from a railroad leading up from the big U. N. supply base at Sunchon, 11 miles to the south.

MacArthur's 110,000-man U. N. army in Northwest Korea, which had launched an end-the-war offensive last Friday, fell back before the onslaughts of 14 Chinese divisions and elements of seven North Korean divisions.

Seven more Chinese divisions were in action in Northeast Korea, barring a move by U. S. Marines to strike west and cut supply lines behind the Red counteroffensive in the northwest.

The battle at Samso developed after the Communists ambushed a platoon of the U. S. First Cavalry Division.

First Cavalry reinforcements moved up to battle with a Chinese regiments and inflicted from 500 to 800 casualties.

A. U. S. Eighth Army spokesman said American tanks have moved into the continuing fight against the Chinese who still were throwing massed infantry forward despite huge losses.

"Two-Platoon" System

The spokesman said withdrawals at the west and center of the front were orderly despite heavy enemy pressure. But he acknowledged the situation was extremely grave on the east flank where three South Korean divisions collapsed three days ago.

The Reds were swiftly exploiting this breakthrough. Chinese Reds were reported swarming along "every road, gully and ridgeline" in an area from Tokchon north for 35 miles.

Four Chinese regiments smashed into the Pukchang area, 12 miles south of Tokchon.

In the breakthrough sector, Chinese at more than division strength —8,000 to 10,000 men—smashed at South Korean troops attempting to cover the reorganization of the three divisions comprising the Republic of Korea Second Corps.

Eighth Army observers said the Chinese were striking with American football's "two-platoon" system. The Reds strike first with a regiment or division. When that force falters, a fresh regiment or division moves on through to sustain the attack.

War May Keep Congress On Job Over Christmas

Crisis Overshadows Home-Front Issues

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The grave turn of events in Korea cast a shadow of foreboding over Congress today and brought predictions that it may force the lawmakers to stand by over Christmas for any emergency.

Behind closed doors, Secretary of State Acheson is reported to have told senators that the mass onslaught of Chinese Communists in Korea demands immediate decisions on the next moves in the crisis.

Legislators raised such questions as these.

1. Whether Gen. Douglas MacArthur should be authorized to bomb supply lines and Red troops massed behind the border in Manchuria. Some lawmakers advocated use of the atomic bomb.

2. Whether Chinese Nationalist troops from Formosa shall now be thrown into battle against the Chinese Communists.

Acheson is said to have told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, in a two-hour session this forenoon, that grave as the situation is in Korea, it is no more serious than the danger in Europe.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) said Acheson "especially emphasized the dangerous situation in Yugoslavia," where Marshall Tito has been under mounting pressure following his break with the Kremlin.

Although overshadowed by events in Korea, a series of important home-front issues engaged Congress on this second day of its "lame duck" session—that last session before the new 82nd Congress meets on Jan. 3.

In general, the legislative picture reflected a threat of a Senate filibuster over the question of Alaska-Hawaii statehood, increasing Republican opposition to an administration tax bill, and an apparent reluctance to extend federal rent controls as requested by President Truman.

Something mighty like a filibuster against the Alaska statehood bill developed in the Senate.

One strong opponent of the legislation admitted as much. A reporter asked bluntly if a filibuster was on. The senator replied:

"You can call it that."

This wasn't any spectacular oneman show, as sometimes has been the case in the Senate. But the determination to delay action by any means available was hardly mistakable.

Truman In-Law, Binaggio Linked

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Kansas City Star, in a dispatch from Albuquerque, N. M., said today that Charles Binaggio, Kansas City political boss, was preparing to invest $200,000 in a pumice company operated by D. F. Wallace, brother-in-law of President Truman, at the time Binaggio was slain last April.

The story said the company was formed in 1949 by Dennis Chavez, Jr., son of Sen. Dennis Chavez (D-N. M.), and Blevins Davis, wealthy theatrical producer and friend of President Truman, and that it had obtained a $50,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The company obtained a large armed forces contract for building blocks which later was cancelled because the concern stood to lose $50,000 on the deal, the Star continued.

The story was carried under the by-line of Jack Swift, a Star staff writer who has been touring the west with the Kefauver Senate Crime Investigating Committee.

Break In Big Water Main Floods Part Of Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Nov. 28 (AP)—A 40-inch water main burst in downtown Baltimore tonight, cutting off the supply to thousands of homes and other buildings for more than two hours.

A several square-mile area of central, south and southwest Baltimore was affected.

The Baltimore Sun was unable to print its first edition in its present plant, a block from the break at Charles and Lombard streets.

However, it was able to make an emergency run in a new production plant to be opened formally next month several blocks north of the present building.

Water cascaded a foot or more deep down Charles and Lombard streets, flooding cellars of many office and commercial buildings and tying up traffic throughout the downtown area.

South Baltimore General Hospital was entirely without water, and pressure dropped badly on some of the upper floors of University hospital.

Radio stations carried emergency warnings to commercial building owners to shut off boilers.

Firemen were faced with the all-night task of pumping out cellars in the flooded area.

The cause of the break was not determined immediately.

Use A-Bomb, Legislators Say

Town On Site Of H-Bomb Plant

This is the village of Ellenton, S. C., one of four ttowns whose residents will have to be relocated to make way for the establishment of a huge atomic energy plant to make materials for the hydrogen bomb. Ellenton, largest of the towns, has a population of about 1,000. Most unanimous thought expressed by village folk when they heard the news was, "Let's move somewhere together."

Trumanites Lose Excess Profits Test

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The administration lost its first test today in the fight over a proposed $4,000,000,000 excess profits tax on corporations.

The deepening war crisis in Korea, however, set government officials talking about more military spending and a bigger profit—and made a heavy increase in taxation more certain than ever in the months ahead.

Move Loses On Deadlock

The administration's preliminary setback came on a vote in the tax-writing House. Ways and Means Committee on a move to clamp down an excess profits tax on corporate earnings in excess of 75 per cent of the average of the best three years in the 1946-49 period.

With one Democrat absent, the committee voted 12 to 12. The proposal thus lost on the deadlock.

Another vote will be taken tomorrow.

Republicans want to apply the special tax only to profits above the full average for the three-year period, cutting out the administration's 75 per cent base figure.

Action Next Year Predicted

Amid the developing fight, some Republican leaders predicted that final action on taxes will go over to the new 83nd Congress in January. Sen. Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP Policy Committee, said he personally doesn't feel "bound" to enact tax legislation until the new year.

Although deadlocked on the major issue, the House committee tentatively agreed on special treatment for some public utilities, including interstate water, gas electricity, telephone and pipeline companies.

Wreck Toll Reaches 78

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The toll in the Thanksgiving eve collision of two Long Island Railroad trains rose to 78 today with the death of one of those injured. The latest victim was Samuel Goldstein, 55, Rockville Centre, N. Y.

South Carolina Site Chosen For Development Of H-Bomb

Truman Due To Ask Atomic Funds

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—A huge program to develop the H-bomb and to step up production of the atom bomb was outlined today, at a possible cost of more than $1,250,000,000.

The Atomic Energy Commission picked a 250,000-acre tract in South Carolina for development work on the H-bomb.

At the same time, congressional sources said they expected President Truman to ask soon, possibly tomorrow, for funds for a vast expansion of atomic energy and electrical power production in the Tennessee valley. There were indications this expansion would cost close to $1,000,000,000.

The South Carolina project will cost $260,000,000 with a possibility of more funds to come. If fully successful, it will give this country by far the deadliest weapon in history.

AEC Chairman Gordon Dean told Congress in asking for the money last July that the commission would build facilities "which can either make materials for A-bombs, H-bombs or fissionable material for use in power reactors."

Today, following the announcement that the site had been selected, Rep. Gore (D-Tenn) said he expected President Truman to ask for much larger sums to build plants which would produce the A-bomb material, uranium-235.

"I anticipate the new construction will be done within the Tennessee Valley Authority distribution territory," Gore told reporters. "This will require additional very large TVA generating facilities—probably several more steam plants."

Gore said the House Appropriations Subcommittee that handles such requests will hold a special meeting tomorrow morning.

The site is in Aiken and Barnwell counties, South Carolina, near the Savannah river. The location was chosen over 100 other sites after four months consideration.

Construction of several big plants there will start early in 1951 and will force about 1,500 families in the area to relocate in the next 18 months.

Villagers Accept Dislocation News With Patriotism

ELLENTON, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) — Residents of this rural settlement were stunned today when informed that their town will be levelled to make way for a giant hydrogen bomb plant.

But, despite the harshness of the shock, they accepted it with heart-warming patriotism.

Dr. Fred C. Brinkley, who has practiced here for 40 years, summed up by saying:

"It is rather crushing to have to give up your home, the land you love and most of all your friends. But if it is best for my country and, knowing that others are sacrificing so much more, then I am willing."

Export Controls Effective Soon

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A Commerce Department official said today controls to prevent any strategic materials from being shipped through the United States to Russia or her "satellites" will go into effect soon.

The spokesman, Wallace S. Thomas, deputy assistant director of the Office of International Trade in charge of export supply, made the statement after a conference with businessmen here.

Last week the Commerce Department, under fire in the Senate because of transshipments of steel and other strategic material to Red China, announced it was considering a ban on such shipments.

Previously controls have applied only to strategic goods produced in this country.

Thomas met today with a group of exporters, importers, bankers and transportation officials at the Commerce Department's regional offices.

He said the group "expressed thorough agreement with the objectives of the regulations."

Red Cross Goal Set

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The American Red Cross, facing heavy new demands as a result of the defense program, set a goal of $85,000,000 today for its 1951 fund campaign, starting March 1.

211 New War Casualties

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — The Defense Department today issued Korean casualty list No. 162 containing 211 names.

Killed By School Bus

SILVER SPRING, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) —Nancy Jeanne Allen, six-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Allen, Kensington, was crushed to death this afternoon under a wheel of her school bus.

Police said the bus backed over the child's head after knocking her down at the entrance to the playground of St. John's parochial school.

U. S. Takes Grave View Of Setbacks In Korea Fighting

Truman, Security Council In Huddle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—The U. S. government, shocked and spurred to fresh action by the grave turn of events in Korea, today sought urgent measures to halt the Red tide in the Far East and at other danger spots all along the iron curtain.

There were plain indications of official concern that a third world war could be developing—and that the threat might not be confined to Korea.

On Capitol Hill, some voices were raised in favor of using the atom bomb against the onsurging Chinese Communists.

President Truman met with the National Security Council, the government's top policy-making agency in matters affecting the country's safety.

The White House dropped a thick cloak of secrecy over the hour-and-15-minute meeting. The President's military and diplomatic advisers left his office in sober, tight-lipped silence.

Marshall Voices Concern

Secretary of Defense Marshall, after conferring earlier with Mr. Truman, said the free world is faced with "a very critical situation" which the United Nations must resolutely "face up to."

Congressional leaders likewise voiced deepest concern over the Far Eastern crisis.

Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) said it may force Congress to stay in session through Christmas.

In an impassioned floor speech, Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) called for an ultimatum telling the Russians they must pull the Chinese troops out of North Korea.

O'Mahoney didn't say what this country should do if the Russians failed to heed such an ultimatum. He told reporters later they could draw their own conclusions. An ultimatum normally implies a threat of military action.

Sen. Robertson (D-Va) called the situation in Korea "as critical as any in our history," and added:

"I think the next three days will determine whether we are at war with China and Russia."

Use Of A-Bomb Proposed

From Sen. Brewster (R-Me) came a proposal that Gen. Douglas MacArthur be given authority to use the atom bomb, if he sees fit, against Red Chinese troops, concentration centers and war plants.

Similar proposals that the a-bomb be dropped came from two House members, Reps. Rivers (D-SC) and Cole (R-NY), both members of the Armed Services Committee.

High defense officials said, however, no consideration is being given to use the a-bomb now.

Secretary of State Acheson called for foreign policy unity in the light of the developing crisis. Acheson arranged to appear later before the House Foreign Affairs Committee.

Acheson conferred behind closed doors with the senators soon after he ordered a charge of aggression filed against the Chinese Communists in the United Nations Security Council.

This could result in the war's being carried—perhaps by U. S. bombers—into Chinese Communist territory. And Red China has a mutual defense agreement with the Soviet Union, which from the first has fought U. N. intervention in the Korean conflict.

China Reds Live In Strict Seclusion In Swank Hotel

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—The Chinese Communist delegation to the United Nations is living at the swank Waldorf-Astoria hotel in seclusion as strict as ever observed by Russian diplomats.

Other guests in the hotel never see the Chinese except when they are going to or from Lake Success.

The Chinese spurn the hotel's lavish dining rooms and eat in the privacy of their suite.

Their privacy is reinforced by rooms kept vacant on both ends of their suite—apparently a measure to block any possible eavesdropping on their conversations.

Hotel officials declined to discuss the private life of the Red delegation—whether they eat American food or have Chinese dishes sent up to their suite.

But it was learned that one elevator is held in reserve at all times for their sole use.

This lessens the possibility of "incidents," such as a face to face meeting of a Gold Star mother or father with representatives of the country whose troops are fighting the Americans in Korea.

Engrossed with the task of trying to prove that the American fleet in Formosan waters constitutes aggression, the Chinese show no interest in "seeing the sights" or other diversions offered by New York.

Peiping Spokesman, In Reply, Condemns United States, Says Troops In Korea Volunteers

Wu's Blast Instead Of Conciliation Sign Causes Gloom In Allied Ranks

LAKE SUCCESS, Nov. 28 (AP) — The United States today charged the Russian-backed Chinese Communists with "open and notorious" aggression in Korea. Red China replied that those Chinese Communists in Korea are volunteers and that Peiping will not stop their departure for the battlefront.

American Delegate Warren R. Austin used the term aggression in the Security Council on instructions from Washington after Gen. MacArthur reported there are 200,000 Chinese Communist soldiers in Korea and "we face an entirely new war."

HEARS CHARGES—Wu Hsui-Chuan, Red China's representative who sat at the United Nations Security Council yesterday as an invited guest, listens intently but apparently impassively through earphones as Chief U. S. Delegate Warren Austin spoke directly to Wu and charged Chinese Communists with open and notorious aggression in Korea.

Poker-faced Wu Hsiu-Chuan, chief Chinese Communist spokesman at the U. N., said in his first speech to the council that the security of his country is endangered by United States aggression against Korea and is alarmed by the spread toward China of the "flames" of the U. S. "war of aggression."

Wu counter-charged in the council that the U. S. is guilty of "cunning" aggression also against China, Vietnam, the Philippines and other Asian countries. He demanded the council condemn the U. S. and slap strong sanctions on the Washington government. He also called for expulsion from the U. N. of Nationalist China.

Western Delegates Gloomy

The Security Council adjourned until 3 p. m. (EST) tomorrow without further action, but western delegates gloomily said that instead of showing any sign of conciliation the Chinese Communists had outdone the Russians in blasting the U. S.

Austin said in a statement after the meeting:

"The Chinese Communist spokesman revealed that his appraisal of the United Nations action in Korea is the Soviet appraisal. He has admitted that they have been preparing for a long time to resist the United Nations. xxx

"He has made it clear that the Chinese Communist intervention in North Korea is the consummation of a design to use military force without regard for the consequences."

Wu took notes as Austin told the Security Council the grave facts of Chinese Communist aggression must be faced squarely by the people of the world—and especially the council.

Austin asked Wu 20 direct questions which, in sum, boiled down to: Why have you thrown 200,000 troops into Korea against United States forces and what do you want?

Action On Resolution Urged

Austin also urged the council to act soon on a six-nation resolution demanding the Chinese Communists get out of Korea. This would promise to protect the Peiping and Soviet boundaries with Korea. The American delegate said he was ready to sit all night to get a decision but several council delegates said privately they did not have instructions and could not vote tonight.

Wu did not answer Austin's questions directly and said he had come here to talk about American aggression against Formosa. But before he completed his one hour and 50 minute statement he had ranged

More Snow Adds To Cleanup Job In Storm Areas

Big Cities Slowly Winning Struggle

[By The Associated Press]

More snow fell in the East Tuesday, adding to the task of cities still digging out from savage weekend blizzards.

Another one to two inches of snow fell on Pennsylvania and in scattered areas of Ohio.

Despite the temporary setback, however, the big industrial cities of Pittsburgh and Cleveland were slowly winning the struggle to return to normal.

The Weather Bureau said no new heavy snow was in prospect and that temperatures will remain at or below freezing in the snow area.

The list of storm dead swelled to 281, the cleanup job adding to the toll. The new casualties were mostly from heart attacks brought on by overexertion.

The wind-battered eastern seaboard also was feeling the after effects of the storm.

Total storm damage in 22 eastern and midwestern states was estimated in the hundreds of millions of dollars.

This is the picture in the areas of major storm damage:

Pittsburgh: Most steel mills, coal mines and industrial plants hoped to get production rolling Wednesday. Department stores set the same day for their reopening. Colleges and schools hope to reopen Thursday. There were milk shortages in many areas, particularly the suburbs. Public transportation was not expected to return to normal for a week.

Cleveland: Main highways were clear and most schools and colleges expect to be open by Wednesday. Industry called back its workers. Fresh snow added to the problems in some other Ohio areas.

New York and New Jersey: Some 225,000 households still were without electricity. About 90,000 telephones still were out. Insurance men said that claims, rolling in from South Carolina to Maine, would dwarf any disaster since the east coast's 1938 hurricane.

Gen. MacArthur Explains Remark

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today his home - by - Christmas forecast merely expressed the "universal hope" for an early end to the Korean war.

MacArthur cabled that explanation about the now famous comment in reply to a question by Ray Henle, Washington radio commentator.

Henley, editor of NBC's "Three-Star Extra" news program, said he received the following message from MacArthur sent via the Pentagon:

"In reply to question contained in your cable of Nov. 28, apparently greatly exaggerated statements have been attributed to some informal comments passed between my field commanders and myself in a jocular vein expressive of the universal hope for an early termination of hostilities.

"The evident physical impossibility of fulfillment of the statement attributed to me should be its own best refutation.

"At no time have I ever attempted to predict the course or termination of this or any other military campaign."

In a dispatch from MacArthur's Tokyo headquarters yesterday, AP Correspondent Relman Morin wrote that MacArthur made the prediction last Friday when the General flew to North Korea to watch the kickoff of his grand offensive.

Aide To Warren Tried To Cool Off Gambling Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — Crime investigating senators got testimony today that a member of Florida Gov. Fuller Warren's official staff tried to cool off a gambling case with a claim that he had a commission from the governor to "take over" the raided games.

The account came from George Patton, 31, former deputy sheriff of Dade county (Miami), as part of a lurid story of big-money shakedowns and payoffs among law officers of Florida's lush "Gold Coast."

He named the Governor's aide as Leon Bishop, and said the incident took place during and after a raid by Patton on a "gambling joint" in Hialeah, race track town outside Miami in December, 1949. He said Bishop was a colonel on Warren's staff. He added that the man is now under indictment after being arrested in a gambling case in another Florida county.

Patton, who quit the deputy's job in September, was a star witness before the Dade county grand jury which indicted his former chief, Sheriff James A. Sullivan, and seven deputies on charges of condoning gambling and corruption. The Florida Supreme Court has thrown out the incident, but Sullivan is under suspension.

Four Children Perish In Apartment Blaze

OSHAWA, Ont., Nov. 28 (AP)—An Oshawa mother left five of her children alone for 15 minutes today, and four of them died in a fire.

Mrs. Gordon Burns, an expectant mother, had gone to a neighbor's house on a household errand. The children's father was at work at his factory job.

Fire broke out suddenly in the two-story frame dwelling in which the family had a four-room apartment. Linda, 5, Joan, 3, and Mary, 11 months, were dead when firemen broke into the apartment. Bobby, 2, died an hour later in a hospital. A fifth child, Donna, 6, was outside the house, playing, at the time of the fire.

Three Hunters Killed In Crash

ELLICOTT CITY, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—Three men returning from a hunting trip were killed in a head-on collision on U. S. Route 40 near here today. An Army lieutenant, his wife and two small children who were riding in the other car were hurt.

The dead were identified as Thomas J. Edwards, 40, Sparrows Point; Russell T. Wray, 48, Edgemere, and Edward J. Rychter, 52, also of Edgemere.

The injured, all treated in St. Agnes' hospital, Baltimore, were:

First Lt. Abraham Beckman, 48, whose home is in Dover, N. J., and who is stationed at Fort Lewis, Wash., reported in serious condition from undetermined injuries.

Mrs. Abraham Beckman, 48, whose condition also was listed as serious.

Sue Ann Beckman, 4, cuts and bruises.

Phyllis Beckman, 18 months, minor injuries.

State Trooper Bert C. Hammersmith said he was told the crash occurred when Beckman's car attempted to pass a truck on a hill.

Negro Held In Rape Of Washington Woman

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP) — A Navy Department employe was beaten and raped in her Northwest Washington apartment this afternoon.

Within 90 minutes police announced the arrest of a man they said admitted the attack.

Lt. Richard McCarty of the sex squad identified the victim as Eilzabeth L. McCleskey, 42. She was taken to Gallinger hospital. Her condition was described as serious.

Police Chief Robert J. Barrett said a negro man was arrested in a house in the same section of Washington, and was held without charges against him.

Barrett said the man told police that he struck, choked and raped Miss McCleskey after she answered his knock at the door and granted his request to use the telephone.

Southern Governors End Annual Session

CHARLESTON, S. C., Nov. 28 (AP) —Southern governors ended their annual conference here today after hearing President Colgate W. Darden, Jr., of the University of Virginia, speak out for more equal educational opportunities for negroes.

Darden, a former Virginia governor, declared negroes should be admitted to southern professional and graduate schools. He favored continuance of the public school system on a "segregated" but "first-rate" basis in order to provide the equalities to which "the basic law of the several states says the negro is entitled."

Gov. Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi was elected conference chairman in succession to Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of this state. The governors accepted the invitation of Gov. Sidney S. McMath of Arkansas to meet next year at Hot Springs, Ark.

Executive Arrested For Killing Wife, Lover

PALATKA, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—A Jacksonville, Fla., trucking executive was ordered arrested today for the slaying of his wife and her lover at a lonely lakeside cabin.

J. P. McRae, 34, had been free since Nov. 15 when Jacksonville Safety Commissioner Richard D. Sutton, 39, and Mrs. Marie McRae, 33, were blasted with a shotgun.

A coroner's jury, resuming its hearing, however, ordered McRae's arrest on murder charges. It recommended that he be allowed to make bond, a rarity in murder cases.

Concrete Mixer Kills

BETHESDA, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — Bernard Burns, 26, Washington, was killed today when he was pulled into a concrete mixer after his arm caught in a conveyor belt.

Truman Given Gun By Retiring General

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—Lt. Gen. R. H. Huebner, retiring after nearly 40 years in the Army, presented President Truman today with a carbine.

It was the gift, he said, of United States forces in Europe, his last command. He goes into retirement tomorrow.

Reporters inspecting the carbine built in Army shops in Europe, asked if it would have been of help in the recent attack on the Blair House by two Puerto Rican fanatics.

"If the President had had that when he stuck his head out of the window it would have been very useful," Huebner replied.

French Volunteer Battalion In Korea

PUSAN, Korea, Nov. 29 (Wednesday) (INS) — A French battalion made up of crack volunteers from some of France's proudest army units arrived in South Korea today to join United Nations forces in their darkest hour of the Korean war.

The battalion includes veterans of the Maquis, famed irregulars who assisted the Allies from across the English Channel to their crushing victory.

all over Asia.

He told countries backing the U.S. not to "pull the chestnuts out of the fire for the United States — because if you support United States aggression you must bear the consequences of your actions."

He said Peiping let volunteers cross the Korean border to fight U.N. forces because the Chinese saw the "flames" of war coming closer to their border.

Military reports from Korea say the Chinese Communists are organized along regular military lines and are not volunteers. Austin asked Wu in one of his questions whether these troops in Korea actually are volunteers.

Wu also demanded that the council order the withdrawal of U.N. forces from Formosa. The U.S. says there are only 44 U.S. military people on Formosa and they are part of the military attached to the embassy. Finally, Wu demanded that the council order the immediate withdrawal of all U.N. forces from Korea.

Debate on the six-nation resolution will continue tomorrow.

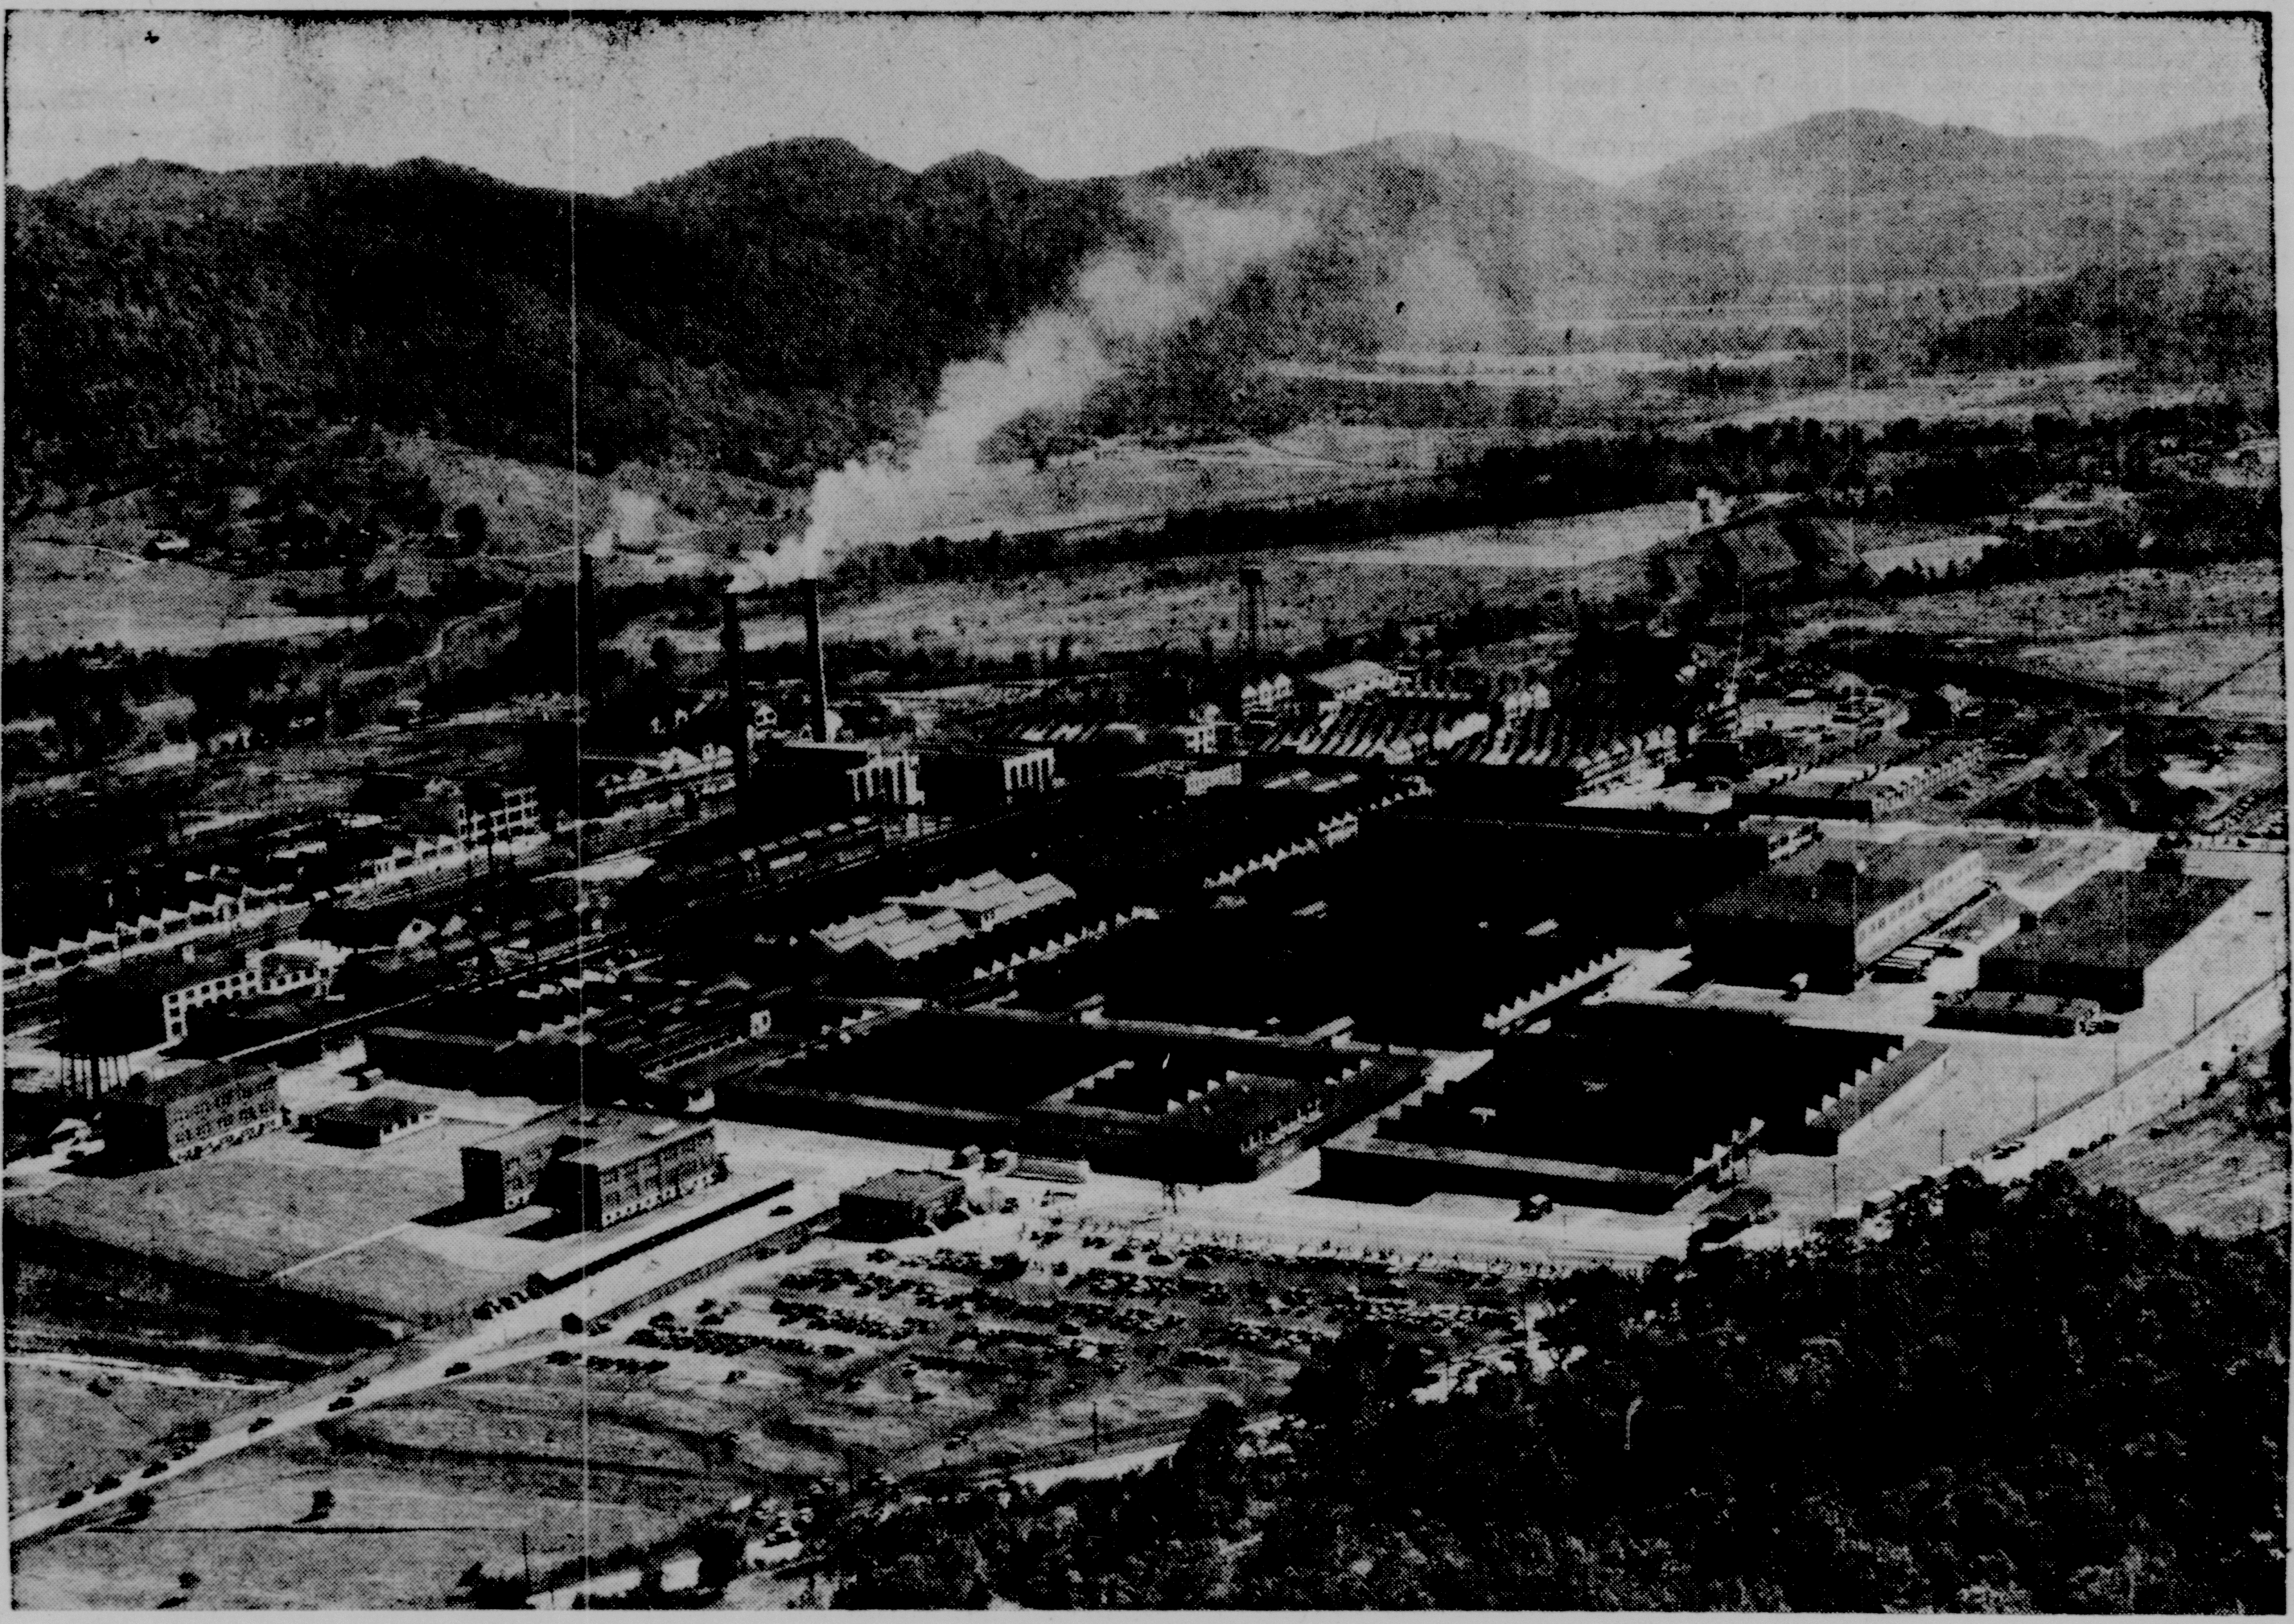
Amcelle Plant of the Celanese Corporation of America, Cumberland, Md.



This is the first of a series of informal little stories about the way we work at Celanese. We hope you'll find them interesting and informative.

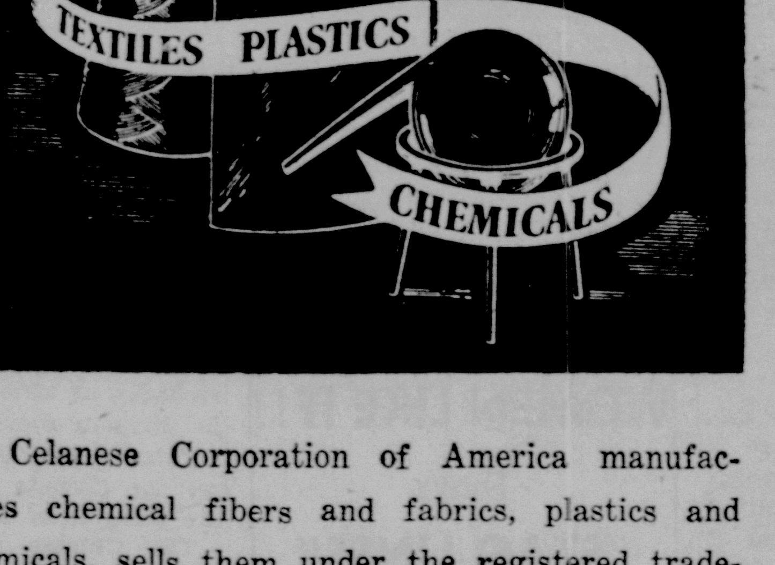
BEHIND THE SCENES

AT AMCELLE

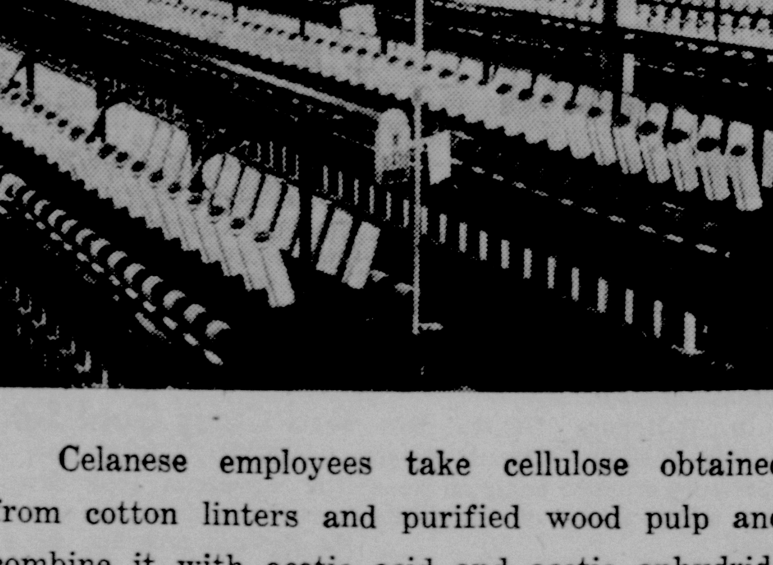
The first commercial cellulose acetate yarn ever to be made in America was produced by Amcelle people, way back in 1924. Since then millions and millions of pounds of Celanese* yarn have gone out to all parts of the world. However, there's one job Celanese never finishes. We're still trying to find better ways to make a better product, and to produce it at prices more and more customers are able and willing to pay.

Celanese believes that the more the employees and their neighbors in the Tri-state area know about the company the better it will be for everyone — for our customers, for our employees, for the community of which we are a part, and — finally — for the company itself. We're all in this together — we all depend on each other.

*Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



Celanese Corporation of America manufactures chemical fibers and fabrics, plastics and chemicals, sells them under the registered trademark Celanese*. Operations at Amcelle include production of cellulose acetate flake, acetate filament yarn, and dyeing and finishing of fabrics. Amcelle is one of 12 Celanese plants in 8 states.



Celanese employees take cellulose obtained from cotton linters and purified wood pulp and combine it with acetic acid and acetic anhydride to make cellulose acetate flake. The flake is then dissolved in acetone to make a spinning solution which is then spun into yarn. Fibers for almost any conceivable fabric can be produced.

Some tools are simple, and a man can furnish his own — but not the costly equipment needed to make a chemical yarn. Amcelle's modernization program, running into the millions of dollars, will provide new and better machines for employees to use to beat the competition of other plants. Keep your eye on Celanese — we're moving ahead.

Programs For Peace

The United States and other nations which are in a position to take the lead in developing world peace have made a start toward a positive approach which promises the possibility of success. But the negative attitude has not by any means been safely put aside and it remains a grave danger to be overcome. The positive approach embodies a peace program of our own, a realistic one which takes note of conditions as they are and of changes as they occur. The negative approach consists principally of resisting Russia.

The Soviet Union continues to argue tirelessly for its own peace program. The Soviet program has to be opposed because it contains errors of logic and, we fear, falsities of purpose. But we should not fail to examine every Russian proposal for understanding, to see if it may contain some useful seed. Neither should we become so obsessed with arguing against Russian proposals that we forget to keep presenting constructive proposals of our own.

This fall we proposed specific constructive ideas for the improvement of the United Nations machinery for dealing with international trouble, and we found some of those ideas converted into completed action with astonishing speed. A means has been provided for overriding the Russian veto in dealing with aggression, and the creation of a UN military force is being more seriously considered than ever before. These successes should spur America and the other non-Communist leaders to further positive efforts to assure peace through the UN. Who can tell what else may be achieved if we try?

Acheson's Future

More and more newspaper space is being devoted to future prospects of Dean Acheson, Secretary of State. For the long pull they seem bleak, unless he is fortunate enough to get kicked upstairs.

First reaction of the Republican leadership, after winning considerable public favor at the polls, was that Acheson must go. They had cashed in on Acheson's notorious remark about Alger Hiss and his disastrous Far Eastern policies, and were eager to push their advantage by nailing his scalp to the barn door in sight of all men.

That would have embarrassed the Truman administration because it would have been admission of his top Cabinet man's vulnerability and whetted the appetite of the Republicans for more scalps. But this plan did not take cognizance of President Truman's stubborn loyalty to his appointees.

But there is another factor which may be decisive in shortening Acheson's tenure in his post. It is that the Democrats know Acheson is a load to carry at the polls. They know that in 1952 he could spell the difference between victory and defeat for many a Democrat seeking election to Congress.

The Democrats, who rebelled against Henry Wallace's vice presidential candidacy in 1944, will protest mightily against Acheson being at the helm of foreign affairs in 1952. President Truman might yield by elevating Acheson to the Supreme Court or some other lofty post. But unless Acheson gets all the breaks he will be retired or in another position by 1952.

Prophets And Future

The fact that predictions sometimes influence events was brought out recently by Dr. Julius Hirsch, economist, commenting on the statement from the Department of Agriculture which embodied a forecast of rising food prices for next year. The statement predicted that there would be a greater demand for food as restrictions were placed on other commodities, and that higher prices would automatically follow.

Drawing on his experience as an Office of Price Administration consultant, Dr. Hirsch claimed that the natural result of such a prediction would be a holding back of produce, to take advantage of the expected higher prices. This would help to bring the higher prices. Such a situation would be wholly artificial, Dr. Hirsch claimed, because large surplus stocks exist in all food lines.

There may be a temptation sometimes to think that predictions, like comparisons, are odious, to argue that the columns of figures so laboriously compiled by the statisticians might better be used as measuring sticks for past and present accomplishments and trends, leaving the future in the future. But it is, as it has always been, a part of human nature to want to see what is to come. And if the prophets sometimes yield to the wish to guide the future as well as merely to predict it, that also is no more than human.

Setback In Germany

Socialist election victories in two West German states must be interpreted as a blow to U. S. prestige and a defeat for American policy. The fact that Communists took an even greater beating is little consolation.

The plan to create a new West German army to help Europe defend itself against Soviet attack was not the only issue in the campaign, but it was the one upon which the socialists put the most stress. It must now be assumed that any remilitarization program will encounter stiff popular resistance in the states of Hesse and Wuerttemberg-Baden.

Without taking an active part in the campaigning, U. S. occupation forces had hoped that the conservative Christian Democratic Party, under the leadership of Chancellor Adenauer, would maintain its command. Adenauer has worked in close cooperation with American authorities and has repeatedly urged the Germans to support the rearmament plan. He and his party have now lost their numerical edge in the Wuerttemberg-Baden Parliament and slipped from second to third place in Hesse.

How all these developments will affect the efforts being made to include Germany in the proposed Western European army is anybody's guess. Those who have been predicting from the beginning that the U. S. would supply the troops see nothing in this newest development to cause them to change their prediction.

Those Chinese

In political discussion, as in many other things, we might learn from the Chinese. Chiang Kai-shek's vice-minister of information, Hollington Kong-tong, says in his new book "Dateline: China" that the Chinese dislike loud disputation. They prefer to convey their disapproval by innuendo.

Probably this method gets their point across just as effectively as abuse.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R.Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Parental Attitudes

DURING the last decade psychologists and psychiatrists have had a tendency to link the behavior of children to the attitudes of the parents. At first, only delinquency was traced to the frustrations created thru lack of love and understanding. Then came bed-wetting, thumbsucking, and stuttering, and, finally, psychoneurosis and a host of other nervous disorders. These ideas are theoretical and time will tell whether they represent the views of extremists.

But this modern concept of the parent-child relationship has imposed new responsibilities on mothers and fathers of young tots. After all, it is not unusual to read that the newborn is far from the "mindless creature" we generally believe him to be. His interest extends beyond eating and sleeping; he can sense the feelings of parents, nurse, or sitter. We are told, for example, that the infant knows whether these attendants are in a state of confusion or anxiety by the way he is held; when they clutch him too tightly or loosely, he realizes they are frustrated. But when the baby is held just right he knows that he is loved and appreciated.

I am in no position to state how much stock we can take in such ideas, but am somewhat skeptical about a child becoming a thief, stutterer, or sufferer from nervous indigestion just because his mother had worries, fears, or feelings of inadequacy when he was two months old. But such a state of affairs is more understandable when the child begins to toddle and shows signs of increasing intelligence. Here the attitudes of the parents are more likely to make a greater impression. Failure to give affection and approval robs the child of basic needs and it is easy to understand how the youngster can be started on the wrong path.

Children this age are far from emotional maturity and tend to react unfavorably to the anxieties and fears of their parents. With each succeeding year, susceptibility to their environment affects them more. In addition, as the young child begins to appreciate the sense of right and wrong there always is danger that he will mimic the undesirable traits of those around him. In this respect the child ultimately mirrors the personality of his parents.

• — • — •

If this is all true the future world is in for a beating. After all, this is an insecure era as a result of two major wars, a depression, and changing attitudes in general. The atomic bomb is the new sword of Damocles. But when we go back into history we find that life never was a bed of roses; wars, famines, epidemics, or financial insecurity always plagued the people. A strong nation gets too big for its "britches" and dissipates its wealth and men in trying to maintain its place as a major power. Perhaps the strain on the population is the basic cause of the inevitable downfall of these countries.

It is possible, however, that the effect of social chaos on the individual parent is not as dreadful as we have been led to believe. As a rule, those in their 20s wear rose-colored glasses. Anxiety is not a part of their makeup; they never had much and have little to lose. It is at this time that they are rearing children of the so-called impressionable age. After papa and mama have become better established and more set in their ways, they are likely to rebel against changes because of their concern with the world about them. Their children are now individuals and it is only natural to worry about their future. In other words, nature may be kind in this respect by making life more serene for the parents of infants and young children.

BABY'S BIG APPETITE

Mrs. J. S. writes: What is wrong with an 11 month old baby who eats as much as a child twice his age? He is strong and alert and seems healthy and is not overweight.

REPLY

So long as he is strong and developing normally mentally and physically, be thankful for his good appetite. Children take spurts in growing and eating; next month you might find him a feeding problem.

• — • — •

SENILITY

Mrs. E. writes: My 81 year old mother is irrational at itmes. Then she snaps out of it and is fine for a few days. Does this mean that she is insane?

REPLY

No, merely senile. She probably has hardening of the arteries, including those supplying the brain. This means that at times the brain is not receiving enough nourishment and the result is the behavior you describe. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on hardening of the arteries.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. May Face Another Rubber Shortage; Sen. Connally Helps Korean Doughboys; House Committee Will Tighten Excess Profits Loopholes

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—Communist advances in French Indo-China, Tibet and Asia generally are belatedly waking up some of our foreign-policy planners to what may be another Pearl Harbor.

In brief, the United States, after suffering the worst economic disaster in history when the Japs captured Singapore, may find our rubber, tin, quinine and other tropical products cut off again.

For four years the American people were forced to walk as a result of the rubber and tire shortage. Tin cans were also curtailed; while millions of dollars were spent planting cinchona or quinine trees in Latin America. Now, though we are much better prepared regarding synthetic rubber, part of this may happen all over again.

Chief lesson to be drawn from the Communist threat to our economic lifeline in Asia is the manner in which we have neglected our own best neighbors right next door in Latin America. While a few State department officials under live-wire Assistant Secretary Edward Miller have been pushing Latin-American friendship, actually much of our financial help to European cartels has hurt Latin America.

The American public has largely forgotten the fact that when Columbus arrived in America he was amazed to find Indians bouncing balls. This was the first discovery of rubber, which then became the great industry of Brazil and other Latin-American countries.

Ghost Rubber City

Today, however, Manaos, the rubber capital of Latin America, has become a ghost city—after a Britisher smuggled seeds of the rubber plant to Ceylon.

Gradually the British-Dutch rubber cartel built up its markets in the U.S.A., and once they attained a monopoly position, they put the price squeeze on the American consumer. Despite the vigorous protests of Charles Evans Hughes when secretary of state, we paid what the Asiatic rubber cartel wanted us to and paid through the nose.

After Pearl Harbor we began frantically to encourage our good neighbors in Latin America to grow rubber again. Brazil, Mexico, Ecuador, Costa Rica, Venezuela, Salvador, Nicaragua, Haiti, Honduras all were urged to grow rubber, regardless of the cost. Loud were the cries also: "This will never happen again."

However, it is happening again. In October 1947 American delegates at the Geneva Economic Conference agreed to give up about two-thirds of the American rubber market to Asiatic rubber, chiefly British controlled. This meant two things:

1. The complete collapse of the new rubber industry we had encouraged in Latin America.

2. The closing of various synthetic rubber plants in the U.S.A. Some of these plants, having been closed, later were sold at bargain-rate prices by Surplus Property Administrator Jess Larson, who thought, perhaps correctly, that he was merely following national policy.

Meanwhile, though we are much better off when it comes to synthetic rubber, we would have to have rubber rationing all over again—if war came.

Meanwhile also, communism has been growing at our own front Latin-American door—because of unemployment and curtailed economy.

Helping G.I.'s

Senator "Long Tom" Connally of Texas, in addition to helping steer U. S. foreign policy, is never too busy to fight for the little fellow. He is now about to win an important financial victory for American doughboys in Korea.

On October 21, Senator Connally spotted an item in the Washington Merry-Go-Round which read:

"Under the current army pay system, the real heroes in the Korean war are drawing the least pay. They don't even get a fair share of the glory when the publicity and medals are dished out.

"These unsung heroes are the infantrymen, who form the army's battering ram, but who are not paid as much as the technical men and pencil pushers behind the lines.

"It used to be that infantrymen could collect $10 extra each month for combat work. If they wore the Combat Infantryman's Badge, it was good for a $10 monthly bonus. However, even this has been taken away from them in Korea."

Senator Connally clipped the column and sent it to the army, together with a letter wanting to know why combat men were being discriminated against. He has now received a letter from the Army indicating that it would urge a $50 bonus monthly for combat enlisted men, with $100 a month for officers.

What the Army told Senator Connally in summary follows:

"The Department of the Army recognizes the plight of the infantrymen who in past wars and in the Korean operation have borne the brunt of the fighting. We intend to do everything possible to give the deserved recognition and compensation to those combat fighters upon whom the success of all our military efforts ultimately depends.

"From the standpoint of extra compensation for the combat fighter, the Army has prepared and submitted to the Department of Defense a proposal to ask Congress or extra pay for each month of combat duty in Korea. The Department of Defense has indicated considerable interest and we anticipate early submission of the proposal to Congress."

NOTE — Senator Connally was also among the few who in 1945 protested against removal of the excess-profits war tax. The White House since then has wished that it had followed his advice.

Excess-Profits Loopholes

The House Ways and Means Committee has decided behind closed doors to write a stiff clause in the excess-profits-tax bill to prevent big corporations from "squandering" profits as a means of reducing tax payments.

However, legitimate business expenses will be deductible under a formula proposed by Rep. Herman Eberharter of Pennsylvania whereby expenditures for hotel and travel, advertising and entertainment, would be governed by the amounts spent for these purposes from 1946 through 1949.

In other words, if a corporation spent $100,000 annually for advertising during the 1946-49 period it could deduct no more than that from its excess-profits return. Allowances will be made, however, for shifts from newspaper to costlier radio advertising.

"I was disgusted by some of the tricks used by corporations to escape taxes when we had an excess-profits tax during the last war," GOP Congressman Carl Curtis of Nebraska told his colleagues. "One company sent me expensive brochures that had nothing to do with promoting sales of its product.

"All that costly paper went into the wastebasket at a time when we were up against a war shortage of paper. But the company could deduct this useless expense."

"Another racket by these big fellows is renting hotel rooms the year round, whether they are used or not," objected Michigan Democrat John Dingell, a gadfly of the large comporations. "Some of these big outfits even rent hotel suites on a yearly basis for occasional cocktail parties for congressmen."

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Best Adjusted

"WHY" magazine, a specialist in that branch of human ailments known as modern psychology, issued a questionnaire, probably as a circulation device. This one wants my opinion on who is the best adjusted person. The magazine hired some psychologists who gave them this definition of "best adjusted:"

". . . a man or woman who shows outstanding ability to adjust psychologically to the problems confronting him, and who demonstrates a capacity to derive satisfaction and emotional security from his career and personal life."

The psychologists could have saved themselves their labor and said that the guy they are talking about "gets along." That is obviously what they mean, but as is fashionable these days, the simplest ideas have to be expressed in the most confused terms. For instance, "conspiracy," which is an old and fairly clear concept, is now called "guilt by association ," which gets all tangled up in emotions. Apparently, the psychologists picked this list as a starter: "Truman, MacArthur, Jackie Robinson, Grandma Moses, Robert Young, Esther Williams, Arthur Godfrey, Ed Wynn, Albert Einstein and Helen Keller.

About most of these I know too little to comment. Some are actors and such, about whom I only know from my children. But Harry Truman does not belong to this list; he is too vindictive. Nobody is well-adjusted who hates so hard. He is fighting his own inferiority and it bothers him. So, on that one I would say the psychologists are nuts.

As for the rest, I should have to know too much about them to vote for them. Perhaps on the surface, I should say Grandma Moses would get my vote. Certainly, I should not vote for Albert Einstein, who signs too many petitions and sponsors too many movements. He must be all mixed up.

Now, I, being at heart a man of the sidewalks, know literally thousands of finely adjusted people. They wake up in the morning; shave while trying to sing a tune; eat generally the same breakfast, starting off with orange juice; kiss the wife; instruct the child; and go to work, often meeting the same people on the way.

In bus or car or subway, they pursue their usual course. Often that is the reading of the same newspaper every day. This is done backwards; that is, they turn first to the sports pages; then to the obituaries; then to the comic strips. If there is time, they next read the columnist they trust and believe. Having done all that, if there is still time, they read the news and an editorial. By a process of osmosis, they have taken in all the advertising.

Then their personalities change, enter into a new phrase. That they call their job. The character we saw at home is now very different. If his sex is male, it takes on special facades, often highlighting a shrewdness, sharpness and efficiency never perceived by his family, who wonder how such a softy brings home so much bacon. So he sticks to this role for several hours, with occasional lapses into horseplay, wisecracks, story-telling and excessive imbibing of sugars and starches in various forms.

Then he goes home as he came, with another newspaper which he ready exactly as he did the morning one—with this exception: He sees the headline first. So, he arrives home, turns on radio or television, grabs a snack, horseplays with the frau; she gives him the devil about something; he takes refuge in a magazine and sulks; she makes up to him; they eat. Then stay home, look at television, play gin or canasta or something with another couple; talk on the telephone; horseplay with the children; go to movies; go to a church supper; go to a lodge or union or something. To bed by around 11 after having had a snack or two.

This guy's name is Joe Doakes, Sam Kaplan, Frank Esposito, John Smith, Bill Jones. And his wife's name is Shirley.

In 1948, he voted for Harry Truman; in 1950, he was for Bob Taft. He dislikes Dean Acheson and would vote anti-Russian, anti-British, anti-Europe, if he knew how. He is sore about how the U.S.A. puts up and shuts up.

He is the best adjusted guy in the world.

Defeated Congressmen's Votes Will Be Watched

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—When the American people adopted the Twentieth Amendment to the Consituation, changing Inauguration Day from March 4 to January 20 and stipulating that each new congress shall begin on January 3, the general belief was that so-called "lame duck" sessions would never recur.

But the 81st Congress is meeting now, notwithstanding the fact that nearly 70 of its members either were not renominated or re-elected, and votes will be cast on pending legislation by persons who no longer represent their districts or their states, respectively.

The assumption hitherto has been that no session of Congress would be held betwen the November elections and January 3. There would have been none this year except that a national emergency faces the country, due to the war in the Far East and threats of Communist aggressions in Europe.

Thus, only legislation which has a bearing on the emergency is logical business for the present session. Already intimations have come from Capitol Hill that very little will be done between now and January. The truth is that efforts will be made, just the same, to press to a vote various matters which have nothing to do with the emergency but which will be pushed because the sponsors think they will have a better chance to obtain passage now than in the new Congress.

Spirit Against "Lame Ducks"

The idea that defeated members should hold chairmanships or other important places in the committees that determine the fate of legislation was never contemplated by the authors of the Twentieth Amendment. It is true that the amendment itself could not prohibit or prevent a special session from being called immediately after the November election at which a new Congress is elected but the spirit of the amendment at least would seem to be against any legislative action in which "lame ducks" participate.

In almost every other parliament in the world defeated members lose their seats immediately when they fail of election.

In many instances in the past there were grave abuses of legislative power by members of the House and Senate who were defeated for either renomination or re-election. This was when in December immediately after the November elections the second regular session of Congress started. It lasted until March 4. Many a member of Congress who was angling for an appointment in the executive establishment or perhaps for a good job in private industry or with some of the pressure groups would cast his vote with an eye to his forthcoming livelihood.

Abuse Became Conspicuous

The abuse became so conspicuous that the late Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, Republican, led the fight for the adoption of the lame-duck amendment to the Constitution, and it was successful notwithstanding the fact that it meant moving the historic inauguration day back from early spring to midwinter and despite the fact, too, that a new Congress takes office before a new president is inaugurated.

The present session of Congress may draw attention to new aspects of power wielded by defeated members in allegedly representing areas they really do not any longer represent. The federal laws make it a crime for a president or anyone else in the executive branch of the government to offer any job or anything else of value to any member of Congress in order to influence his vote. It will be interesting to watch the votes of the defeated members.

MATTER OF FACT

By JOSEPH And STEWART ALSOP

The Innocent Sacrifice

WASHINGTON.

AS Congress had now gathered for the Special Session, it grows more and more obvious that the position of Secretary of State Dean G. Atcheson has become all but impossible.

The world situation has deteriorated to the point where the problem before Congress may be described as the simple survival of the United States. Yet the Senators and Representatives, in their present mood will not even discuss the problem in a rational manner. And they will certainly refuse to vote the great measures on which national survival now depends, so long as Dean Acheson is at the State Department.

In this situation borrowed from a nightmare, many leading Democrats have already pressed President Truman to find a new Secretary of State who can deal with the Congress on more reasonable terms. Thus far, however, the President has answered that he would never ask for Acheson's resignation. And he added that Acheson is the victim of the foreign and defense policy the world situation has forced him to sponsor; and that any other man who presented the same policy would soon be in the same water on Capitol Hill.

The Truman argument implies that the Congress and the country are incapable of understanding the peril we are in. In that case, the end is not far off. In fact, however, this is not the cause of the fate that has overtaken Dean Acheson. He is really the victim of President Truman himself.

What Might Have Been

What has happened to Acheson was all too clearly suggested by his experience at the Governor's Conference last spring. With considerable difficulty, Thomas E. Dewey secured a serious hearing for Acheson from his hostile fellow-governors. For four gruelling hours, the Secretary described the menace of Soviet imperialism in all its grim detail. At the close, Governor Luther Youngdahl of Minnesota reportedly summed up the general reaction with the remark:

"Well, what Secretary Acheson has been telling us certainly makes what Senator McCarthy has been talking about look like pretty small potatoes."

Here is the clew to what might have been. If the Truman administration, from 1948 onwards, had used the same frankness with the American people as Acheson used with the governors, the popular response would have been like Governor Youngdahl's. Instead, in this crucial period, the President took as his motto his own oft-repeated phrase, "everything is going to be all right." Many dreadful warnings that everything was going to be all wrong were cheerily ignored.

The tragic period of our policy making reached its climax last winter and spring. Acheson himself finally began to speak out truthfully about the world crisis. But almost every time Acheson made one of his doom-filled speeches, the President told his next press conference that the outlook for peace "had never been better," and Louis A. Johnson followed up with some more "defense economies."

Has Become The Scapegoat

Acheson himself also took the lead in formulating the famous Security Council directive No. 69, acknowledging the increasing menace of the world crisis, and calling for much greater American efforts to create "situations of strength" in the free world. But the ink was hardly dry on this paper, before it became clear that nothing much was going to be done about it. Only the Kremlin's miscalculation in Korea rescued us from this cataleptic torpor, which would certainly have led to total catastrophe.

Long before Korea, meanwhile, the American people instinctively perceived everything was not going all right. They grew deeply uneasy. Their uneasiness was shrewdly exploited by Senator McCarthy and his allies. And Acheson particularly exposed himself to attack, by his unexpected but extreme maladroitness in dealing with Congress and the public. (This derived, one suspects, from Acheson's own inner sense of being in a false position, as a Secretary of State knowing that national survival demanded much greater national efforts, but unable to convince his chief and his colleagues).

The outcome is shockingly unjust. The only high official who was consistently on the right side and has become the accidental scapegoat for the Administration's inadequacies. Unfortunately, however, the practical fact must be faced. The Truman administration is now like the troika in the old Russian folk tales. The way has been lost in the forest. The horses are tired. The wolves are snapping at the traces. The driver must toss his baby to the wolves, or the whole equipage will be lost. Dean Acheson is the baby, the innocent sacrifice that must in the end be made.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—THE PASSING SHOW:

One aspect of the endlessly incredible A-bomb story that may never be told, even by an A-spy, is what lay in the mind of Joe Stalin at the Potsdam conference, the day after we proved at Alamagordo, N. Mex., that the fantastic weapon worked.

The word had come to the late Henry L. Stimson, then our secretary of war, in a pre-arranged code. It was in the form of a message reading, "Baby boy born today mother and child doing well."

The non-com who decoded and delivered it, without knowing its meaning, expressed a wish to a Stimson aide that Mrs. Stimson and the baby would thrive. (Mrs. Stimson was a very old lady at the time.)

The American delegation at Potsdam (this was July, 1945) now knew we had in our possession an instrument so appalling that it would end the war against Japan. And this being a time of much palsy-walsiness between our side and the Russians, we probably would have told all—if prompted. We might have given away the whole process, or A-bombs themselves, as an inducement to persuade Russia to enter the war against Japan.

Stalin, by an excruciating coincidence, was chairman of the next day's meeting of the Big Three. An item on the day's agenda went something like this: "Atomic energy, progress in." But when Joe got to that item he said through his interpreter, "We will let this pass and go on to the next item."

Had his spies in our atomic setup told him, and was he waiting for us to do the talking? Had his own progress in A-bomb building reached such a point at that time that he chose to keep us from knowing how far along it was?

Or did he pull one of the prize skulls of history? If he had known about the success of the New Mexico test, he would also probably have known that we planned to drop one on Japan as quickly as possible. Then why did he wait until after we dropped it on Hiroshima, in the fading few days of the war, before sending the Red army against Japan in order to get in on such spoils as were offered?

During the late war a lieutenant colonel named Tom Paradine was stationed at the Los Angeles port of embarkation, and one of his jobs was to ship countless fighting men and mountains or armor into war. Now he's in a happier export job.

Paradine, a past commander of the Schenley Post No. 1190 of the American Legion is national director of the Legion's "Tide of Toys." His goal this year is to send 10,000,000 gifts to needy youngsters throughout the world. American Legion posts in every city in this country act as collection headquarters for the campaign—and they will be distributed on the other end by CARE, Inc.

Paradine suggests that each child who gives up an old or new toy (toy guns, soldiers, tanks, etc., are not allowed) attach a personal note to it—for the kid who gets it overseas.

It could make for a better world. Bing Crosby is one who thinks so. He's the honorary national chairman of "Tide of Toys."

•—•—•

From Hotelman Conrad Hilton's vigorous speech, after receiving the annual award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews at the Waldorf:

"We have broken faith with those who fought and died for freedom and who warned us 'if you break faith with us who die we shall not sleep.'

"If we believe what they said, we here tonight know that these boys do not sleep in peace, and we also know that we do not live in peace—and why? Because when the boys had won their victories at arms we permitted the forces of hate, injustice and appeasement to take the victories from them.

"Across the world the boys of two wars have been betrayed. And in solemn truth I say to you, if we allow the forces of evil to refashion the world to their image and likeness, if we let hate, injustice and appeasement guide us during these next few years, if we break faith, we shall never live in peace again."

Ex-Red Capital Provides Test For UN In Korea

By WILLIAM JORDEN

PYONGYANG, Korea — (AP) — Imagine Dallas, or Denver, or Detroit without a city government, without water or electricity, with half its population fled.

Take away most of the factory managers, doctors, teachers, engineers, police and firemen. Close all the banks and remove most of the money. Hide or destroy most of the food stores.

That was the plight of this former Communist capital of North Korea on the day it fell. A handful of United Nations advisors, most of them American Army officers, are working day and night to put the city back on its feet.

The success or failure of this stopgap U. N. effort may color the attitude of hundreds of thousands of North Koreans toward future U. N. moves. Thus far the citizens of Pyongyang are inclined to view the U. N. with hope, the Americans with nervous gratitude and the South Koreans with deep distrust.

Here is what Pyongyang's interim city government has given the townspeople so far:

Public safety—A police force of 1,600 men, 700 of them armed; a police training school and the nucleus of a fire department.

Utilities—Available 24 hours a day in East Pyongyang; four hours a day in West Pyongyang. Electricity at two airstrips and water filtration plants.

Supply—A steady supply of food, thus far, from a 10-day stockpile which is kept under guard.

Finance — A fairly stable price level pegged to the average wage. Prices are maintained by police supervision and warning.

Transportation — 30 city-owned barges and five street cars, ready to operate when power becomes available; 20 trucks, about half of them operable.

Labor—Employment for thousands of civilians, mostly laborers, on military and municipal projects.

Public health—Five hospitals in operation and plans under way for medical examination of refugees and control of disease.

Even those modest achievements seem nearly miraculous to observers who see the obstacles which had to be overcome. But a great deal remains to be done if mass discontent and hardships are to be lessened in the winter months ahead.

Civil assistance officers say their most pressing problems are directly caused by the large number of unauthorized South Korean army and civilian personnel who have flocked into Pyongyang to reap a rich harvest.

The food situation is not considered serious now. But the civil assistance officer handling supply, Capt. Malcolm D. Brannen, Greenville, S. C., warns that unless additional stocks are stored quickly a great many people will go hungry.

There are two main reasons why food is not being put in warehouses: The shortage of transportation to gather available stocks and the shipment of rice to Seoul. It can be sold in the south for five times the Pyongyang market price.

Transportation is scarce because of the number of vehicles confiscated by the Communists and either lost during the fighting or taken north. There is a fuel shortage too. But Transportation Officer Capt. Louis L. Toth, Columbia, S. C., put his finger on the reason why the Pyongyang city government hesitates to put even the trucks it has on the road.

Laborador retrievers were found to be especially adept at scenting out land mines during the war.

Spirit Blamed In Deaths

YINH LIET, Sudan—(AP)—Residents of this Bahr el Ghazal Province village blame the Jakunuan—the spirit of the water that lives on human blood—for the death by drowning of a number of young girls.

Less imaginative informants say, however, the girls drowned because they misjudged the depth of a pond.

STARVATION DIETS BEING A THING OF THE PAST, THE MODERN WOMAN LOSES HER POUNDAGE ENJOYABLY

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Starvation diets are a thing of the past. Modern woman chooses a diet which improves her looks and disposition and gives her increased vigor as she concentrates on losing pounds.

Every reducing book stresses the need for vitamins in the foods we eat while dieting. Black coffee and crackers may get you down to skeleton proportions, if that is what you want, but you'll pay for exhausting your body eventually.

The most effective reducing program begins with a day or two of liquid diet. As a matter of fact, fruit nectars, milk drinks and vitamin-full health cocktails can be turned out in 15 seconds to one minute with an electric blender which can crush carrots, tomatoes, spinach and fruits into healthful rich juice.

Milk can be made palatable in 20 seconds by whipping it with a banana. Use a medium-size banana to one cup of milk and combine one cup of finely cracked ice. Blended together, it is a delectable drink.

A special vitamin-packed health cocktail combines ⅔ cup of sauerkraut juice, ¼ cup of parsley, 1 medium-size tomato, ¼ cup celery leaves. This also is a delightful change from watered-down broth and weak tea, dieters find.

The advantage of these blenders, in many instances, is that often a necessary food can be disguised with other nutrients. Liver really can be taken quite easily—even raw—when combined with tomato juice, pineapple juice, milk, consomme or broth. A cup of diced raw liver mixed with any of these liquids will produce a tasty drink without the slightest suspicion of a liver taste.

If you run out of ideas for mixing vegetables to produce drinks, there are a number of beauty and health books which can be referred to for suggestions. Gaylord Hauser's "Look Younger, Live Longer" stresses the need for vitamins and offers many suggestions for healthful vegetable and fruit cocktails.

A delightful vegetable juice cocktail can be made by mixing carrots, spinach, celery, cucumber, tomatoes and a little water cress together in just the right amounts to achieve a tangy flavor. It depends on what you consider a taste treat. Experiment with different proportions of vegetables until you find a formula that is particularly palatable.

Once you get interested in liquids, you will enjoy mixing these concoctions, and dieting will become fun instead of a chore.

Paraguay is about the size of California.

Will you be fatigued and drooping for Christmas parties? Or fresh, sparkling and ready for fun?

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

THE simplest way to combat the fatigue that robs the holiday festivities of their expected pleasure is to prevent it before it starts. Enjoyment will be yours if you begin right now to follow an anti-fatigue campaign.

If you want to rush through myriad tasks and scramble on countless rounds, yet be fresh and gay for the season's parties, teach yourself breath control. One of the big secrets of a tireless, nerve-free body and mind lies in deep, natural breathing.

It's All In Breathing

Why? Because deep breathing improves the poor posture that leds to body fatigue. You can't slouch or slump when you are filling your lungs to their capacity! Furthermore, you automatically supply your muscle tissues with the increased oxygen that is necessary for sustained physical vitality. And you'll discover that nervous tension diminishes almost magically as your physical fatigue is lessened. Want to know how to achieve these coveted results? This is what you do:

1. Place your hands on your lower ribs so you can feel the expansion and contraction of your rib cage as you breathe. Inhale deeply and steadily for a count of four. Be sure to keep your shoulders relaxed and your chest elevated all the while. Now, slowly exhale to a count of four.

What happened? Did your chest heave up and down? If so, you're on the wrong track. The only movement that should have occurred in your entire torso was the expansion and contraction of your lower ribs. To correct your breathing, practice to a rhythmic count of four until expansion and contraction occur in the right place. Now is the time!

Find the Trick

2. Here's an exercise to help you transfer your rhythmical breathing into everyday movements. Lie on your back with your legs straight, your arms at your sides and inhale. Raise the right leg up in a 40-5° angle to the floor and simultaneously swing both arms up and back over your head to the floor. As you do this exhale hard. Then, lower your arms and leg to the floor as you inhale deeply. Repeat with the opposite leg.

Now, did you find the trick in this exercise? Your inhalations and exhalations are exactly opposite to what they would be if you were not concentrating. That's what's good for you: You have to think about your breath control if you want to put it to work to combat fatigue!

Tomorrow: Are you a friendly person?

MRS. ANNE Archbold, one of the many Merry Widows of Washington, and one of the great personalities of the world, has taken up a new sport . . . Over 70 and still a non-conformist, Standard Oil heiress Anne has tried about everything . . . Including sailing a Chinese junk, or river boat, around the oceans of the world . . . Also subsidizing numerous other expeditions in the interests of science, or whatever struck her unpredictable fancy.

But the forceful, gray-haired lady, who owns a vast estate along Georgetown's Gold Coast (almost as valuable as the lands where papa struck it rich in oil) has lately taken up wrestling! . . . An avid devotee of the wrestling matches, she sits up, ram-rod straight, never missing a trick, out at Turner's Arena every Wednesday night . . . Her crackling black eyes under heavy brows study every contortion the big lugs twist themselves into . . . And she enjoys discussing the finer points with her constant escort, George Coulon, the former collegiate heavyweight, now pushing past his 50's.

AUSTINE

Another absolutely-ageless-but-still-going-strong oldster, Robert Lincoln O'Brien commanded attention the other day . . . He dominated the meetings of two organizations—the Washington Literary Society and the Gridiron Club . . . A Gridiron member since 1899, O'Brien joined the newsmen's club when he was secretary to President Cleveland. . . . He often jokes about how the White House staff then consisted of seven, plus three messenger boys.

Now the White House employs over 1,000 people.

O'Brien says "I knew when I left they'd need more than one man to fill my shoes."

He chuckles, too, over the thrill of inserting one word in a speech of Cleveland's about tariffs . . . Stuck in the word "high" and the President let it remain.

"Today it's different," observes O'Brien. "With all the secretaries and ghost writers doing speeches, I suppose the President would be very proud if he inserted one word and they let it stay."

Now that Thanksgiving is over you can entertain the family with a short turkey talk.

If the family won't listen, and they seldom do, you can just tell yourself how well informed you are.

For an intellecutual feast I have gathered some turkey stuff (not stuffing) from Washington's naturalists . . . And we have quite a colony here.

Probably the country's best-known ornithologist, Roger Torey Peterson, (his field guide books on birds made bird-watching easier and pleasanter for thousands of American nature lovers) consented to talk turkeys with me . . . He also suggested I telephone his friend, John Aldrich, who has completed many a paper, treatise, manuscript, pamphlet and book on the turkey . . . And here's some bits I picked up:

'Twas not the Pilgrim Fathers celebrating the first Thanksgiving who found out that turkey was a tasty bird!

Many years before the Pilgrims landed, turkeys had been raised in Spain, France and England . . . When Cortez went to Mexico, around 1530, he found the turkeydomesticated by Indians . . . Shortly afterwards Jesuit priests took crates of turkeys back to Spain.

The turkey you enjoyed Thanksgiving Day and the native American wild turkey hybridize readily . . . Showing they belong to the same family . . .

An easy mark for the hunter, native wild turkeys, rigidly protected by game laws, aren't near extinction.

Army Lieutenant In Germany Receives Estate Of $13,000 By The Will Of A Woman Who Never Knew He Existed

A young Army lieutenant serving in Germany is $13,000 richer today thanks to a woman who never met him, saw him or even knew he existed.

The lucky lieutenant is Frank C. Boerger. He was awarded the money because of an odd provision in the will of the late Janet Buchanan Grover, who died in 1946.

In her will, Miss Grover directed that a tenth of her estate—slightly more than $13,000—be given to a military Academy cadet of the class following her death. The cadet was to be chosen on the basis of "character, ability and willingness to serve his country."

The award was made in honor of Gen. Cuvier Grover, her grandfather, who fought in the Civil War and is buried on the West Point Grounds.

When West Point officials learned of the bequest, they began to scan the roster of the class of 1947 to pick the man they would hand $13,000.

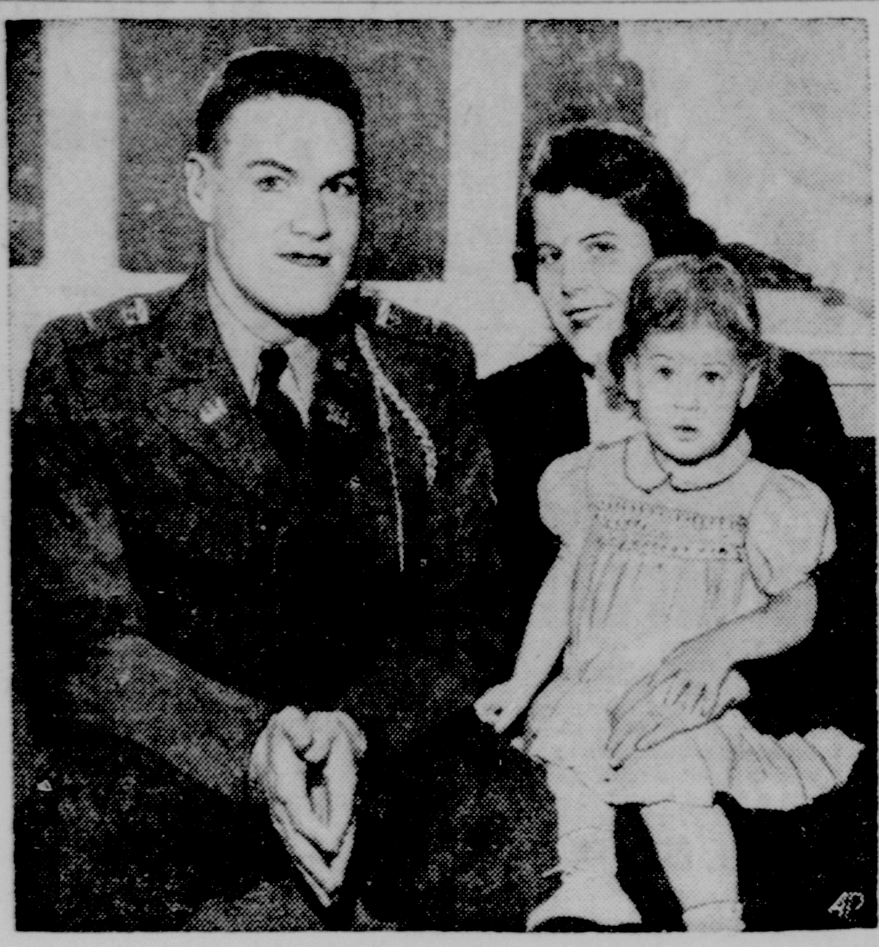
It wasn't easy.

Because it took a couple of years to probate the will, settle some fine legal questions and handle a few small bequests it wasn't until 1948 that West Point brass began to pick their man. By that time, the class of 1947 was scattered over the world.

Maj. Gen. Bryant E. Moore, Academy superintendent, asked members of the class to nominate men who filled the requirements. When the names were compiled the Superintendent, as directed in the will, called together a committee of three composed of himself, the cadet first captain of the '47 class and the cadet adjutant of '47.

The committee went over the names. High on the list was Lt. William J. Schuder, who had been cadet first captain.

In the initial ballot, Lt. Schuder drew one vote. By voting for himself Schuder could have gained the necessary two votes, and the $13,000. Instead, he campaigned actively for another candidate.



AP

Eventually the list was narrowed and a check was made of the remaining names to see how they are faring in their Army careers. ("willingness to serve his country" being one of the will provisions.)

Finally, a scoring system was devised, rating each of the remaining men on the qualifications. The name of the winner, says Superintendent Moore, "simply jumped up when we totalled the points."

In Darmstadt, Germany, where he has served for two years with the First Engineers Battalion, Lt. Boerger says he is not going to let the money interfere with his Army career.

"I'm going to save that money to educate my children," he said. "I had always planned to serve in the Army and this won't change my plans a bit."

Boerger, 28, grew up in Milbanks, S. D. His wife is from Morris, Minn., and they have a two-year-old daughter. The family lives in a comfortable little house in the American military community in Darmstadt.

At West Point, Boerger ranked No. 2 in general excellence in the class of 310, and No. 2 in military rating. His brother, Phillip, was a classmate, and stood third militarily and 41st in general excellence. Frank was cadet commander of the first regiment of the corps. His brother commanded the second regiment.

Miss Grover, last surviving child of her parents, came from a long line of military men. Her family came to Massachusetts in 1642, and she says in her will, her "forbears... for the last 300 years have given their lives for, or spent their lives in, the service of this country."

She got her money by inheritance from her parents and other relatives. She spent much of her early life in Washington and her later life in Europe, chiefly Rome. She was 64 when she died.

Gen. Cuvier Grover, in whose honor the award was made, was a member of the West Point Class of 1850, standing fourth in the class of 44 men. His commission as a brigadier general was signed by Abraham Lincoln in 1862 and he was wounded at Cedar Creek during the Civil War. He died in 1885 at the age of 57.

Miss Grover presented the rest of her considerable estate to churches, charitable organizations in Italy and America, hospitals and homes for the aged. She also awarded $13,000 to the former Queen of Italy to be given to a worthy Italian charity.

Farmers Want Arms

RANGOON—(AP)—Farmers in the Hanthawaddy district, 70 miles north of Rangoon, want to be armed because their ricefields are in areas surrounded by rebels and bandits. They decided at a mass meeting to ask the Burmese government to give them guns and ammunition.

Boxcars stretching from New York to within 50 miles of Chicago would be needed to carry the weight displaced by the 400 ships of the UN naval force in Korean waters.

Trolley Wire Is Stolen At Barton

The theft of 2,000 feet of trolley wire at a Barton area mine yesterday marked the fifth time in the past few months that the Hampshire Mine of the Campbell Coal Company has been subject to fires and burglaries.

George D. Campbell, owner of the union-operated diggings on Route 36 just south of Barton, said footprints in the snow indicated that three men last night cut down the 2,000 feet of wire from its poles and cross bars.

No trace of the wire was found, Campbell reported. He said this is the third time wire has been stolen from the trolley poles, — the first time 400 feet was missing and the second, 750.

October 23 a fanhouse at the mine was destroyed by fire termed by authorities as being of incendiary origin. A week later another fanhouse was leveled by flames of the same origin.

The sheriff's office received word of the theft at 10 a.m. and Sheriff Edward R. Muir dispatched Deputies William Chappell and William Orr to the scene.

Campbell was of the opinion that the thieves cut the wire off the hangars and slid it down the hill over the snow. The trolley line extends from near Route 36 up a hill to a plain and then branches north an south.

The incident marks the continuance of a number of acts of violence and thefts among the coal mines in the George's Creek section. No arrests have been made.

From the beginning of the Korean conflict until October 27, 21,576 patients were evacuated by air from Korea and southern Japan to the Tokyo area.

Two U. S. Navy frigates, among 27 loaned to Russia during World War II, now are being used by the Republic of Korea Navy.

South End Merchants Plan Yule Decorations On Avenue

Will Light Christmas Tree On Race Street

Virginia Avenue will have illuminated laurel strand Christmas decorations this year for the first time in more than 20 years.

The South End Business Men's Association has announced lighted strands will be turned on by the end of the week. An order has been placed with the Potomac Edison Company which has informed the group it would begin placing strands in position today barring any change in the weather which would put an added burden on its crews.

The strands will cover Virginia Avenue from Boone Street to Laing Avenue.

Canvass Nets Funds

Money for the program was raised by a store-to-store canvass on Virginia Avenue and through a contribution from the association's funds. A total of $1,000 was obtained, George Millenson, chairman of the decorations committee, said.

The association, organized two years ago, has as its purpose the stimulating interest and pride in the community through the creation of better facilities, Millenson said.

Sponsoring a Christmas program for the second-straight year, the association has endeavored to give the South End a part in other such observances, he added.

The decorations will include laurel and stars which were used last year in addition to the new, varied-colored light bulbs.

The association is making a special plea to merchants along Virginia Avenue to decorate their display windows in harmony with the street plan.

Signs To Be Extinguished

To give added emphasis to street lighting, merchants are also requested to extinguish neon advertising signs after 9 p. m. during the time the street decorations are used

As last year, the association will also sponsor the erection of a lighted Christmas tree on Race street The tree will be dedicated Tuesday, December 5. Plans call for a tree 15 to 18 feet tall.

Mrs. Karl M. Lehman and A. J Saliga, association members, are in charge of arrangements for the tree and program, details of which will be announced later.

The night the tree is dedicated will also mark a visit of "Santa Claus" to the South End.

Virginia probably boasts more wild turkeys than any other state.

And the experts, both Mr. Peterson and Mr. Aldrich, who, incidentally, had Thanksgiving dinner together, heartily agreed that:

No matter how you slice it, turkey is pretty good eating.

Speaking of poultry—Sen. Scott Lucas, now a lame duck, actually did break down and cry election night after his defeat and still feels the Administration has let him down.

Though he has already told confidantes he will open a law office here and stack up some cash, Lucas may yet get a better consoling reason to dry his tears.

If Pres. Truman approves "The Fire Brannan Plan," and Secretary Brannan does resign, then tall, dark dapper, good poker-player Scott Lucas may bow into the Cabinet.

The ex-majority leader, a veteran of the Agricultural Committee, isn't, however, counting his Agricultural chickens before they hatch . . . It's dobutful if he'd accept a judgeship in Illinois for a few thousand a year when he could make a mint in private practice.

P.S. Now, no matter what he does, I think I'm pretty well covered!

Collects Ethiopian Seeds

ADDIS ABABA (AP)—Dr. W. Andrew Archer, plant explorer for the U. S. Department of Agriculture, is collecting seeds of Ethiopia's main agricultural crops on a field safari in the interior. He is chiefly interested in Ethiopia's grain crops, especially barley.

He said specimens of the seed collected will be sent to agricultural colleges and agronomists in the United States for experimental purposes.

He said certain types of wild olives, wild dates and wild lemons are found only in Ethiopia.

Judge J. D. Mish Is To Resume Court Duties

After having been ill since September, Chief Judge Joseph D. Mish, of Hagerstown, is expected to resume some of his court duties within the next week or so.

Judge Mish visited the Court House in Hagerstown recently for the first time since suffering a heart attack. He had been a patient in Washington County Hospital. During his Court House visit he announced plans to return to the bench.

Associate Judge George Henderson who has been handling the bulk of court matters during Judge Mish's absence, commented in Washington county last week that the heavy load of non-support cases before the Circuit Court was one of the causes for Judge Mish's illness.

Jury Urges Corrections

Judge Henderson made his comment after receiving the Washington County grand jury report which strongly urged correction of what it calls weaknesses that exist in the Juvenile Court system.

The grand jury recommended that laws be passed to strengthen and broaden the authority of the Juvenile Court. This would take a lot of pressure off the Circuit Court and off the grand jury, both of which now spend most of their time handling non-support cases.

For some time a plan has been under consideration here to give the Juvenile Court original authority in all non-support cases instead of having to take such matters into the higher Circuit Court for final action.

In fact, a bill was introduced in the General Assembly by Senator D. Kenneth McLaughlin, of Washington County, two years ago to correct the situation. But the bill was vetoed by Governor Lane. Last year McLaughlin introduced a similar bill and it got lost in the last-minute adjournment shuffle.

Senator McLaughlin says he will introduce the bill again in January.

Transit Lines Boost Service To South End

The bad weather and Christmas shopping has resulted in the Cumberland Transit Lines starting service every ten minutes to South End.

Pfc. Wade Paugh Released By Reds

Among 29 American prisoners released by Chinese Communists in North Korea last Friday was Pfc. Wade M. Paugh, son of Mrs. Agnes Leona Paugh, Route 3, Swanton, who had been serving with the 25th Infantry Division, according to a casualty list of the Department of Defense.

The 29 ex-prisoners are in various U. S. Army hospitals.

Military authorities reported the group believed their captors tried to make "Fifth Column" out of them. All were given Red indoctrination lectures which assailed American political and military leaders.

County Leader Criticizes Snow Clearing

A Roads Department foreman was criticized yesterday by County Commissioner William H. Lemmert for failing to clear county roads in the eastern section of the county over the weekend.

Lemmert made his remarks at a meeting of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners to County Engineer John J. Smith. He told Smith the foreman used poor judgement in not being ready for snow removal and failing to utilize a grader, which was left standing on top of a mountain road in the Green Ridge section.

Lemmert said he received a number of complaints from residents of that area and that school buses, mail delivery vehicles, farmers and other residents were unable to travel on the roads due to the heavy snow and sleet storm.

It was also decided by Lemmert and Commissioner James Holmes to place a night mechanic and helper on duty at the warehouse during the winter months.

County Engineer Smith was ordered to attend to this matter. It was pointed out that trucks which need repairs may be made ready for use the next day by the night mechanic and his helper. This will avoid tieing up men and equipment.

Both Lemmert and Holmes also informed Smith that during periods of snow, the men should be used only as necessary with the force being rotated. It is costly to have men on duty when there is no work available, they pointed out.

Snow removal work over the week end cost more than $1,000. Lemmert said this can be expected, but he emphasized that the situation in the eastern section of the county was deplorable. Some action was indicated to prevent another occurrence of this nature.

In the four-month period ended October 28, UN naval forces destroyed 78 aircraft, 253 artillery positions, 424 military buildings and innumerable other military targets.

Cuban And American Scientists Gather Gulf Stream Information

MIAMI — (INS) — Cuban and American scientists are pressing an oceanic investigation today which was begun 468 years ago by Christopher Columbus and picked up again 300 years later by Benjamin Franklin.

The well-organized scientific research project will give the world as much information as the oceanographers conducting it can discover about the Gulf Stream and its baffling course.

Columbus, the first man to record the existence of the stream, did not learn much more than the fact that it was warm and it flowed.

Franklin saw the same thing and wondered why. Since the wise old American man of letters posed the question, scientists have picked up a little more information, but they still have not answered it.

Today, an international team made up of Cuban navy scientists and oceanographers from the University of Miami is sailing around the stream in a converted Cuban gunboat gathering more information than Columbus or Franklin dreamed was possible.

What the scientists learn may make weather predicting in the southern United States and much of Western Europe easier. It also will serve as a boon to the men who navigate the Atlantic and fish in its waters.

Dr. F. G. Walton Smith, head of the University of Miami's marine laboratory, explained that one of the things the team will check is what makes the stream push between 20 and 30 million tons of water each second through the Florida straits.

The expedition, which includes three University of Miami scientists, is under the direction of Dr. Luis Howell Rivero, oceanographer for the Cuban navy.

Dr. Rivero has some 50 men with him aboard the Cuban ship Yara, gathering samples of water and sea life from the Gulf Stream and recording its flow.

Dr. Smith, who will publish a joint report on the expedition with the Cuban government, said the study should bear out a generally accepted theory that the stream is pushed along by trade winds.

The team of experts will make detailed recordings of the current in an effort to discover what causes the Gulf Stream's fluctuations and if those changes in flow can be charted.

In order to carry out the research, Dr. Rivero and his colleagues must have ideal weather conditions. For this reason, they have no idea how long the study will take.

When it is completed, however, the findings of the group will be tied in with other research on the stream's movement and made available to the navy and any other seagoing group which needs it.

France To Cause No. 1 Headache In Rearming Europe

PARIS—(AP)—To arm Europe is going to cost the United States a lot more money, a lot more time, and a lot more headaches.

And the biggest cause of all these will be France—unless you include Russia.

The blame for all this?

A solid packet of it must be laid on the doorsteps of the United States itself. But not all.

Equally, however, it should be stated that the European rearmament program in America snapped into being the way the rearmament program in America snapped into being under the whiplash of the Korean conflict.

Here we are, five months after the beginning of the "great scare" in Korea, and not a great deal of rearmament has been accomplished in Europe.

The "why" of this doesn't find an easy answer. There are some explanations—but there is no quick solution. In Europe, things go slowly.

America, for one thing, sees only one foe. That is Russia and Communism. Europe sees other foes and other problems. The mere declaration by America that the combination of Russia and Communism is the worst foe and most urgently to be dealt with is not wholly convincing to Europeans. They won't act on the whiplash that stirred America. That is discouraging to Americans, but it is a hard fact which Americans must face.

The hard fact is that the French population, by and large, doesn't care two whoops about the Russian Menace. This is a tired population and the average Frenchman is more concerned about improving his very bad living standard than about building up armies.

Comes the big question: Is Europe the danger spot for America to help protect as a bulwark against Russia? The acts of Russia and its friends seem to give the answer. Communists everywhere in Europe are trying to prevent rearmament here. They don't mince words explaining why. It is because rearmament is a menace to Russia and Russian policy. And Russia, through its friends in the Orient, is working cleverly to thwart Western rearmament. There they are fighting a cheap and wasting war against the West. Nearly half of France's fighting money goes to carry on the war in Indochina. Some 5,000 guerrillas are tieing up an estimated 30,000 troops under British command in Malaya. The war in Korea has pinned down almost the whole of America's available striking force.

Only recently have the Dutch been able to reduce their forces in Indonesia, and China seems obligingly ready to help keep the drains open.

Brooklyn Gets Breukelen Thanks

BROOKLYN, N. Y. (AP)—Breukelen, Holland, has just exchanged new bulbs for old clothes with Brooklyn, U.S.A. The Associated Bulb Growers of Holland have shipped a case of choice tulip bulbs to the children of Brooklyn schools as a "thank you" for their aid to Breukelen.

In 1948, cooperating with the "Brooklyn Adopts Breukelen Project," they collected and sent over 1,000 cartons filled with needed clothes and food to the little town from which Brooklyn gets its name. The bulbs will be planted in the Brooklyn Botanic Gardens this month in a special section set aside for them.

Ghost Hunter Declares He's Still Chilled By Apparitions

EWELL, Eng. — (INS) — George Hurlock, who claims a nodding acquaintance with the best-known ghosts in Britain, never quite has become used to meeting apparitions face-to-face.

Hurlock, who is a "gentlemen's outfitter" by day and a ghost-hunter by night, said of the encounters:

"Everything in you turns to ice and you freeze."

Despite this uncomfortable feeling, Hurlock has lost the "scary" feeling he used to have.

But he turns angry when you so much as mention his pet "hate"—fake ghosts.

Hurlock says he has developed a "certain chemical," of undisclosed ingredients, which permits him to detect a fake "instantly."

He adds:

"And no one is harder to convince and more skeptical than myself concerning such things."

His first experience after becoming a ghost hunter was not a particular success.

Hurlock explained:

"After climbing a haystack at midnight, I tread on a soft jelly-like substance but from the awful language emanating from it, concluded it was a tramp's face and not a ghost."

One experience which still chills him is his meeting with a ghost on the stairs of Dunheved House in Croydon, a London suburb.

He said:

"I heard its animal grunting, smelled its awful stench and felt its ice blasts like a gorilla breathing over me."

Undismayed, Hurlock returned to his labors, hopeful of meeting more companionable apparitions.

The Guarani Indians are natives of Paraguay.

Nearly 500,000 magazines were distributed to American soldiers in Korea during the four-month period ended November 11, according to figures compiled by Special Services Section, GHQ, Far East Command.

Washington And Lee Accepts Invite To Play In Gator Bowl

Four Colleges Considered As Generals' Foe

Southern Conference Champions' Opponent Will Be Named Today

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP) — Washington and Lee, 1950 football champion of the Southern Conference, was named tonight to play in the Gator Bowl game here Jan. 1.

An opponent will be named tomorrow. It probably will be Wyoming, Tulsa, Nebraska or Wake Forest, all considered by the committee.

Washington and Lee won six straight conference games to edge Orange bowl-bound Clemson for the Southern Conference title. The Generals finished with an 8-2 season record. Tennessee beat Washington and Lee, 27-20, and Virginia did it, 26-21.

Ranked 18th in the final Associated Press poll of the season, Washington and Lee operates from the split-t formation. Coach George Barclay, All-America at North Carolina in 1934, is in his second year as head man at Washington and Lee.

Gator Bowl Selection Chairman Edgar Jones announced the Southern champs' acceptance after talking by phone with Dick Smith, W. and L. athletic director.

"We're very happy to obtain the Southern Conference champs as one of our teams," Jones said.

It is the second time the Southern Conference champion comes to the Gator Bowl. Clemson won the conference crown in 1948 and beat Missouri in the 1949 Gator Bowl game.

The selection also keeps a Southern Conference team in the Gator Bowl, a record that extends through all five previous games. Maryland of the Southern Conference won over Missouri last year.

South Carolina and Wake Forest, both of the Southern, met in the first Gator Bowl game New Year's Day 1947, Wake Forest winning. North Carolina State of the Southern lost to Oklahoma next year. Maryland played a tie with Georgia in 1949.

Wes Abrams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley H. Abrams, 310 Piedmont Avenue, is a member of the Washington and Lee varsity football team and plays a backfield position for the Generals. He is a graduate of Allegany High School where he starred in football.

New Deal Asked By Bowie Track

O'Hara Wants 25 Days At Continuous Meet

BOWIE, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — Before this year's racing is even over, the Bowie management today announced it will demand another new deal in Maryland's horse dates for 1951.

Bowie will ask that its 25 days be at one continuous session in November, General Manager E. O'Hara announced.

This would be something new at the 36-year-old track and also a departure from any recent operation at any of Maryland's four major tracks. All had split meetings this year.

Up until this year, Bowie had opened the 100 day Maryland season in the spring and closed it in the fall. In a scramble to lighten competition from New Jersey all around, Bowie this year gave up its spring dates and ran a financially poor autumn meeting. It will close its current 13-day season Saturday.

O'Hara said Bowie lost $280,000 in revenue during its earlier meeting.

He said that if the Maryland Racing Commission disapproves 25 straight days Bowie then will ask for its old spring and fall dates again. He said Bowie views this year's schedule as "an experiment which as far as we are concerned did not work out."

The racing commission is expected to meet next month or in January to discuss the 1951 racing dates.

Chuck Dressen To Retain Two Dodger Coaches

Pitler And Sukeforth Stay With Brooklyn

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (INS)—The Brooklyn Dodgers brought an old warhorse back to the major league battleground today by signing 52-year-old Charles Walter (Chuck) Dressen to a one-year contract as manager.

Dressen, who managed the Cincinnati Reds from 1934 through 1937 and coached in the majors for ten years, succeeds Burt Shotton. Terms of Dressen's contract were not revealed, but he reportedly will receive a salary of about $35,000.

President Walter O'Malley of the Dodgers said Shotton has been asked to remain in the Brooklyn organization in "some capacity." O'Malley praised the record of the 66-year-old Shotton, who won two pennants in three full years as Dodger pilot.

However, Shotton's chances of remaining as manager following the departure of Branch Rickey were wrecked by a flood of protests from fans, who thought the Dodgers should have won the National League championship last season.

Dressen's selection had been rumored for several days. He served as a Dodger coach from 1939 through 1946 and the next two years was Bucky Harris' right-hand man on the New York Yankees.

Chuck managed Oakland to the Pacific Coast League championship in 1949 and again last season.

Dressen indicated he will retain two of Shotton's coaches, Jake Pitler and Clyde Sukeforth. He made it clear that he expects to direct the Dodgers from the third base coaching box, although Shotton was strictly a bench manager.

Little League Team Honored At Dinner

A dinner in honor of the Red Sox, winners in the Dapper Davision in the Little Baseball League, of the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, was tendered the players by their parents last night at the Loyal Order of Moose Home.

Manager Bob Collins acted as toastmaster, and introduced the guests.

Gifts were presented the manager and three coaches. Collins received a cigaret lighter and the three coaches were the recipients of leather wallets.

Baseball, boxing and football movies were shown. The films included the Cerdan-Zale championship fight and the 1948 major league all-star game.

Shay Leaves Bowdoin • • • Long Got 52 Points

Hyndman Forms Quint • • • Records On Deer Kill

By C. V. BURNS

George D. (Dinny) Shay, head coach of basketball and assistant football coach at Bowdoin College (Brunswick, Me.) for the past 14 years, has resigned to enter private business.

Mr. Shay is the same gentleman who coached LaSalle's only undefeated footall team in 1930, two years after the sport was introduced at the North Centre Street school by Arthur Slocum of Keyser who is now the Explorers' head basketball mentor.

John J. Long, present Cumberland police and fire commissioner, coached the gridders at LaSalle the year before Shay came here from Notre Dame University.

A grid star at South Bend, Shay served as line coach under Head Coach Adam Walsh (Notre Dame, 1925) at Bowdoin. While Walsh was in the service during World War II, Shay was head coach of the Polar Bears for two years.

"Dinny's" LaSalle team of 1930 won eight games and played a 6-6 tie with Waynesboro (Pa.) High. Charles "Rip" Engle, now head coach at Penn State, was the grid boss at Waynesboro in those days.

We believe that the defensive record set by LaSalle in 1930 is an all-time record here. Only 12 points were scored against the Explorers — six by Waynesboro and six by Windber. The Explorers themselves rolled up 174 points.

LaSalle's first stringers that season were "Lawrence "Buck" Reynolds, Kenneth "Hank" Lindsay, Charles McDade, John Blough, Metz Cioni, Joe Coulehan and John Silvestri on the line and Harry DeHart, Dave Conley, Hubert Fleckenstein and Robert "Peck" O'Neill in the backfield.

Nine of those players—all but Reynolds and Silvestri — were on Johnny Long's team of 1929. Long, incidentally, came to LaSalle from Catholic U. where he starred in football and basketball. In 1930 Long took over as athletic director and head coach at Newman Prep School, Lakewood, N. J., where he remained for five years.

• — • — •

Johnny Long, incidentally, set an all-time scoring record for Allegany county when he played for Allegany County High School just 26 years ago.

In a W. M. I. League contest against Bruce High School on the Greene Street court, the ACHS senior of 1924 racked up a grand total of 52 points. He sank 23 shots from the field and meshed 6 of 14 free throws as Allegany swamped the Westernport quint, 76-11.

On the same Allegany team were Charley Barrett, Nixon, Eddie Wolfe, Brace Krimm, Howard "Shorty" Radcliffe, Dave Sigel, George Wolfe and Bruce Cowden. "Ike" Law was the referee, Paul Schilling, scorer and Max Huddle, timer. Schilling and Huddle are now members of the clergy.

The appearance of Hyndman High School on the Barton High school schedule means that the Pennsylvania school will have its first basketball team during the 1950-51 season.

Lloyd Keller, Hyndman principal, says the big problem right now is installing baskets at Hyndman's new Community Center where the team will play its home games.

The court is 70 by 35 feet and has a 20 foot ceiling.

Hyndman hopes to play a light schedule the first season and most of the opposition will be provided by junior varsity quints of other schools.

The Bedford County school was represented by football teams from 1932 to 1940 but dropped out because of the lack of finances.

"There is plenty of agitation for football again and we might give it a fling in a couple of years," Mr. Keller declares.

The school has grown since the last football team of 10 years ago. In fact, there are 140 boys enrolled from the 7th to the 12th grade.

Maryland's six-day open season on buck deer only gets under way on Monday (Dec. 4 to 9) and Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, tells us that he would not be surprised if a new record for kills is established in Allegany county.

The record for this county is 201 and was established on the 6-day season in 1948.

Minke points out that a phosphorous poison killed off a good number of the deer population in the summer of 1949 and the total bucks bagged by nimrods in December decreased to 177. This was a good showing yet it was 24 under the peak year of 1948.

Garrett is Maryland's No. 1 deer county and the all-time high of 517 kills was chalked up there in 1946. Last year the six-day bag was 493.

• — • — •

A record of 98 slain male deer was established in Washington county last year. This exceeded the previous high of 87 recorded in 1948. Washington, Garrett and Allegany counties come under Region No. 1 of which Minke is the chief warden.

There are six counties in Maryland in which male deer become legal quarry on Monday. In addition to the three already mentioned there are Frederick, Cecil and Worcester.

• — • — •

The Maryland record for deer kills was 1,090, set in 1947.

Jack Murphy, center of the Cumberland Spas, arrived here safely Monday at 11 a. m., after taking two days to travel 300 miles by automobile from his home in Newark, N. J.

Murphy left Newark on Saturday at 10 a. m., and during his harrowing experiences on the road he ran into terrific winds, snow, sleet, and rain, was kept off the Pennsylvania turnpike at Harrisburg and was delayed six hours at a service station when his gas line froze.

"Believe it, or not," Murphy told Coach Bill Keegan, "I was traveling by auto and not by dog sled."

Brion Spots Louis 21 Pounds In Scrap At Chicago Tonight

South American Has Youth In His Favor, 6,500 To See Bout

By CHARLES DUNKLEY

CHICAGO, Nov. 28 (AP)—Joe Louis, former heavyweight champion, who didn't quit when he was ahead, will try to make it from behind tomorrow night when he renews a projected ring comeback against a foe 13 years younger.

Before a Chicago Stadium crowd of probably not more than 6,500, the once-famed Brown Bomber, now 36, will battle the Argentine heavyweight, Cesar Brion, in a bout scheduled to go 10 rounds or less.

Louis was soundly defeated last Sept. 27 by Champion Ezzard Charles in a 15-round title bout at New York.

The ex-Brown Bomber, whose tawny fists once were so potent, has not looked impressive in training sessions for this engagement, although he hopes to go into the ring at 215 pounds, three lighter than against Charles.

Brion, at 194, will spot Louis some 21 pounds, but at 23 the South American has that great equalizer, youth, in his favor.

Both Louis and Brion predicted a knockout victory.

Louis said he would try to end the bout as soon as possible, but he declined to name the round. Brion said he would finish off Louis within seven rounds.

"I'm going to shoot for a knockout from the very start," Louis said. "I'm going to throw as many right hand punches as possible. One of them is sure to land."

Hymie Wallman, manager of Brion, predicts a quick knockout for the South American fighter, who has won 31 out of 34 bouts. Said Wallman:

"We are sending Brion out to get Louis in the very first round, Brion thinks he can score a knockout and so do we."

Brion is a stand-up fighter, lacking skillful boxing ability and a devastating punch. He wades in without caution and has won his last four engagements. His main achievement was a second-round knockout by Tami Mauriello in 1949.

Explaining his comeback attempt, Louis said: "I believe my bad showing against Charles was due to the fact I had an off night. I'll find out for sure tomorrow night."

The inference was that Louis definitely will quit the ring if he fails to knock out Brion.

Laurel Track Releases Names Of New Board

Former Ambassadors Among Eight Members

LAUREL, Md., Nov. 28 (AP)—The secretary of the Senate, two former ambassadors and a one-time under secretary of defense are on the new eight-man board of directors of Laurel Race Track.

The makeup of the board was announced today by Morris Schapiro, Baltimore businessman who took over a controlling interest in the track yesterday.

His son, John D. Schapiro, new Laurel president, heads a board which includes Stephen Early, Leslie Biffle, James Bruce, Breckinridge Long, C. E. Tuttle, J. M. Willis and Morris Schapiro.

Early, a one-time top assistant to President Franklin D. Roosevelt, resigned recently as under secretary of defense. He is now vice president of the Pullman Company.

Biffle is secretary of the Senate and staff director of the Democratic Senate Policy Committee.

James Bruce, a native Marylander and a nationally known banker and industrialist, is former U. S. ambassador to Argentina.

Breckenridge Long, former ambassador to Italy, has long been identified with Maryland horse racing and breeding.

Willis is head of the Bethlehem Steel Company's shipbuilding division. Tuttle, a retired industrialist, is also a member of the Maryland Jockey Club's board of directors. The Jockey Club, which owns Pimlico race track, sold its Laurel stock to Schapiro for an undisclosed sum.

George H. Martin will continue as manager of Laurel, a post he has held ten years. He was elected a vice president of the new organization.

Three Shoot 67s, Lead Qualifiers

MIAMI, Fla., Nov. 28 (AP)—Two Florida professionals and an amateur from Detroit turned in 67s today to lead 165 golfers in the qualifying round of the 27th annual $10,000 Miami Open Golf Tournament.

Sammy Sigh, who operates a Miami golf driving range, and Lou Bateman, professional at the Ocala Country Club, both shot 33-34—67.

Amateur Jack McGivern of Detroit played a 31-36—67 over the 7,000-yard Miami Springs course. Par is 35-35—70. McGivern's 31 on the front nine was four under par and the best nine-hole score of the day.

Deer Season Opens Monday, Checking Stations Listed

Eleven checking stations will be in operation in Garrett, Allegany and Washington counties during the open season on deer, December 4 through 9, Joseph A. Minke, regional game warden, announced last night.

A new station is being established in Washington county and will be located in Anthony Ankeney's store at Clear Spring, 12 miles west of Hagerstown. The other station in the same county is Powers' Service Station, near the bridge at Hancock.

Garrett county's five checking stations are: William Biddington's, Grantsville; Sheriff's office, Oakland; Murphy's Restaurant, Friendsville; Matt Storey's, Deep Creek Lake, and the Swanton postoffice.

In Allegany county hunters may have their deer checked at Police headquarters, Westernport; LaVale sub-station, Maryland State Police; Shipway's Inn at Green Ridge, and Lewis' Store, Oldtown.

Army And Navy To Play Before 102,000 Sellout

Cadets Prohibitive Favorite Saturday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 28 (AP)—It's Army-Navy week in Philadelphia and if you're not an admiral or general you'll have trouble getting a hotel room.

You'll have even more trouble if you're trying to find a ticket or so for the football game at Municipal Stadium Saturday.

The huge horseshoe seats 102,000 persons, and it's the one football game that's a sellout every season. Most of the tickets, of course, go to past and present members of the two service academies. And you have to know some of those gentlemen to get tickets.

The President will be here, as usual. But this year there will be special secret service precautions to guard his safety, a step taken after the assassination attempt in Washington earlier this month.

Navy will be the home team and so the President and his party, with the customary electric blankets, will sit on the Navy side.

Army will be a prohibitive favorite to win the game, having swept its first eight games without a defeat. Navy has won only twice.

The Army and Navy football teams will arrive in town Friday and will go immediately to suburban seclusion at country clubs. Parties have been arranged for the teams Saturday night at the Bellevue-Stratford and Benjamin Franklin.

One possible drawback is in prospect for the festivities. The weather bureau, in its long range forecast, said the weather trend indicates mixed rain and snow Saturday or Sunday.

Rain or snow, it's unlikely there will be an empty seat at the stadium come game time Saturday.

High Point Will Drop Football

College To Broaden Scope In Basketball

HIGH POINT, N. C., Nov. 28 (AP)—High Point College notified the North State Conference directors today that it was abandoning intercollegiate football indefinitely.

The announcement said the school would quit the gridiron sport until such time "as the manpower situation enables the small college to have a normal male enrollment and until the program may be carried on without undue financial sacrifice by the school."

Dr. Dennis H. Cooke, High Point College president, asserted that the football schedule had brought about "terrific deficits." He declared the board of trustees and the athletic council both had approved the abandonment of football. He asserted that the small college, with small game revenues, had found it almost impossible to meet the keen competition of larger schools for football players.

Simultaneously with the announcement Dr. Cooke announced that High Point College would attempt to broaden its scope in basketball.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28—(INS)—It costs anywhere from $75 to $250 to pay your respects to the referee in the National Basketball Association—depending on the approach.

League President Maurice Podoloff today fined Player-Coach Al Cervi of the Syracuse Nationals $250 for berating an official during a game at Minneapolis Nov. 15.

Algasir Takes Bowie Feature

Scores Head Victory Over Flying Weather

BOWIE RACETRACK, Bowie, Md., Nov. 28 (AP) — H. A. Kimball's Algasir, the $4.20 favorite, withstood a long stretch challenge from Flying Weather to capture the featured $3,500 Charles Purse by a head here today.

Dark Favorite, owned by W. Ewing, earned third in the field of ten sprinters contesting the six-furlong event. Darrell Hartley, an apprentice rider from Calgary, Alberta, rode the winner, which covered the three-quarters of a mile in 1:12 4-5.

Jockey Joe Culmone, who rode six winners here yesterday, when facing Willie Shoemaker, let down his followers today by failing to win in the first seven races. The Italian booter was aboard five choices in the first six races. The best he could accomplish was three seconds.

In the feature, Blue Rocket obtained the early advantage but was caught by Algasir. The favorite held sway through the stretch but was hard driven to turn back Flying Weather, owned and trained by Dion K. Kerr, Jr., Culmone finished seventh astride Mr. Buster.

A small turnout of 4,217 racing fans was present today despite clear but cold weather.

Sooners Voted Tops In Final Football Poll

Army Is Runner-Up; Irish Do Fadeout

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP)—Coach Bud Wilkinson, who expected his graduation-riddled Oklahoma team to get its lumps this year, wound up instead with the nation's No. 1 football team for 1950.

The Sugar Bowl-bound Sooners were ranked tops in the final Associated Press poll of the season with Army's all-conquering Cadets a distant second.

Third place was awarded to Texas, beaten only by Oklahoma, 14-13. The Longhorns were followed by: 4-Tennessee; 5-California; 6-Princeton; 7-Kentucky; 8-Michigan State; 9-Michigan, and 10-Clemson.

Wilkinson lost his entire first line and three of his starting backs after last year's eventful campaign. All he had to remind him of his past glory was fullback Leon Heath, a good reminder though. If anyone had mentioned a No. 1 ranking and a Sugar Bowl berth to Wilkinson, the coach would have sent the person the Optimists' Club Medal.

A total of 319 sportswriters and sportscasters from coast to coast took part in the final balloting and 213 named Oklahoma as their No. 1 choice. All told, the Sooners garnered 2,963 points on a basis of 10 points for first, nine for second, eight for third, and son on.

Army, which finished as the No. 2 team last year behind Notre Dame, piled up a total of 2,380 points. The Cadets were named first by 38 experts.

It was a sad year for the Irish, who were named as the team most likely to succeed this year in a pre-season poll. The thrice-beaten Notre Damers didn't even make the top 20. It was the first time in a decade they didn't rate a berth in the first ten.

Standings of all teams receiving at least 10 points with first-place votes in parentheses. (Points figure on 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis).

KEYSER ATTORNEY PRAISES CHAMPS—Emory Tyler, Keyser attorney, (standing) served as the toastmaster at the dinner given Sunday by Vigilant Reel and Hose Company in honor of the Keyser Firemen, co-champions of the 1950 Bi-State Baseball League. Keyser shared the title with Westvaco when the teams were unable to get together on a site or date for the 7th and deciding game. Tyler lauded the players and said the firemen and fans were proud of the team. Seated at the table, left to right, are: Richard (Mickey) Herndon, city councilman; Mrs. and Mr. Elmer Hartman, city councilman; Tyler, Mrs. Tyler, Dr. Samuel Koplovitz, club physician and booster, and Mrs. Koplovitz. On a rack in the background are the jackets which were later presented to the players and Dr. Koplovitz.

Hill Prince Is American Champ Racer For 1950

NEW YORK, Nov. 27—(INS)—C. T. Chenery's Hill Prince today became the first race horse to be designated as the thoroughbred racing association's "American Champion."

The Virginia-bred three-year-old colt easily won out in the TRA's first annual poll of the nation's top racing secretaries.

Maryland Lands Two On Southern Conference Team

Ward, Wingate Named By Writers, Coaches

RICHMOND, Va., Nov. 28 (AP)—Players from eight of the league's 17 colleges today were named to the 1950 All-Southern Conference football team of the Associated Press.

Duke, Maryland and North Carolina each placed two. North Carolina State, Wake Forest, South Carolina, champion Washington and Lee and runnerup Clemson had one star selected to the mythical eleven. The team was picked by vote of Southern Conference area sports writers and head coaches of circuit football squads.

Selected to quarterback the eleven was Gil Bocetti, a 185-pound junior at Washington and Lee. Bocetti's deadly pitchouts, handoffs and passes guided the W&L team to six victories and no defeats in conference play. Bocetti's coach, George Barclay, an All-America guard 16 years ago at North Carolina, describes his ace as the finest split-t quarterback in college today. Bocetti calls McKeesport, Pa., "home."

With Bocetti in the backfield are Duke's Billy Cox, South Carolina's Steve Wadiak and Clemson's Fred Cone. Cox, a 180-pound senior from Mt. Airy, N. C., is one of the country's finest passers, kicks well and can more than hold his own as a runner.

Wadiak Is Standout

Wadiak, though only five feet, nine inches tall, has been the pride and joy of Coach Rex Enright at South Carolina since he first set foot on the Columbia, S. C., campus. Many coaches regard the 190-pound junior from Chicago as the most dangerous runner in the league. Wadiak personally spoiled Clemson's record this season when his long runs against the Tigers held them to a deadlock and knocked the Bengals from the nation's unbeaten and untied teams.

Cone, Clemson's great fullback, contributed 86 of his team's 329 points this season. Clemson Coach Frank Howard thinks there's no finer fullback in the land. Cone's home is Elmore, Ala. He's a 185-pound senior.

The lightest fellow in the line is Bob Ward, the pride of Maryland, who fills a guard slot. Ward weighs only 189, is a junior from Elizabeth, N. J. but the coaches who have praised Ward's play are many. Michigan State's Biggie Munn said after his team lost to Maryland, 34-7, that "Ward wrecked us. We were unable to run a play through, around, or over him."

Joe Dudeck, a North Carolina junior from Hazelton, Pa., got the other guard assignment. He's a 203-pounder and, like Ward, stands five feet, 10 inches.

Holdash Is Center

North Carolina's Irvin Holdash easily was the choice of center. The 200-pound bruiser from Youngstown, Ohio, has been labeled the "perfect linebacker" by his coach, Carl Snavely. Holdash was named the Associated Press "lineman of the week" for his performance in North Carolina's 14-7 loss to Notre Dame.

North Carolina State's Elmer Costa and Wake Forest's Jim Staton, a pair of 225-pound giants, are the tackles. Costa, an even six-footer, hails from Paterson, N. J. His play sparked state to an upset win over Maryland and a tie with Wake Forest, Staton, tallest player on the team at 6-feet, 4-inches, is from Greensboro, N. C.

Senators Interested In Vern Stephens

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 (AP)—"If the Red Sox are interested in disposing of Vern Stephens," President Clark Griffith of the Washington Senators said today, "I'd be interested in trading for him."

Griffith Stadium, home of the Senators, however, has been Stephens' jinx park. Since coming to the major leagus nine years ago Stephens has hit 178 home runs, but only one of those was hit in Washington.

In addition, that lone homer didn't even reach the fence in Griffith Stadium. It was an inside-the-park affair off pitcher Scott Cary on July 29, 1947.

Holland Is Starter

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Nov. 28—Harold Holland of New Orleans, La., who will serve as starter during the Charles Town Jockey Club's 18 day race meeting—December 4 to December 23, inclusive, reports that he has been breaking an exceedingly large number of three year olds from the Bahr stall gate.

Name Three Captains

It is believed that Virginia Tech is the only major basketball team in the country with three captains. Three seniors, Dick Sayre, Tex Tilson, and Gene Jones were so close in the balloting that the squad decided to have all three as captains.

Esso
ESSO STANDARD OIL COMPANY

COPR. 1950, ESSO INC.
Don't let this happen to you!
Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Winter-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 28—(INS)—Frank Seltzer, whose thriller "711 Ocean Drive" was supposed to be filmed under police guard because of the underworld racing wire syndicate's objection, has a yarn that will be another hot potato.

Seltzer plans to make "The Kansas City Story" telling the inside of the Pendergast political machine and the underworld empire inherited by Charles Binaggio and Johnny Lazzio.

Edmond O'Brien will again star for Seltzer, who procured all his authentic material from Alfred Klein, associate counsel to Rudolph Halley, chief attorney in the Binaggio case. He also has exclusive rights to private papers and testimony gathered by the Kansas City Star, that ultimately smashed the Pendergast machine and unmasked Binaggio.

Dean Jagger, who last year won an Academy Award for "Twelve O'Clock High" and has done little since, gets another opportunity at Paramount in "When Worlds Collide" which is planned to be a thriller to end all thrillers.

Dean Jagger

Dean will play Hendron, the scientist, who is in charge of preparing a rocketship to take a a group of people off the earth before it collides with another planet. One notable sequence pictures the total destruction of New York City.

This imaginative epic will be adapted by Syd Boehm, former Hearst reporter. Well, wouldn't it take a reporter to be able to cope with a siuation like this?

Princess Andree Khan, former wife of Aga Khan, said today that she thinks California is the most beautiful country, like the French Riviera where she makes her home part of the year. She said she was tired from three days of traveling, even though our trains are comfortable.

She was the guest of honor at a dinner given her by Mrs. Dolly Walker tonight. Jack Warner is entertaining for her at a small party Thursday night.

When I spoke of Rita Hayworth's wedding she said it seemed so long ago. She said Rita and Aly are both well.

Virginia Mayo will get the same sort of subtle sex build up (is that subject ever subtle?) that Faith Domergue has been receiving.

After looking at lady-like Virginia do that zingy dance with James Cagney in "The West Point Story," Jack Warner decided that perhaps the studio has a potential glamour girl on their contract list instead of the refined leading ladies she has been playing.

With this in mind, J. R. McHugh's original story, "Dance, Jenny, Dance," has been bought for the blonde beauty. It's about a settlement worker who takes a job in a chorus to raise money for her needy charges and winds up almost a strip teaser.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

According to Roberto Cantu Robert of Mexico, my newspaper friend, Dolores Del Rio and Luis Riley are seeing each other constantly and seem very happy.

Judy Garland told me that she has never felt better, when I saw her at LaRue dining with Vincente Minnelli.

Arlene Dahl with Lex Barker, for the first time didn't deny there would be a wedding before long.

Elaine Scott, the ex-Mrs. Zachary, and John Steinbeck have set December 28 as their wedding date.

Ruth Roman was beaued to Ciro's by Mortimer Hall. The night before she dined with him at the Sportsmen's Lodge. Mortimer is the son of the wealthy Mrs. Dorothy Schiff.

Shelley Winters eating hamburgers at one of the places along the strip with Pepi Lenzi.

Finland's "Rock," Now 80, Still Stubborn About Peace

HELSINKI—(AP)—Juho K. Paasikivi, Finland's peacemaker No. 1, turned 80 this week at the helm of the only surviving democracy on Russia's western border.

Most Finns feel that without this temperamental, bulb-nosed octogenarian—whose name means "rock" in English—their fortunes might have been greatly different.

Climaxing a unique career in the brief but eventful history of free Finland, Juho Paasikivi was the first Finn to be reelected to the presidency for a second term. That was last February.

Described by close associates as "probably the most hot tempered man in the country," Paasikivi's biggest job has been peacemaking.

He was called in as premier for half a year in 1918 to settle internal peace after the Finnish civil war.

He negotiated the peace with Russia at Dorpat, Esthonia, in 1920, establishing the eastern boundaries of the new Finnish republic.

Paasikivi also negotiated the so called March peace of 1940, ending the Russo-Finnish winter war. Shuttling between Helsinki, Moscow and sometimes Stockholm, first to try to avert and then to settle that war, he was known as "Finland's peace ambassador."

He sounded the conditions for a separate peace between Russia and Finland in Stockholm in April 1944 and from behind the scenes played an important part in Finland's disentanglement from Germany.

A former banker and conservative party "strong man," Paasikivi wound up with a greater personal knowledge of Soviet top leaders than most western diplomats.

No western chief of state could match President Paasikivi's record of some 50 meetings with Stalin and Molotov in the Kremlin.

Called in repeatedly, even by those who disliked his views profoundly, to talk Russia into laying down her guns, stocky, crop haired Paasikivi is a man who knows his worth.

Strong-willed and self-confident he can fly into a towering rage when his advice is not heeded.

Paasikivi who speaks the Russian language like his mother tongue views Russia as "the one overshadowing problem in Finland's foreign relations."

Finland, he has said, is too small to afford any foreign policy which is directed against Russia, but from his inauguration address he has stressed throughout that "without political freedom and independence the Finnish nation can not live happily to fulfil her destiny."

How to keep Russia's confidence without sacrificing the cherished freedoms of the Finns is the task the president has set before himself. He will be 85 before his term expires.

Popular Courses

WINNIPEG—(AP)—Winnipeggers prefer to study salesmanship, interior decoration and how to improve their English, rather than learn what makes the atom bomb tick. Enrollment figures for the University of Manitoba's evening institute showed preference for such courses while few displayed interest in a hpysics course on atomic energy.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Beans, Animals and Laughter

I AM easily the most passionate devotee of radio contests around, having been suckled on "The American Boy" which had half the youth of America writing the last line of limericks in an earnest attempt to win a pony. (I never met anyone who won a pony and I would have been seriously embarrassed if they'd sent me one, not having any place to put it).

John Crosby

Radio contests, though, have a sort of dreamy detachment from anything in my experience; many of them sound as if they'd been invented by someone on another planet, a person—if you could so label him—whose desires and attitudes differ pretty sharply from my own.

Take this one, for example, which I pass on direct from the contest form of station WJZ.

PROGRAM: God's Truth Marches On.

SPONSOR: Ayerow Christian Projects.

PRODUCT: Religion.

BRIEF TERMS OF CONTEST OR OFFER: If you would like to have a Billy Graham Evangelistic Rally, send a letter or postcard to Dr Ayer, Box 403, New York 8, N Y.

It drew, in case you're interested, several hundred letters, but not enough to lure Billy Graham to New York to dispense his product, religion.

Then the Breakfast Club is running—or was running, last I heard—a navy bean-growing contest. You just plant navy beans in a pot and write in once a week telling how high your plant has grown. The Breakfast Club, which was doing a little bean-growing of its own, measured its plant against yours and announced results from time to time. No, there weren't any prizes. Just the satisfaction of out-doing Don McNeill, if that sort of thing affords you any satisfaction.

More and more, the rewards for these contests are becoming moral rather than material victories. ABC, for instance, recently concluded a letter-writing contest in which youngsters were invited to tell what animal on the "Saturday at the Zoo" program they would like to have as a pet. The animal receiving the most votes didn't get a thing, the prize-winning letter writers got darn little (a copy of a book called "True Zoo Sories"); the real winner was the animal's trainer. He got a Westinghouse refrigerator.

One of the most earth-shaking of the recent competitions on the air lanes was a 177-city search for "Miss Mirthquake of 1950," or—to put it in English—the girl with the heartiest laugh. This little gem was conducted by Harold Peary, the former "Great Gildersleeve," to whip up a little interest in his new show. "Miss Mirthquake of 1950" was run to earth in Knoxville, Tenn., in the person of Mrs. Lena Duncan, age 49. Mrs. Duncan was shipped to Hollywood and put on the "Honest Harold" program where she emitted her mirthquaking laugh. Ears were split as far east as Denver.

* * *

A British delegate to the United Nations elevated one eyebrow after several of Ed Murrow's recent news programs which were cast on a rather lofty plane. "I say," he murmured, "Murrow's taking on a rather high moral tone lately. I wonder—when are they going to frock him?"

* * *

A new record, released last week, has a song called "Sam, Don't Slam the Door" on one side. On the other: "When Your Lover Has Gone."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

In Memoriam

In memory of our wife and grandmother, Christina A. Brant, who passed away November 28, 1935.
Today recalls the memory
Of a loved one gone to rest.
And the ones who think of you today,
Are the ones who loved you best.
Sadly missed by her husband and granddaughter, William M. Brant and Georgia Brant.

In memory of our dear husband and father, James H. Hipsley, Jr., who passed away one year ago, November 28, 1949.
Precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is still,
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled,
But God in His wisdom has recalled,
Bonations love has given,
Although his body slumbers,
His soul is safe in heaven.
Sadly missed by his Wife and Children

Mt. Savage KC Has Anniversary

MT. SAVAGE — Msgr. William Kelly, pastor of St. Martin's Church, Washington, was principal speaker at the 45th anniversary dinner of Mt. Savage Council No. 1058, Knights of Columbus, Saturday evening at the Clary Club, Claryville.

"Catholic Action" was the subject of his remarks. Tribute was paid to the charter members.

Other speakers were Hugh D. Nolan, Frostburg, state district deputy; James Gillespie, grand knight of Mt. Savage Council, and Patrick A. Fannon, one of the charter members. John R. Uhl was toastmaster.

Fannon said that 60 young men became knights when the council was organized on Thanksgiving Day in 1905. The late Msgr. John W. Dowling, then pastor of St. Patrick's Church, was the first chaplain.

Charter members still living are William L. Hamilton, New York City; Henry Mullaney, Cumberland; Charles W. Carney, John F. Gallagher and Fannon. A dance followed the dinner. Fifty persons attended despite the inclement weather.

Frostburg School To Hold Circus

FROSTBURG—Beall Elementary School will hold its circus Thursday at 7:30 p. m. A main performance will be given in the school auditorium several times during the evening for those who buy general admission tickets.

Added features will include movies, candy sale, fish pond, rummage sale, games, freaks, grab bag, and "house of horrors." Soft drinks and sandwiches will be sold in the school lunchroom.

Proceeds from the circus will be used for school improvements. The affair is sponsored by the Student Council under the faculty direction of Paul Arbogast.

Rev. Charles L. Voll To Become Local Minister

Assuming duties as pastor of St. Matthew's Evangelical and Reformed Church at Bowling Green on Sunday will be Rev. Charles L. Voll, who has been pastor of the Brush Creek-Manor charge in Pennsylvania.

He attended grade and high school in Jeannette, Pa., and received a bachelor's degree at Franklin and Marshall College in 1941. He graduated from the Theological Seminary at Lancaster, Pa., in 1944 with a divinity degree.

In June of 1950 he was awarded the Th.-M. degree from Western Theological Seminary at Pittsburgh.

Mr. Voll is married to the former Catherine Cornell of Blairsville, Pa., and they have two children, Rebecca Ann and Gretchen Gray. The family is expected to arrive at Bowling Green tomorrow.

During the summer services were conducted by Thomas Phillips, of Garwood, N. J., a student at the Theological Seminary at Lancaster.

Since he resumed his studies the services have been held by a retired Christian Church minister, Rev. Jesse Kauffman.

The Bowling Green congregation has been holding services in the Fire Hall, but starting Sunday it is planned to use the church basement pending completion of the edifice.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

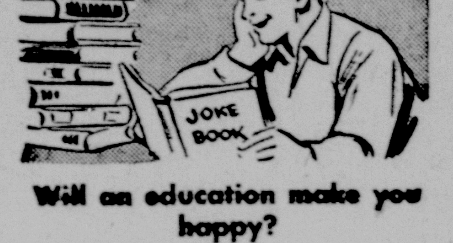
By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Should you be afraid to "impose on" your friends?

Answer: Within reasonable limits, yes, but the fear can be carried to neurotic extremes. There are people who not only will not ask favors, even from their best friends, but refuse gifts that are offered freely and "with no strings attached." What they really are so much afraid of may be their own intense, repressed longing to be helpless and dependent. To feel free to accept help from others when you need it, knowing you'd "do as much for them," may show more real self-reliance than being fanatically "independent."

Is any society actually ruled by women?

Answer: No, says Dr Geza Roheim in "Psychoanalysis and Anthropology." "Matriarchy" is "a state that exists only in the fantasy of certain writers." There are primitive tribes in which—because the facts of biology are unknown—a child's ancestry is traced through his mother, and the father, who is not believed to be related to him plays a relatively minor part in his life. But the tribal rulers are almost invariably men, and the chief authority in a child's life is not his mother, but her father or brother.



Will an education make you happy?

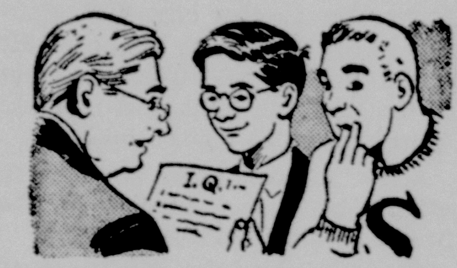
Answer: At worst it's like money which, as someone has said, at least helps you to forget your troubles. For besides increasing your earning power, education should add greatly to the number of things you'll be able to enjoy, provided your inner conflicts do not get in the way. Life can be immeasurably richer for a person who has learned to enjoy reading than for one who has not, and even a smattering of psychology makes everyone you meet more interesting. More stress should be laid on "education as a means to pleasure."

Do you re-live your past at the movies?

Answer: Yes, writes Italian psychologist Enrico Fulchignoni. The images on the screen, while real in themselves, create an unrealistic state of mind by reviving memories of your own past experiences, and it is these, not the picture, that stir you emotionally. You are actually re-living your past in a condition very much like dreaming, so that your critical faculties are dimmed and your unconscious mind "takes over." Whether you realize it or not, unless something like this happens the picture will merely bore you.

Are all criminals neurotic?

Answer: By no means. Criminality as such is not a psychological condition; it is the act of breaking the laws of the community you live in, and may have any of several causes, including defective moral training. It is not neurotic to steal if you never were made to feel stealing is wrong. But a very large proportion of criminals are neurotic, and break the law in order to rebel against authority, to get some unconscious satisfaction, or even to get themselves caught and punished to ease secret feelings of guilt.



Does your social background effect your I.Q.?

Answer: Yes, writes Julian Blackburn in Biology and Human Affairs (London). The comparison of scores made in intelligence tests by members of different social groups or classes is dangerous and unreliable. Factors like an individual's attitude toward the test or toward competition, his familiarity with language, how much training he has had in abstract thinking, and whether he has been "coached" beforehand affect his score too much to make it fair to compare it with that of a person with a different background.

Vossler Takes Oath As Keyser JP

KEYSER, W. Va. — Charles H. Vossler, recently elected Justice of the Peace in Keyser to fill the unexpired term of A. A. Hood, who died in August, took his oath of office Monday.

Due to the state having not made its audit of the criminal records used by Justice of the Peace Hood, this part of Vossler's work may be delayed.

Barton Women Plan Supper At Fire Hall

BARTON—The Ladies Auxiliary of Barton Hose Company No. 1 will hold a pork and beef supper tonight at the new fire hall. The supper will be served from 5 to 8 o'clock and proceeds will go toward the various projects sponsored by the group.

Stock Prices Fall Sharply Due To Korean War Crisis

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 (AP) — A staggering setback in the stock market today was brought on by the grave international crisis in Korea arising from Chinese Communist aggression.

Losses were the greatest since the early days of American defeats at the hands of advancing North Korean troops late in June at the outset of Korean fighting.

Losses ran from $1 to $4 a share and higher throughout the entire list.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell $2.50 to $83.20. That drop indicates a loss of around $2,500,000,000 in the quoted value of listed securities.

Gen. MacArthur's statement that we face "an entire new war" started brokers' wires humming with selling orders before the stock market opened for business.

The volume of trading came to 2,970,000 shares, as against 1,740,000 shares Monday. The total was close to the largest of the year.

The market almost completely ignored good news developing that in other times probably would have touched off a wave of buying. Railroads continued their reports of remarkable recoveries, and there was a flood of dividends in the extra, increased and stock categories.

Some of the heaviest setbacks among leaders included General Motors off 1⅜ at 46¼ (day's most active issue), U. S. Steel 1⅜ at 38⅞, Nickel Plate 9½ at 164½, Bethlehem Steel 1⅞ at 43⅞, Chrysler 2 at 68⅛, Goodyear 2⅜ at 59, Montgomery Ward 2⅛ at 63½, Douglas Aircraft 2½ at 82½, Union Pacific 4¼ at 94¾, Philco 2 at 45¾ Motorola 2⅝ at 48⅜, American Telephone 1¼ at 150⅝, Phelps Dodge 3 at 61¼, Allied Chemical 2¼ at 57, duPont 2⅛ at 79⅜, American Can 3 at 97, Sante Fe 2⅞ at 130⅛, Illinois Central 2¼ at 54, Standard Oil (NJ) 3⅝ at 85⅞, and Gulf Oil 3¼ at 79½.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

"The Authority on Authorities"

IF YOU HAD MIRRORS

MANY a matter at which you must guess—or at least try to estimate—would be simple if you had a well-placed set of mirrors behind the various players. In fact, after a hand is over, there are frequently apparent facts which you can then see might have been inferred early enough to do you some good. But hindsight, accurate as it is, can't ever pay you the dividends that foresight offers. In fact, you have to be stout-hearted sometimes to keep it from depressing you and weakening your keenness as the next deal comes up.

This is the deal that brought grief to a fine pair of Long Islanders who had journeyed to Easton, Pa., for the big annual tournament there. Bob Tyson in the North and Ray Duggan in the South had led their section in the first round, but barely failed to win when they guessed wrong on this deal.

Somewhat of a philosopher, Mr. Duggan says: "The bidding was so crowded that perhaps I should have bid 5-Clubs instead of 5-Hearts to give my partner a picture of the hand. However, I wasn't sure but what he had a short club suit, and I didn't want to give him the idea of playing it at clubs anyway. As you can easily see, we got a bad score, since a reluctant sacrifice by me at 6-Hearts would have resulted in a made contract. Several other pairs did as we did, since we got 4 points on the deal as against a top of 13."

Speaking of the play, he added: "The 5 of hearts on the K lead makes it tough to underlead the club A to make possible a diamond ruff."

Suppose Mr. Tyson had decided his bidding in the North had given almost an exact picture of his hand, and instead of doubling had passed to make his partner decide what to do. But all such suppositions only lock the stable door after the horse is gone. What would you have done?

2,751 Dwelling Units Termed "Substandard"

Advance Census Tabulation Cited

Special advance tabulation prepared by the Bureau of the Census shows that Cumberland has a total of 2,751 occupied dwelling units which are "substandard."

The advance report was received here under an agreement with the Cumberland Housing Authority.

Surveys for the 1950 census of housing were made here last April.

The report states that a dwelling unit is considered "substandard" by the Public Housing Administration if it is either dilapidated or lacks a flush toilet and bath inside the structure for the unit's exclusive use, and hot running water.

Of the 2,751 total, all but 138 are occupied by white persons.

Majority, or 2,020, are rented and the average is three rooms. Those which are owned by the occupants, in both white and colored categories, average six rooms.

Only 17.6 per cent of the dwellings occupied by white persons were found to be in dilapidated condition but 52.9 per cent of the non-white units were termed dilapidated.

Of the 109 non-white dwelling units occupied on a rental basis, 3.7 per cent were reported to have no piped running water inside the structure.

In the same category, 75.2 per cent were found to have only cold piped running water.

Majority of all the substandard dwellings are occupied by from one to four persons.

Over half, or 60.1 per cent, are listed as having two to four dwelling units in one structure.

Gross rent payments averaged from $15 to $34 monthly.

Of the 2,020 renter-occupied substandard units, 66.5 per cent in the "not dilapidated" class had running water but no private flush toilet.

Total number of families occupying the substandard dwelling units was 2,236, including 119 colored families.

Range in size averaged from two to five persons.

Ohio Woman Is Improving

The 27-year-old woman who was severely burned yesterday morning in a freak accident after a B. and O. passenger train uncoupled near Patterson's Creek Station, was reportedly in good condition late last night at Memorial Hospital.

She is Mrs. Frances Rositano, wife of Cpl. James Rositano, 3526 East 149th Street, Cleveland. She suffered first, second, and third degree burns from the waist down.

Mrs. Rositano, her husband and daughter were returning east after spending the Thanksgiving holiday in Cleveland. She was walking from one car to another on Train No. 18 and the cars uncoupled as she stepped on a platform.

Attendants said Mrs. Rositano fell between the cars and landed on the ground. A broken steam hose sprayed her with scalding mist. An air hose also was ripped loose.

An ambulance from Cumberland brought the woman to the hospital. Mrs. Rositano was returning to a Marine base with her husband and child when the accident occurred. The train arrived here about 6 a. m. and she was admitted to the hospital at 7:15.

Navy Veteran Vanishes From His Home Here

Police Search For John David Varner

Police of 13 eastern states have been asked to help locate John David Varner, 24-year-old Navy veteran who disappeared from his home at Potomac Park here on Thanksgiving Day.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Varner, the young man is unmarried and described as five feet four inches tall, weighing 140 pounds, blue eyes and dark brown hair. When last seen he was wearing a tan fingertip coat, brown trousers and tan shoes. He did not wear a hat.

Varner left his home at Potomac Park, according to his mother, at 5 p. m. Thursday, shortly after eating Thanksgiving dinner with the family. He said he was going to Cresaptown to visit a family which had recently installed a television set and he wanted to see how it worked. He was last seen, investigation disclosed, at 1 a. m. Friday at the Fairgo Tavern.

Mrs. Varner said the young man served two years in the Navy during the war and had been stationed at various places in this country. He was unemployed for a time since his discharge and later worked on the local flood control project as a laborer. More recently, about two or three months ago, he began operating a radio repair shop on Harrison Street. He has not been at the shop since his disappearance.

The young man's mother said he is a qualified radio technician and has not been ill nor despondent. Neither has he made a habit of going anywhere without letting his family know his whereabouts.

She said he took no clothes or personal affects except his 1933 model Chevrolet four-door sedan. The car is black with grey fenders. The left rear fender was missing. License tag number is 632-654.

Mrs. Varner said she has appealed to state and county authorities for help in locating her son and the State Police have contacted police in 13 states over their teletype and radio networks.

Slemmer named the following committee members:

Entertainment — Reese J. Diehl, chairman, and H. K. Hensel.

Area National Guard Units To Seek Members

Col. Millholland Says Extensive Drive Set

National Guard units of Cumberland, Frostburg and other parts of this area are planning an extensive recruiting campaign, according to Col. Randolph Millholland, commanding officer of the 115th Infantry Regiment.

Col. Millholland said 40 men can be enlisted in Headquarters Company and Company C here and 20 can be enlisted in Company D at Frostburg.

In addition the battalion has been ordered to bring its officer personnel up to full strength and Col. Millholland said he can place an ammunition and pioneer officer, a communications officer and a couple of Infantry platoon leaders.

For enlisted men, any able-bodied male, of good moral character over the age of 18, married or single can be enlisted. Men over 17 can be enlisted if they have the consent of one parent.

Col. Millholland said an arrangement has been worked out with Selective Service so that members of active National Guard units such as those here, will not be drafted. He said there is nothing in the law providing for exempting Guardsmen from the draft, but Selective Service has agreed that men with good records in the Guard will not be drafted, so long as they remain in the Guard.

In the recruiting campaign being planned, the Colonel stated, emphasis will be placed upon the advantages of being well trained to meet any emergency, along with numerous other opportunities offered by Guard membership.

Veterans and non-veterans will be sought during the drive.

Flood Control Work Blamed In $1,750 Suit

Used Car Dealer Contends Lot Damaged

A civil suit for $1,750 for damages allegedly resulting from the current flood control project in Cumberland was filed in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday by Harold A. Clayton, who formerly operated a used car lot at 35 Wineow Street.

The suit, filed for Clayton by Attorney John M. Robb, named the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, George and Lynch, Inc., a corporation, and the Corps of Engineers of the United States Army as defendants.

In his declaration Clayton cited that prior to the month of December, 1949, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland obtained a grant from the Federal government for a flood control project. This project was begun under the control and supervision of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. Subsequently, the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland entered into contract with George and Lynch, Inc., a firm of contractors, to do the work.

The declaration alleges further that the Mayor and City Council entered into an agreement with Clayton for right of entry and easement on and upon his used car lot at 35 Wineow Street. Under this right, the suit contends, permission was granted to use Clayton's lot to do certain working connection with the flood control project. In turn Clayton was to receive certain scheduled payments and the Mayor and Council agreed to restore Clayton's property upon completion of the work to as good or better condition than it was at the beginning, the suit alleges, but failed to do so.

Although the work was completed on or about April 15, Clayton contends, he has been unable to operate a used car business on that lot since then. He alleges that (1) the surface was improperly graded and full of mud holes, (2) that certain poles, lights and signs were not returned to positions, (3) signs were damaged, (4) roof of the building was damaged, and (5) two trucks belonging to Clayton were placed where they were stripped and damaged by vandals.

School Board Lacks Authority Over Some Buses

Public Vehicles Outside Jurisdiction

County School Superintendent Charles L. Kopp yesterday issued a statement in which he emphasized that he and the school board have no jurisdiction over public service buses which haul school children in Cumberland.

This comment came in response to a statement made Monday night at the council meeting when Street Commissioner Lucile W. Roeder suggested notifying Kopp about the overcrowding of school buses.

Mrs. Roeder's remarks followed a recommendation from Police and Fire Commissioner John J. Long that a new ordinance be enacted to prevent overloading of buses carrying school children. Long said that he had received complaints from mothers that buses were being overloaded.

"Police investigation showed that one bus from Baltimore Avenue to Fort Hill High School carried more than 55 students, another bus from Bedford Street to Allegany High School carried 76 students," Long stated Monday night.

"The buses referred to by the commissioner apparently are public service buses over which we have no jurisdiction," Kopp emphasized yesterday afternoon.

"The school board buses do not pick up children, except those who are physically handicapped, within the city limits of Cumberland," the superintendent added.

"If there is anything that can be done to improve this condition we will be glad to cooperate with Commissioner Long and other interested persons," Kopp concluded.

Concerning difficulty encountered by county school buses in bringing children over snow-covered roads to classes, Kopp said that only one of the county's 80 school buses was unable to negotiate its route. That was in the Green Ridge area, he added.

The superintendent also said that absenteeism yesterday was lower than during the first school day after the weekend storm. He stated that Fort Hill High School, as an illustration, had 91 per cent attendance yesterday.

More Snow Falls With More Wind

The fifth day of continual snow flurries ended yesterday in the same way with the forecast calling for still more flurries and squalls today.

The official recorded snowfall for Cumberland was given as six inches yesterday and the flurries of the evening were listed as negligible. At 11 o'clock last night the temperature in the city was 28 degrees.

Maryland State Police said that an eighth of an inch of snow had fallen during the evening in Narrows Park.

At 11 o'clock last night, the temperature at Deal, Pa., was 18 degrees with 13 inches of snow on the ground and a light snow blowing. At Thomas, W. Va., it was 16 degrees above zero, 26 inches of snow laying, and a light snow blowing.

Garrett County got another inch of snow yesterday morning.

This brought to 19 inches the official measurement since last Friday night, when the first real storm of the winter broke. Some of the recordings in the county were up to 26 inches.

Most of the snowfell yesterday morning from 6:45 to 9 a. m., with the thermometer dipping 22 degrees. Other readings in the area included 18 degrees at Frostburg where the depth of snow was recorded at nine inches.
